NEW ALARM COMES FOR SAFETY OF U. S. LINE

DUE TO REPORT BY CAPT. GRANT

Army Base at Columbus is Kept in Readiness for Instant Action.

STILL WITHOUT A REPORT ON PARRAL

Lansing Says Mexican Situation is Unchanged in Any Respect.

Columbus, N. M., April 15.—Gravest concern for the safety of the American line of communication was manifested in military quarters here today. Every preparation has been made at the base here to keep the line intact. Motor trucks lined up and filled with rations stood in front of military headquarters awaiting orders and the telegraph station here was ordered to be kept open throughout the night.

No reason was offered at military headquarters for the unusual activity, but unofficial reports gave assurance that it was based upon reports made by Captain U. S. Grant, in command of a small detachment of Americans guarding the line at Ascension, sixty miles south of the border.

It is known that with diplomatic relations between the United States and Carranza pending, close watch is being made for a trace of 4,000 men under Gen. Gomez, who were reported to be moving from Sonora into Chihuahua in such away as to prevent possible menace to the American line of communication. However, reports from military sources indicate that the force today could not be located in southwestern Chihuahua.

UNCHANGED, SAYS LANSING.

Reports Give No New Status to the Chase for Villa.

Washington, April 15.—Secretary Lansing pronounced the Mexican situation unchanged today in any aspect. Unless official reports to General Funston disclose a more grave situation at Parral, where American troops were fired upon, than is now believed to exist, there was nothing to indicate that a change might be expected in the near future.

MILITARY COMPANY AT HIGH SCHOOL

War Department Agrees to Furnish Necessary Equipment.

Word was received Saturday from the war department at Washington, D. C., that will insure the organization of a military company consisting of 15 boys of the high school. The war department has agreed to furnish the necessary equipment and Captain George Byrondes has agreed to act as drill master. Permission to organize was granted by the school trustees some days ago.

WHITE SLAVE CASE IN FEDERAL COURT

Charged with violation of the white slave act, Tony Basias, alias Tony Mitchell and Elia Chiro, alias Eva Shoemaker, alias Eva Mitchell, 23 years old, were arrested Saturday morning in their apartments in the old "flat" district by Deputy United States Marshal William Hagarty and City Detective William F. Pappert. They were taken before United States Commissioner T. J. Logan and in default of $5,000 bonds were taken to the county jail. Their hearing has been set for April 28.

DR. G. S. BLISS ON SOUTH BEND PROGRAM

South Bend, Ind., April 15.—The social welfare conference will open in South Bend tomorrow and continue two days. About thirty speakers, many of them of state-wide and national reputation, will appear before the body to discuss important topics. Although the conference is primarily for St. Joseph county, the attendance will be augmented by delegations from northern Indiana cities and towns, making the conference the largest of its kind ever held in this part of the state.

Goshen Man Must Make Up His Mind Regarding Appointment.

Goshen, Ind., April 15.—Anthony Deahl, of Goshen, will today accept or decline the appointment offered him by Gov. Samuel M. Ralston as a member of the public service commission. According to a statement issued this morning he is under obligation to the governor to make his decision before

DISTRICT TEACHERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Vocational Pedagogues in Session at High School Building.

Vocational school teachers from Adams, Wells, Huntington, Noble, DeKalb, Whitley, Allen, Lagrange and Steuben counties were in attendance Saturday at the conference for teachers of practical arts subjects held in the assembly room of the high school building under the direction of the vocational division of the state department of public instruction, assisted by the extension divisions of Indiana university, Purdue university and the Indiana State Normal school.

Z. M. Smith, of the state department of public instruction, was the leader of the agricultural section; Adelaide Steele Baylor, of the state department, and Mabel T. Wellman, of Indiana university, leaders in the domestic science section, and J. J. Ritter, of Fort Wayne, in the industrial arts section.

Address by W. E. Gordon.

One of the features of the morning session was an address by W. E. Gordon, director of the Fort Wayne vocational school. Among other things Mr. Gordon said:

"Let us work together and conserve our youth and teach them ideals, give them the physical training, training for leisure, for literacy, for citizenship and for vocation and let us not forget that the vocation is very likely to determine the others. We have far too much waste in this fair land of ours. Other than pre-vocational school work and vocational school work we need a Y. M. C. A., social centers in the schoolhouses rather than in saloons, educational movies rather than the trash of the show, more wholesome amusements in the home, more parks to be enjoyed. Give us psychological experts in the attendance department and give us business men who will not exploit the ignorant and ignorant children. The schools cannot do it all; the whole community, the whole city, must realize the rights and the worth of the children. Let all our great institutions, home, church, school, state, industry and amusement work together to conserve rather than blight or destroy."

American Women's League for Self-Defense Votes to Wear 'Em.

New York, April 15.—American women will wear trousers as part of their uniform if they follow the example set by the 200 members of the American Women's League for Self-Defense. These women have been attending weekly drills here throughout the winter. The style of uniform came up for vote last night and was the cause of an animated discussion in which Mrs. J. Hungerford Millbank asserted that the suits worn by the women need not necessarily be uniform. She objected to trousers on the ground that such a uniform would be used by husbands.

FIGHTING NOW HAND-TO-HAND

Waves of French Infantry Hurlled Against Germans Before Verdun.

MEET VERY HEAVY LOSSES IN CHARGE

French Offensive Movement Results in Disaster, Berlin Reports.

London, April 15.—The German war office announcement of today contains the statement that the French have advanced to the attack before Verdun. The positions held by the Germans on Deadman's hill and near that point were assaulted by waves of French infantry, the report states, but the French charges broke down with heavy losses, those who reached the German trenches being killed in hand-to-hand fighting.

No mention of this battle was made in the official French reports of today or last night which gave the impression that only artillery fighting was under way.

On the Galician Front.

Increased activity on the Galician front is indicated by a statement from the Austrian war office. Along the lower strip there were several brisk engagements for possession of advanced positions. Russian artillery is bombarding portions of this front heavily.

In the Austro-Italian campaign repeated attacks were made on each side. Austrian troops captured an Italian position at Mrzlieh, beating back several counter attacks with heavy losses for the Italians. Near Sperone the Italians gained the advantage. The Austrians abandoned a defensive position and fell back to the next line.

The British steamship Shenandoah, 3,886 tons, has been sunk by a mine. The captain and part of the crew were landed. Two men are missing.

Germany Would Avoid Break.

A news agency dispatch from The Hague says the German foreign office is perturbed on account of the dissatisfaction expressed in the United States at the German note in regard to the Sussex. Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg is reported to have had several conferences with Ambassador Gerard and Count von Burian, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, and to have sent lengthy instructions to Ambassador von Bernstorff at Washington. According to these advices German officials now seem willing to do everything possible to avoid a rupture with the United States.

FIRST REHEARSAL FOR CENTENNIAL IS ON

Volunteers Are Being Tried Out at Saengerbund Hall Today.

BULLETIN.
A meeting of the committee on decorating and illumination will be held tonight at Centennial headquarters. The Homecoming committee will meet Wednesday evening, April 19. The Centennial cabinet will meet Tuesday evening, April 18. The Homecoming committee urges everybody who has friends in other cities to send or telephone (No. 3960) the names and addresses of such friends, so the committee may send them formal invitations to attend the Centennial on homecoming day.

The first assemblage of men who have been willing to take part in the big pageant of June 6, 7 and 8 is on this afternoon at the former Shriners' hall, Saengerbund building, corner of West Main street and Maiden lane. While it is probable that few, if any, parts will be given out, it is certain that Pageant Master Donald Robertson will select some of the leading men of the sixty who will be given speaking parts in the play.

Frank E. Stouder, chairman of the pageant committee, is still in need of applications for a large number of parts in the play. It appears that in some quarters the appeal for volunteers has been considered in a more or less frivolous way—as if the thing were of small importance—but now, with the knowledge that scores of the city's best known business and professional men are today gathered to give their serious attention to the production of the play which will make Fort Wayne and its history remembered down through the coming years.

All who wish to participate should send their applications to Centennial headquarters, in the Commercial club, without delay.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

WOMAN ATTEMPTS LIFE OF GERMAN SOCIALIST.

London, April 15.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that travelers arriving at The Hague from Berlin report that a woman fired two shots from a revolver at Dr. Karl Liebknecht while the socialist member of the reichstag was walking in the street. Both shots missed. The woman was arrested.

SCORES BOTH WILSON AND GEN. CARRANZA.

Washington, April 15.—Representative Rodenberg, republican, of Illinois, today introduced a resolution prohibiting shipment of arms and munitions of war into Mexico. It was not discussed and Mr. Rodenberg later issued a statement criticizing the Wilson administration and saying that Gen. Carranza has given "treacherous evidence of his 'treacherous character.'"

Anti-Typhoid Serum for Fort Wayne Militiamen

Nearly thirty members of company B, First Separate company, Indiana National guard, of Fort Wayne, gathered in the armory on West Berry street, Saturday afternoon and submitted to a hypodermic injection of typhoid serum. Dr. Charles R. Dancer, company physician, was in charge of the vaccination.

Each member, in order to become immune from the typhoid germ, must submit to three treatments, which will be given ten days apart. The serum, when given, administered, induces a poison against the deadly typhoid germ for a period of three years.

WAY IS LEFT OPEN BY U. S.

Statement Will Put Outcome of Crisis Squarely Up to Germany.

LANSING AT WORK

ON U. S. STATEMENT
Government Ready for Its Next Step in Submarine Controversy.

Washington, April 15.—The United States government today was ready for its next step in the crisis with Germany over submarine warfare. This was the preparation of a communication to be sent Berlin designated to bring the situation to an issue.

The communication will go forward within the next few days at the very latest. The impression prevails here that it will not be dispatched pending a careful examination of all the evidence at hand regarding recent submarine cases, including affidavits in the case of the English channel steamer Sussex, which arrived yesterday.

It is made clear that the forthcoming communication, although intended as the final word, the United States will still leave the way open for Germany to avoid a severance of diplomatic relations.

Secretary Lansing continued work today on the statement of the American case, which will be forwarded to Berlin and thus dispelled intimations that it might already have been started on its way. Mr. Lansing compared the affidavits on the attack on the Sussex, which arrived here last night, with information already before the department.

The president kept in touch with Secretary Lansing during the day and was informed of the contents of the affidavits received on the St. Paul.

SOCIALIST NOMINEE OPENS THE CAMPAIGN

J. Lloyd Armstrong, nominee for congress from the Twelfth congressional district, opened the socialist campaign Friday evening in an eloquent and forceful address before a good sized audience in the assembly room of the court house. Mr. Armstrong spoke on "The Brotherhood of Man" which he defined as meaning the collective ownership and the democratic management of things that are universally used.

Socialists are often misrepresented in their beliefs, the speaker said, by people who either purposely or through ignorance misconstrue their theories of government. He denied that the socialists believe in dividing up, in the sense that if a man owns a farm he is to sell that farm and distribute the money to some one less fortunate than himself.

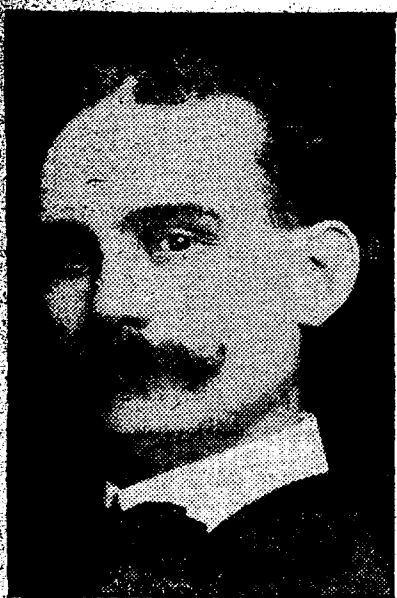

"We believe in dividing up, but it is the opportunity to work that we want divided," he explained.

Mr. Armstrong declared that the trusts were the natural development of the evolution in business. Under the socialist theory things should be made for use and not for profit.

WE USE MUCH COFFEE.

Washington, April 15.—The American people, long known as the world's coffee drinkers, actually consume forty per cent of the amount sold in the international markets, according to figures announced today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. More than one billion pounds of coffee came to this country last year. Germany normally is second in coffee drinking, but the war cut off her imports last year and made France second, with receipts less than one-fourth as large as America's purchases.

THREE PROMINENT TWELFTH DISTRICT REPUBLICANS RECENTLY HONORED BY THEIR PARTY.

WILLIAM H. WILLENNAR
Auburn.

BENTON E. GATES
Columbia City.

A. B. MIER
Ligonier.

At the recent republican state convention at Indianapolis, the delegates from this district met and nominated William H. Willenar of Auburn, as their candidate for presidential elector. If the republicans carry the state of Indiana at the next election in November, Mr. Willenar will be one of the fifteen who will meet in the office of the secretary of state next January and go through the motions of voting for the republican candidates for president and vice president. In other words, Mr. Willenar will be a member of what is called the electoral college, whose duty it is to do the actual voting for the presidential candidates. Theoretically, they each have the right to vote for any citizen of this country but actually no elected elector on any party ticket would dare vote except in accordance with the instructions of the people.

Mr. Willenar is a manufacturer of automobile supplies in Auburn. He has been successful in business and is highly esteemed for qualities of high character, both in business and private life. He was on the county ticket of DeKalb two years ago for representative in the legislature but the split in the party gave him no chance of election.

At the same district meeting of state delegates at Indianapolis, Benton E. Gates, of Columbia City, and A. B. Mier, of Ligonier, were selected as delegates to the Chicago convention, when the candidates for president and vice president will be nominated. Their preference for the nomination of president is said to be Charles W. Fairbanks, who will have the solid Indiana vote of the first ballot. As both of them were regular in the election of 1912 and voted for Taft, it is believed that they will support some regular republican, if it is clear that Fairbanks cannot be nominated. It is believed by most of the republicans at the convention that neither of the delegates is disposed to think that either Taft or Roosevelt should or can be nominated at Chicago.

Mr. Gates is one of the leading attorneys at the bar in the circuit composed of Whitley and Noble counties. He is generally on one side or the other in all the big cases tried in the court of either county. He was the republican county chairman for eight years and is widely known over the district as one of the most influential republican leaders in the Twelfth.

Mr. Mier is a scion of the founder of the Mier banking house of Ligonier and has large banking and real estate interests in other towns of the district as well as in Detroit. This is his first appearance in party leadership.

PRESIDENT COMMENDS INDIANA PARK PLANS

Wilson Writes Approval of Idea as Part of State Centennial.

Indianapolis, April 15.—President Wilson, in a letter made public today, wishes the Indiana state park memorial committee success in its efforts to obtain a series of state parks in connection with the celebration of the state centennial this year. The letter, addressed to Richard Lieber, chairman of the committee, follows:

"I thank you for acquainting me with the very admirable plan of the Indiana historical commission for a series of memorial parks in connection with your state centennial. This plan proposes to commemorate a way at once unusual and appropriate a notable event. The civic value of such state-owned public parks as your committee has in view seems to me beyond question. These parks would keep unspoiled much of the natural beauty of woodland and hill, and stream once common, but now rare and tending to disappear. They will afford recreation grounds and be a source of pleasure and refreshment to the public. Those who cannot themselves visit these parks will feel a quickened sense of civic satisfaction in the knowledge that they are public properties in which all have an equal right. I am glad that your commission has undertaken this work and heartily wish you success in it."

The park commission is a part of the general organization planning the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the admission of Indiana to statehood. One of the properties which the committee has under consideration as a site for a state park is a scenic spot known as "Turkey Run" in Parke county.

EVERYBODY KNOWS A MULE WILL KICK

Man Cannot Invite It and Then Recover Damages, Says Court.

Frankfort, Ky., April 15.—The kicking propensity of a mule is a matter of common knowledge, held the court of appeals here yesterday in reversing a verdict of $500 damages awarded J. M. Pratt against the Consolidated Coal company. From the testimony it appeared that Pratt, an employee of the company, was kicked by a mule when he struck the animal with a whip as he stooped behind it. "The mule would have been untrue to itself and false to every tradition of its breed if it had kept its heels on the ground," said the court, "and an employee cannot court danger by inviting a mule to kick him and then recover for consequent injuries." It was brought out that Pratt had never before driven anything but oxen.

Goes to Grave of First Wife to Die After Shooting Thru.

Indianapolis, April 15.—Charles W. Collier, 70, whose body was found lying against the tombstone of his first wife, yesterday, drank poison after shooting his third wife. Collier and his third wife, according to her statement, quarreled about money matters. He shot her in the shoulder, inflicting a slight wound. She called the police but Collier had left. His body was found in a sitting posture reclining against the tombstone of his first wife, who died April 17, 1913. His right hand lay on the grave and his face was turned to the sky. The tombstone bore his name as well as that of his wife. The latest Mrs. Collier was married three times.

MARSHALL TO HAVE OPPONENT IN OREGON

Salem, Ore., April 15.—At the primaries to be held May 19, filings for which closed today, the ballot will contain the names of Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio; Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa; and Charles E. Lockwood, of Oregon, as candidates for the republican nomination for president. Although Justice Charles E. Hughes has asked that his name be omitted, a lengthy petition has been filed asking that he be given a place on the ballot. The secretary of state has the petition under consideration. For vice president, Wm. Grant Webster, of Chicago, is the only republican candidate.

Woodrow Wilson's name will stand alone on the democratic ballot. Thomas H. Marshall will be opposed for vice president by Elliott W. Major, of Missouri.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

RURAL CARRIER GUY HART WINS Is Chosen Postmaster for Kendallville in Popular Election Arranged By Congressman Cline.

Kendallville, Ind., April 15.—Guy C. Hart, 28, a rural mail carrier, was selected postmaster of Kendallville by a popular vote, held yesterday, the result of which was announced late last night. There was a field of eighteen candidates, for whom a total of 1,520 votes were cast.

Every patron of the office, regardless of politics, was permitted to vote under a plan devised by Representative Cyrus Cline. The congressman had failed to determine upon a successor to J. T. Stahl, who died recently, before he could assume the office to which he had been appointed.

In a total of 1,520 votes cast Hart obtained 406. There were eighteen candidates. Representative Cline has promised to nominate the winner of the election and there is no appeal from the decision of the election committee. The salary of the office is $2,800.

In the big field of candidates William H. Reinbolt ran second, with 291 votes. Nelson J. Shook was third with 181 votes and J. W. McKellar was fourth with 177 votes. M. S. Lyman and H. M. Boszor ran a dead heat for the tail-end honors with eight votes apiece. Other candidates were Bert Moyer, William H. Gappinger, E. F. Wadsworth, Oscar E. Michaels, A. G. Hill, Willis E. Sawyer, Abraham Matzinger, Francis N. Varian, A. J. Strauss, William H. Vetter, William J. Fisher and John R. Smith, who was postmaster here during the first Cleveland administration thirty years ago.

KOSCIUSKO MAN A SUICIDE.

Bartlett B. Pullins Ends Life With Bullet and Rope.

Warsaw, Ind., April 15.—Hanging from the limb of a tree and with a bullet hole in the head, the lifeless body of Bert Pullins, 25, was found Friday near his home south of Warsaw. A small target rifle was on the ground near the dead man's dangling feet. It is supposed that he adjusted the rope, shot himself and then jumped. For some time Pullins had been dependent and had refused to enter into a conversation with his sister, Minnie, with whom he made his home. It is believed that his dependency was brought on by the death of his parents several years ago, as since that time he is said to have acted in a very peculiar manner. Thursday he and his sister had arranged to make garden on their farm and Pullins had left the home intending to go to a neighbor and borrow a horse. When he failed to appear late in the evening the sister became worried and telephoned to all the neighbors but no one could be found who had seen the man.

EX-SHERIFF OF NOBLE DIES.

Kendallville, Ind., April 15.—Christopher C. Simon, aged 70, ex-sheriff of Noble county, and a veteran of the civil war, died at his home Friday. Death came following an illness of two and one-half years. His last illness was brought on two weeks ago, when he was stricken with paralysis and rendered practically helpless. Christopher Simon was born in DeKalb county, March 13, 1846. Reared on a farm he engaged in agricultural pursuits until 18 years old, when he enlisted in Company K, Forty-fourth Indiana volunteer infantry. On September 14, 1865, he was given an honorable discharge. Politically Mr. Simon was a staunch republican and in 1884 was elected sheriff of Noble county—a position which he filled for two terms.

WILL TRY BIG CASE AGAIN

Auburn, Ind., April 15.—The case of Sanford F. Ort and Elmer E. Gandy vs. William F. McNaghy, executor of the will of the late Valorous Brown, for collection of two notes of $10,000 each, will be re-tried in Auburn in the DeKalb circuit court, beginning Monday, May 22, before Judge Dan M. Link.

Early in January the case was tried in the same court and resulted in a "hung" jury that stood about even. The case occupied several days' time, and several expert testimony witnesses were obtained from New York, Chicago, Columbus, Ohio, and other points, by both sides, to testify as to the genuineness of the originality of the figures. The contention of the defense is that the notes were raised. That there are three $10,000 notes, in favor of the above plaintiffs outstanding against the estate, and that two of these notes have been raised to $10,000.

BASEBALL FOR PAULDING

Paulding, Ohio, April 15.—Paulding baseball enthusiasts and backers, and promoters of the great national game at a meeting held this week took action which assures an active, effective independent team for the season soon to open. Arrangements for the settlement of the annual rental of the Barnes field, which was used for the ball park last season, were concluded. John Saurwein was re-elected manager, and authorized to proceed to engage and organize a team of players. It was arranged to use the bleacher seats on the south side of the park which were built for the Cincinnati game late last season, permanently.

SPELLING CHAMPS PICKED

Van Wert, Ohio, April 15.—Selection of pupils of the public schools who will represent them in the county spelling contest which will be held in the high school auditorium April 22, have been announced by Supt. Sharkey. The contestants were picked from those who stood highest in the elimination tests, which have been held the past few weeks. Those who are to represent the schools are: High school, Ward Cleveland, Cleo Morris, Velma Collins, Geraldine Albright, Hazel Ramsey and Jo Tingley; Fourth ward, Lee Stemen, Arnes Walter and Roland Gamble; Third ward, building, Martha Gribbler, Charlotte Sidel, Amber Clay, Effie Grosbeck and Bernice Dize; Second ward, building, Edna

Garrett Boy in Mexico

Garrett, Ind., April 15.—Walter Schomberg, the only Garrett soldier who is taking part in the United States army activities on the Mexican front, is in a hospital at Fort Bliss, Texas, recovering from an injury to his back. The soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schomberg, have received a letter from their son telling of his misfortune. He said that he had been given a horse not thoroughly trained and had crossed the Mexican border when the horse threw him, hurting his back severely, although not seriously. He was removed to the hospital at Fort Bliss. Schomberg is a member of Troop D, Fifth cavalry, and was stationed at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, until the chase for Villa started.

BIG DEALS IN REALTY

Huntington, Ind., April 15.—Two big real estate deals were closed by J. R. Day and A. O. Souers. They announced that Louis Schenker traded his fruit farm north of Huntington to Fred Lindley, for the Opera block in Bluffton. The valuation of the farm was $25,000 and that of the Opera block was $35,000. Mr. Schenker and Mr. Lindley will take possession of their properties May 1. Mr. Schenker will sell the stock on his farm before that date. Mr. Colton, tenant of the farm, will remain there until March, 1917. The other big deal was transacted by Melvin Anderson, who traded his business block in Huntington for a 240 acre farm near Centerville, Mich., the valuation of the business property being $7,000, and that of the farm $15,000.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ELECTS

Paulding, Ind., April 15.—At the regular meeting of the Paulding Commercial club, an election of officers occurred, at which all the old officers were unanimously re-elected. This includes M. C. Cass, president; C. A. Woods, secretary, and H. G. Remage, treasurer, and a vice president and board of directors. The entertainment committee was instructed to make arrangements for holding a social affair, with refreshments, to be participated in by the ladies of the members at an early date. The time was not set.

HAD TO KILL TWO HORSES.

Bluffton, Ind., April 15.—Charles Kaufman, living northeast of Ossian, lost two horses valued at about $450, several days ago. He had three horses hitched to a disc and was discing a field close by the road, when along came a horse belonging to Mr. Rapp. The Misses Ellie and Jennie Rapp were in pursuit of the animal and Mr. Kaufman came to their assistance in stopping the horse. He left his three horses in the field and they started on a run. Two of the horses were lacerated in such a horrible manner that they had to be killed.

HUNTINGTON MAN KILLED.

Huntington, Ind., April 15.—Henry Kronmiller, Erie conductor, who resided in this city, was pinched between two cars and instantly killed Friday in the yards at Kenton, Ohio. He was between the cars at the time the engine coupled on the train. Mr. Kronmiller spent a great part of his life in Huntington. He was born in Huntington July 13, 1883. William Kronmiller, who lost his life on the traction line at Homestead about one year ago, when a pole fell on him, was a brother of Henry Kronmiller, killed Friday on the Erie railroad at Kenton.

FIGHTS STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

Auburn, Ind., April 15.—Jeff N. Boyle, a well known citizen of the city of Butler, is the plaintiff in a case commenced in the DeKalb circuit court Friday against W. E. Longley, fire marshal of the state of Indiana. Mr. Boyle in his complaint sets forth that he is the owner of a building on the corner of Oak street and Broadway in the city of Butler. On March 20, 1916, the deputy fire marshal served him with an order to remove said building and all rubbish and debris resulting from such removal.

DIED AT AGE OF 86 YEARS.
Bluffton, Ind., April 15.—A message received in this city Friday conveyed the news of the death of Josiah Poffenberger, aged 86, for many years a resident of Bluffton. He passed away at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Abram Shanes, at Fairmont, Ind., where he had made his home with his daughter since she moved to that city about three years ago. Mr. Poffenberger came here originally from Maryland and for many years he was actively engaged in various pursuits here, and was in business for a number of years.

RECEIVER HAS REDKEY STORE
Portland, Ind., April 15.—Mark A. Wilson has been chosen receiver for the stock of jewelry owned by Walter W. Holmes at Redkey, pending the trial of a suit on note brought by the Farmers' State Bank against Holmes and John W. Atkinson. The note was originally given to Atkinson. Judgment for $300 is asked. Holmes executed a chattel mortgage on his stock of jewelry to secure the payment of the obligation.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.
20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?
21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.
22 And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.
23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.
24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?
25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?
26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?
27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.
28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?
29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind.
30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.
31 But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you.
32 For not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.
33 Sell that ye have, and give alms; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not.

The Fort Wayne Exposition.

The plans of the centennial celebration promoters in Fort Wayne to present in connection with the observance of the state's one hundredth anniversary of statehood in June an individual Fort Wayne exposition will be received with uncommon interest and with unqualified approval. The gorgeous historical pageantry will portray the advance of the state and the part Fort Wayne has played in it, to be sure, but the committee argues well in contending that but half the story will have been told when that is done.

There is another impressive fact that needs emphasis—a visible demonstration of what Fort Wayne has become in size and in commercial, industrial and civic achievement. Even we at home lack somewhat in adequate comprehension of just how big, how diversified and how great along many lines Fort Wayne has really become. It is natural to assume, as well, that uncounted thousands of guests who will come to Fort Wayne for the centennial occasion have even less information upon this subject, and they as well as we will be both gratified and benefited in learning more about the real Fort Wayne of today. We may legitimately supply this information, too, without laying ourselves open to the charge of cheap exploitation from merely mercenary motives.

Doubtless in no other way can this lesson be impressed more effectively than by the big exposition it is proposed to hold in connection with the centennial. We are quite confident the committee in charge has the proper conception of what it should be and will be able to carry out its plans in handsome fashion. It will be in no sense a cheap, tawdry, catch-penny enterprise. Rather it will be a most valuable education both to the home folk and to the visitors to Fort Wayne, and the centennial celebration will be infinitely more valuable and purposeful by reason of the Fort Wayne exposition.

It will be noted that while General Carranza is protesting against the presence of United States troops in Mexico and negotiating with Washington for their early removal, General Pershing is pushing steadily ahead in his search for Villa. His early success in that endeavor would, of course, be the most happy outcome of the new phase of the situation for as a matter of fact the United States is as reluctant to have its troops in Mexico as is the head of the de facto government there. The responsibility of General Pershing and his men have been tremendously increased by the new turn in affairs, but there is every reason to believe they will measure up to it full and that, too, as soon as reasonable expectation can demand of them.

Governor Ralston broke into the movies on Friday, enacting the stellar role in a film taken at the soldiers' monument at Indianapolis for the Indiana Historical commission to be used in connection with the centennial movement. It is said, too, that the governor rose handsomely to the occasion and bowed as enthusiastically to his imaginary audience as though acclaiming thousands were before him. Local interest in the new movie-production is going to be considerably augmented, also, when the fact leaks out that Samuel M. Foster, of Fort Wayne, also enacted a part in the film triumph in which the governor "starred."

That President Wilson is maintaining firmly his place in popular favor is clearly indicated in many places where recent voting provides any sort of straw to show which way the breeze is blowing. In Chicago, for instance, the vote may be called especially striking. In the presidential primary Mr. Wilson received 79,398 votes, with no contest and no especial effort to get out the vote. In the same primary the combined vote for Sherman, Roosevelt, Hughes, Root and Thompson was but 76,593.

In the newspaper accounts of the Indiana Woman's Franchise league convention which has just adjourned at Indianapolis we read that the forces of one faction went down in defeat before another faction. There is no longer any doubt but that in their efforts to secure equal suffrage the Indiana ladies are playing the political game true to traditional form and with painstaking regard for the accepted rules of war.

Regents of the University of Michigan are said to be determined to take a fall out of a number of members of the university faculty who have recently given utterance to statements of unneutral character bearing upon the conflict in Europe. There is no justification, either, in the fact that a lot of other thoughtless folk in addition to professors sometimes talk too much.

ASSASSINATION OF LINCOLN RECALLED

Tribute to Emancipator is Paid at Meeting of S. W. Stirk Circle.

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln was recalled Friday evening at the meeting of S. W. Stirk circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., it being the fifty-first anniversary of the shooting of Lincoln in Ford's theater at Washington, D. C., which occurred on April 14, 1865. Commander D. L. Beaber, Ambrose Kintz, S. S. Kelker, Frank Gibson and other visiting comrades paid tribute to the great emancipator. Mrs. Gibson, the president, also spoke and Mrs. Cora Wining gave a reading and several patriotic selections.

The annual rubber social of Stirk circle will be given on Tuesday, April 25, at home of Mrs. Fannie Gibson, 117 Wallace street. A supper also will be served.

Six new members were taken into Wayne circle, No. 45, Ladies of the G. A. R., Friday evening. At the meeting of the Woman's Relief corps of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R., Friday afternoon, it was decided to perfect a roster of the W. R. C. for publication. The roster will contain the names and addresses of the eighty-nine members in good standing and also the roll of honor of the dead. A large delegation will attend the state convention of the W. R. C., in connection with the G. A. R. encampment at Evansville, May 9-11.

Preliminary arrangements were made Friday evening at a meeting of the joint committees from Zollinger and Henry W. Lawton camps, United Spanish War veterans, for the eighteenth anniversary of Muster day, which will be celebrated April 26. The T. P. A. will meet at the Hotel Anthony this evening. Comrade Hiram Ward, Eighty-eighth Indiana regiment of the civil war, was reinstated Friday evening at the regular meeting of Sion S. Bass post, No. 40, G. A. R.

FOUND IN MEDICAL COLLEGE

Body of Dean Rucker, Who Was Killed in Richmond, Identified.

Anderson, Ind., April 15.—John F. Carr, a factory employe of Anderson, returned from Richmond and Indianapolis and reported that he had positively identified the body of Dean Rucker at a medical college in Indianapolis, and that he had caused the body in behalf of relatives. Rucker, who was about thirty years old and unmarried, fell or jumped from the vestibule of a Pennsylvania passenger train near Richmond about two weeks ago. The body was held at Richmond until early this week, and, being unclaimed and unidentified, was sent to Indianapolis, according to Mr. Carr, who was at Richmond Wednesday afternoon. The body will be taken to Vallonia, Ind., where a sister, Mrs. James Rumbaugh lives. Another sister, Mrs. Mattie Coffey, lives at Salem.

GOVERNOR AS MOVIE ACTOR.

Indianapolis, April 15.—Governor Ralston was a movie actor yesterday. He was the "leading man" of a "drama" staged on the steps of the soldiers' and sailors' monument. The pictures were taken for the Indiana historical commission and will be shown in more than 200 Indiana cities and towns during the course of the centennial celebration. A throng congregated while the governor was being filmed. Members of the commission also were taken. They posed in various positions.

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Hon. and Mrs. J. B. White are at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Dr. Luella M. Derbyshire, of Andrews, is in the city.

Paul Mossman and Herbert Rowe are at home from Ann Arbor university spending a brief vacation.

E. H. Bookwalter has gone to Winchester to inspect the camp of Sons of Veterans at that point.

Charles L. Olds has invented a shield for electric arc lights and through Worden & Morris, the attorneys, is applying for a patent.

Wing & Mahurin are drawing plans for the remodeling of John W. White's West Berry street residence. The house was formerly occupied by Councilman George W. Ely.

Health Officer Metcalf declared today that he was going to enter prosecutions against persons who do not keep clean the alleys on which their premises abut.

Col. Phil Dickinson, nominated by the republicans for city clerk, has declined to permit the use of his name on the ticket and the city central committee will have to choose some one who will accept the nomination.

Bids for the construction of an office building for the Centlivre brewery were opened today at the offices of Architects Tolan & Riedel and the contract was awarded to Henry Franke. The building will cost $4,000.

Last night the city council annexed to the city the territory included in the pretty new suburb of Lakeside. But it was a great shock to the people of the addition to learn that when they voted for annexation only the addition was included and not the adjacent territory they supposed would also be brought in.

The approach to the Columbia street bridge is in terrible condition. Yesterday team after team stalled in the roadway until there was a blockade of vehicles and horses had to be relieved of their loads before a passage could be cleared. The mud is hub deep on the hill approaching the ridge.

This Catholic diocese yesterday religiously observed the nineteenth anniversary of the consecration of Rt. Rev. Joseph Dwenger to the bishopric of Fort Wayne. Special services were held in the Cathedral and during the day the clergy of the city and from the outside gathered to pay respects to their bishop.

RUPTURE

Can Be CURED!

No old-style Truss, Steel Springs, Elastic Bands or Leg Straps; No Knife, No Operation, No Discomfort, No Loss of Time, Enjoy Grand, Glorious Comfort while your Rupture heals!

This Book Tells How. I Will Send It To You FREE!

Here's a book that EVERY ruptured person ought to read. It contains valuable information about rupture, describes the various kinds of rupture and rupture supports, tells how to hold and control rupture and how to avoid serious consequences, such as strangulation, etc. It has shown hundreds the way to better health and happiness. Send for it.

You Can Be Free from Truss Slavery and Rupture Misery

Are you going about harassed like an overburdened truck-horse with an ill-fitting truss or make-shift contraption gouging into your flesh or slipping out of place, causing you endless misery?

I've proved to a multitude of rupture sufferers that PERFECT support and COMFORT are possible. Let me show YOU Free how YOUR rupture can be held and held with PERFECT, GLORIOUS comfort.

Here Is Proof! The Schuiling Rupture Lock

It is a very different kind of support. It conforms perfectly with the shape of the body. It has no steel springs, no rubber or elastic bands, no plasters or leg-straps. Yet, when once adjusted to your needs you simply CANNOT displace it by any action of the body. You can put it on or take it off as easily as slipping your finger. This wonderful rupture support will really LOCK your rupture so it CANNOT come down.

It holds the rupture with wonderful firmness, yet with all the comfort that could be obtained by gentle pressure of the hand.

If you wear a properly fitted SCHUILING RUPTURE LOCK, your rupture can't come down, bear that in mind—your rupture CANNOT come down no matter what position you get into. Think of it! A rupture support that holds your rupture so it CANNOT come down and at the same time holds with REAL COMFORT.

Isn't such a rupture support worth spending a penny or two to find out about? Isn't it worth INVESTIGATING? Doesn't your own good judgment tell you as you read these lines that there MUST be something remarkable about a rupture support that will do this?

Fill out the following coupon and send it to me right now—right off, right now, while you are thinking of it and have address before you. Or write a post-card or letter if you prefer, but write it and send it AT ONCE.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Luke 12:19-33.

19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

22 And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind.

30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.

31 But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you.

32 For not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.

33 Sell that ye have, and give alms; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not.

The Fort Wayne Exposition.

The plans of the centennial celebration promoters in Fort Wayne to present in connection with the observance of the state's one hundredth anniversary of statehood in June an individual Fort Wayne exposition will be received with uncommon interest and with unqualified approval. The gorgeous historical pageantry will portray the advance of the state and the part Fort Wayne has played in it, to be sure, but the committee argues well in contending that but half the story will have been told when that is done.

There is another impressive fact that needs emphasis—a visible demonstration of what Fort Wayne has become in size and in commercial, industrial and civic achievement. Even we at home lack somewhat in adequate comprehension of just how big, how diversified and how great along many lines Fort Wayne has really become. It is natural to assume, as well, that uncounted thousands of guests who will come to Fort Wayne for the centennial occasion have even less information upon this subject, and they as well as we will be both gratified and benefited in learning more about the real Fort Wayne of today. We may legitimately supply this information, too, without laying ourselves open to the charge of cheap exploitation from merely mercenary motives.

Doubtless in no other way can this lesson be impressed more effectively than by the big exposition it is proposed to hold in connection with the centennial. We are quite confident the committee in charge has the proper conception of what it should be and will be able to carry out its plans in handsome fashion. It will be in no sense a cheap, tawdry, catch-penny enterprise. Rather it will be a most valuable education both to the home folk and to the visitors to Fort Wayne, and the centennial celebration will be infinitely more valuable and purposeful by reason of the Fort Wayne exposition.

It will be noted that while General Carranza is protesting against the presence of United States troops in Mexico and negotiating with Washington for their early removal, General Pershing is pushing steadily ahead in his search for Villa. His early success in that endeavor would, of course, be the most happy outcome of the new phase of the situation for as a matter of fact the United States is as reluctant to have its troops in Mexico as is the head of the de facto government there. The responsibility of General Pershing and his men have been tremendously increased by the new turn in affairs, but there is every reason to believe they will measure up to it full and that, too, as soon as reasonable expectation can demand of them.

Governor Ralston broke into the movies on Friday, enacting the stellar role in a film taken at the soldiers' monument at Indianapolis for the Indiana Historical commission to be used in connection with the centennial movement. It is said, too, that the governor rose handsomely to the occasion and bowed as enthusiastically to his imaginary audience as though acclaiming thousands were before him. Local interest in the new movie-production is going to be considerably augmented, also, when the fact leaks out that Samuel M. Foster, of Fort Wayne, also enacted a part in the film triumph in which the governor "starred."

That President Wilson is maintaining firmly his place in popular favor is clearly indicated in many places where recent voting provides any sort of straw to show which way the breeze is blowing. In Chicago, for instance, the vote may be called especially striking. In the presidential primary Mr. Wilson received 79,398 votes, with no contest and no especial effort to get out the vote. In the same primary the combined vote for Sherman, Roosevelt, Hughes, Root and Thompson was but 76,593.

In the newspaper accounts of the Indiana Woman's Franchise league convention which has just adjourned at Indianapolis we read that the forces of one faction went down in defeat before another faction. There is no longer any doubt but that in their efforts to secure equal suffrage the Indiana ladies are playing the political game true to traditional form and with painstaking regard for the accepted rules of war.

Regents of the University of Michigan are said to be determined to take a fall out of a number of members of the university faculty who have recently given utterance to statements of unbecoming character bearing upon the conflict in Europe. There is no indication, either, in the fact that a lot of other thoughtless folk in addition to professors sometimes talk too much.

How to Quickly Stop Indigestion

Here's a Simple Recipe That Can Be Mixed at Home.

Here's something that is said to be the best thing in the world for indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, acidity, stomach gases, belching, bloating, distress after meals, heart palpitation, nervousness and other signs of a disordered stomach.

Get at any good drug store two ounces, or about 50 cents worth of ordinary liquid Marlin (concentrated) and an empty eight ounce bottle. Take these home, pour the concentrated Marlin into the bottle and add pure water enough to fill it. Take a teaspoonful before each meal and watch the result. If it fails to do you more good than anything you ever tried, you'll be a rare exception, for those who know of it say its effects are simply astonishing.

When one can so easily obtain and prepare such a remedy at home and enough of it to last several weeks for only about 50 cents, it certainly seems a waste of money to experiment with uncertain patent medicines that cost twice as much and do no good.

Marlin, being in liquid form, is quickly assimilated by the stomach and has the advantage over the many so-called remedies in pill or tablet form.—Adv.

Congregational.

Plymouth Church.
Plymouth Bible school at 9:30. Morning worship at 10:45. The sermon on Sunday morning will be "Christ's Real Triumph in the Heart." Sunday morning will be "Decision Day," in both Bible school and church.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 the Rotary club of Fort Wayne will attend Plymouth church. All Rotarians are invited to come and bring their families. Rotarian Frank E. Stouder will sing "The Pains."

There will be meetings in Plymouth church every night during the week except Saturday. On Tuesday night R. A. Walker, state secretary of C. E., will speak.

On Friday night the "communion of the Lord's Supper" will be observed. This is an annual meeting and is regarded as the greatest hour of the year. Let all Plymouth people attend on Friday night at 7:45.

The new membership class will meet on Friday evening at 7:15 in the pastor's study for a brief session with the board of deacons.

All those who desire to have their children baptized will kindly report to Mr. Folsom at once. This is always one of the special features of Easter Sunday.

On Easter Sunday evening a chorus of sixteen voices will sing the "Messiah."

Plymouth church.
Easter Sunday will be Memorial day in Plymouth church and all are urged to send plants late in the week, or flowers on Saturday for Easter Memorial decorations.

Evangelical.

First Church
The several departments of the Sunday school meet promptly at 9:30. A very good interest is prevailing throughout the school, but the center of attraction just now is the Men's Bible class trip to Jerusalem. All the parties have covered the 800 miles by automobile from Fort Wayne to New York, and have set sail. Captain Willis Hite and First Mate C. A. Angersperger are leading, having gone 1,100 miles.

The hours of regular worship are 10:30 and 7:30. Rev. J. W. Metzner, presiding elder of the Fort Wayne district, will deliver the sermon in the morning; and in the evening the pastor will speak on the subject, "The Mystery of Peace." The Juniors meet at 2:30 in the afternoon. The Young People's meeting at 6:45 will be led by H. A. Gable.

There will be no mid-week prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, but 7:30 Thursday evening the pastor will conduct the customary passion night communion service. Every member and friend of the church is requested to be present at this very precious and helpful service.

Creighton Avenue Church
Sunday evening at 7:30 the presiding elder, Rev. J. W. Metzner, will preach and administer the Lord's Supper. The pastor, C. E. Boyer, will preach in the morning on the subject, "The Triumphant Christ." Bible school at 9:30 a. m. and Young People's meeting at 6:30.

The Amaranth Mission Study class will meet at the parsonage Tuesday evening. Wednesday afternoon the Women's Mission society will meet with Mrs. Evans, 911 Lake avenue. The devotional service Wednesday evening will be in harmony with the spirit of Passion Week.

Episcopal.

Trinity Church
Palm Sunday is always a great day in Trinity parish. We shall have the customary procession of the choir carrying palm branches, and palms will be distributed at the conclusion of the service. Richard Hartzler will sing "The Palms," with the choir assisting on the chorus. At the evening service the pastor will preach on the question, "Does It Make Any Difference What Church I Belong To?"

The following is the program of the day: Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m. Morning service, 10:45 a. m. Evening service, 7:30 p. m. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m. Holy Eucharist, Thursdays and Saints days, 9 a. m. Holy Eucharist, daily except as above, 7 a. m.

Lutheran.

Confirmation in Lutheran Church.
In most of the Lutheran churches the sacred rite of confirmation will be administered at the morning services. Confirmation is a churchly institution dating back to the times of the apostles. It is not a sacrament nor a means of grace, nevertheless a solemn and impressive ceremony. The baptized children of the church, after having received a thorough instruction in the doctrines of the Christian religion, repeat their baptismal vows and promises to remain true to the church of Christ, whereupon they receive the blessing of the church by the laying on of hands, and are commended to the intercession of the Christian congregation.

The act of confirmation is preceded by a public examination of the catechumen class in the Christian doctrines. This examination is held to prove to the congregation that the children have advanced far enough in Christian knowledge to be admitted to the Lord's Supper. In many churches this examination was held last Sunday afternoon, in others it will precede the confirmation ceremonies tomorrow morning.

The names of the catechumens were published in this paper last Saturday. Following is an announcement of Lutheran church services for tomorrow:

Emmanuel Church
Confirmation service, 10 a. m. The service will be in charge of the senior pastor, who will also deliver the confirmation address. 31 children will be confirmed.

English confirmation service with celebration of holy communion, 7:45 p. m. Three adults will be confirmed in this service. Rev. Fr. Wambganus will have charge of this service and will preach the sermon. The celebration of the Lord's Supper will follow the confirmation ceremonies.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings special services will be held, at which the Passion story will be read, interspersed with prayers and singing by the congregation.

St. Andrew's Chapel
Thursdays, 7:45 p. m., with celebration of holy communion. Services on Good Friday, 10 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Tuesday, April 25, 8 p. m., West Jefferson Christian.

Wednesday, April 26, 8 p. m., Church of God.

9:30 in the morning, the confirmation of the children's catechumen class will take place. On this account there will be no English service in the morning. There will, however, be an English service in the evening. In this service the confirmation of an English adult catechumen class will take place. The English Sunday school will convene exceptionally early, at a quarter of nine in the morning. A series of special services will be held every evening of the coming week, in which the Passion story, according to the four gospels will be read. Holy Communion will be celebrated on Maundy Thursday evening, Good Friday morning and on Easter Sunday.

The mission sewing society will meet on Wednesday afternoon in the school hall of Concordia church.

Trinity Church.
Regular services beginning at 10 a. m. Confirmation of a class of children at 11:30 a. m. The following societies will meet during the week: The Y. L. S. on Tuesday evening at Miss Elsie Mueller's, High street; the Unique society at the home of Mrs. William Hatendorf, on High street; the Sewing society at the home of Mrs. Tegmeyer, on High street. On Good Friday, at 7:30 p. m., evening services, with celebration of holy communion. Announcement to be made at the pastor's residence on Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 9 o'clock.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., a service will be held with Communion and sermon by the pastor.

On Good Friday morning at 10 o'clock, the pastor will preach the sermon.

Christ Church
Rev. H. C. Hadley, pastor, will worship in Dehm's hall, corner Calhoun and Jefferson, above Dehm's millinery store, at 10:45 and 7:30. The Catechetical class will be confirmed at the morning services. The subject of the sermon is, "The True Church." This is appropriate for Confirmation. At 7:30 the subject will be, "The Multitude That Followed Jesus at His Triumphant Entry." Our audience was very good last Sunday and we hope all our people will be able to attend our services while our new church is being built.

A large chorus under the direction of Mrs. Harman will give the Easter cantata on Easter morning at 10:45.

Methodist Episcopal.

Wayne Street Church
The services at Wayne street church will be of special interest Sunday, April 16, at 10:45 a. m., the morning worship, conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. Claud Travis. The subject for the morning sermon will be, "Christ, the Power and Wisdom of God." The Epworth League meeting at 6:30 p. m. These are attractive meetings. At 7:30 p. m., the evening service, the pastor will have charge. The first of the series of Passion Week meetings will begin at this time. The quartet, composed of Mrs. Clara Zellers-Bond, Miss Ethel Douglass, Karl Thompson and Clinton Wilson, will sing. The following musical program will be given during the day:

Four Generations of Kepler Family Meet and Celebrate.

Four generations met at the home of Mrs. Melvin Lackey, 2807 Oliver street Saturday. The youngest was Gloria Virginia Kinkade, seven weeks old, and her mother, Mrs. Alex Kinkade, aged 25, the grandmother, Mrs. Melvin Lackey, 50, and the great grandmother, Mrs. Louis Kepler, 75. Mrs. Kepler lived here forty-seven years, but a year ago moved to Grand Rapids, and the other three live in Fort Wayne.

Socially, the coming of the week preceding Easter is always a quiet one, for people who do not observe the Lenten season at all, are usually considerate of their friends who do. However, when one of your best girl friends is to be married Easter week, how in the world can one help entertaining during holy week as long as there wasn't a moment left before that time. Therefore the coming week will bring to pass several more parties for Miss Dorothy White, who has been quite busy for ten days accepting honors from many friends. The Misses Caldwell, of West Creighton avenue, are issuing invitations to a tea they will give next Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss White. Mrs. Roger I. Fisher and Mrs. Herbert Miller are both planning for the same bride-elect though invitations are not out.

Miss Mary Evans, of West Berry street, gave an informal sewing party this afternoon complimentary to Miss McIntosh, of Indianapolis, and to Miss White, a coming bride. There were twenty girls who visited and sewed and admired the spring flowers Miss Evans used to add beauty to the rooms. Refreshing things to eat and drink were served on one large and several small tables, while pink hooded candles lent further beauty to the room and tables. Miss White received a bouquet of pink roses and sweetpeas. The guests found lovely hand painted baskets of candy at their places. Miss Kelsey, of Huntington, was a visiting guest.

Miss Martha Tolan gave a luncheon at noon today at the English tearoom at Announcement!

Miss Sadie M. Marie Burns, teacher of piano, harmony and technique, formally of Harrison, Ill., will organize a music class in Fort Wayne and will be ready to meet parents of prospective pupils all day Saturday, April 22, at Packard music sales room.

Miss Burns has been teaching for fifteen years in Macon, Sangamon and Christian counties, Ill., and has specialized in teaching children and beginners. Her pupils on entering the conservatory have been highly praised as to their thoroughness in mastering the rudiments of music the most essential point in its study. In teaching she uses the most approved and modern methods and has been very successful. Her pupils show thorough and able training. A correct scientific training is of the greatest importance, especially to children. This fact is nearly always overlooked by parents and the result is that beginners are too often entrusted to the teaching care of faulty instructors. Pupils will receive a thorough grounding in all that is best and lasting instead of forcing them into displaying an insincere and show superficiality which too often passes for genuine accomplishment.

Miss Burns' home address is: Woodburn, Ind. R. F. D. Any one wishing to write her regarding her work will be promptly taken care of.

which she entertained eleven young girls, Miss White being the guest of honor. The table presented a beautiful and artistic appearance. In the center was a mound of flowers which later evolved into corsage bouquets of pink rosebuds, sweetpeas, snapdragon and swansonia blossoms tied with a tiny shower of narrow pink satin ribbon. Four large pink candles in crystal holders with pink shades and tiny individual pink tapers at each plate were used. The large candlesticks were partially wreathed in smilax and the honor guest was presented with a white wicker basket with tall handle that was filled with flowers similar to those in the corsage bouquets. The handle was tied with a bow of tulle ribbons. Accompanying the basket was a gift of something to wear from the hostess. Pink and white sweetpea design place cards lent just the right finishing touch.

Invitations to one hundred and twenty-five young people were sent out to the dancing party that Miss Irma Poole gave last evening at the Country club to do pre-nuptial honor to Miss White and Charles J. Worden. Music for the dancing was furnished by piano and traps players and refreshments were served by the club. A number of married people asked to chaperon the company, who enjoyed a delightful time, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hest, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Worden and Judge and Mrs. O. N. Heaton. The guests also included a number of young married people. Miss Poole had expected to have as her guest this time Miss Ethelyn Smith, of Muncie, who was detained at home the last moment. Visiting guests were Miss Dorothy McIntosh, of Indianapolis; Miss Marlin Mason, of New Haven, Conn., and a number of college students here for the spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, of West Suttenton street, are to entertain a dozen married people this evening in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dan McNamara, of Indianapolis, who came today to remain over the week-end.

An announcement party of the week that interests many young friends as well as family friends was that of Miss Evelyn Roberts, a daughter of Mrs. Joan Roberts, of Kinnaird avenue, to Bailey Crankshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Crankshaw, of Fairfield avenue. Mrs. Roberts invited twelve of her daughter's young friends to dinner. Sunburst roses in profusion formed a beautiful decoration for the dinner table. Favors of tiny Easter rabbits had a card hung on their necks and these cards bore the initial letters of the names of the young couple who are to wed some time in the future. Miss Roberts is exceedingly young and in every way a charming young girl. Mr. Crankshaw was graduated from Tri-State college and is now doing agricultural work with Monro Nursery, Monroe, Mich.

Miss Marv Fry is in Chicago for a few days' visit with friends. Ralph Lane, of Indianapolis, is a visitor in the city for two or three days.

Miss Agnes Klopferstein has gone to Decatur to remain over Sunday with friends.

Miss Edith Hartman, of Crescent avenue, will entertain the J. E. club on Friday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Sudlow, of Chicago, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Potter, of the Hongland, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kimmell, of Chicago, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Reed, of 119 Monroe street.

Miss Georgia Weaver returned to Warsaw on Friday after a visit with Mrs. C. C. Gandy, of Wildwood avenue. Miss Leona Wilkinson, of 1312 Washington boulevard west, is to entertain the So-Char-Rea club on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Charlotte Sites, who is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Sites, returns next Monday to her studies in Michigan university.

Mrs. L. E. Rose, of Lake avenue, is to leave on Sunday for Newark, N. J., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. C. H. Billing, for some time.

Mrs. Jack Kuhn, of Fairfield avenue, has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Littleton Tough, Jr., and family.

There will be a meeting of the Children's Ward association on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Leland Johnson, 2504 Webster street.

Mrs. J. F. Bennett, of Cottage avenue, and Mrs. S. D. Melzheimer, of East Wayne street, left Saturday for Sandusky City to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pfeiffer.

Mrs. Mason Long has gone to Chicago to meet her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Strayer and little child, who are coming from Los Angeles for a visit of several weeks in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Melching and Mrs. William Baade will go to Peru Saturday evening, where they will attend the confirmation services in the Lutheran church of that city Sunday. Miss Paula Stoepelworth, for whom they were sponsors, will be confirmed.

Miss Virginia Olds, who left a week ago for Pittsburg and New York city, has extended her visit in the former city where she is the guest of Miss Alice McClellan, because of several opportunities to dance at social affairs, including one today at the Penwood club. Miss Olds is to start on Tuesday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bash, and Mrs. C. S. Bash, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schreck and Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Bester, Jr., are going to Lima, Ohio, next week to hear the performance of "Princess Pat," in which musical comedy Miss Lucy Bash, another daughter of the family, is appearing in an octet. Miss Bash also took the principal role for two weeks recently when the prima donna of the company was compelled to be absent.

Fort Wayne will be represented in the cast of "The Shoemaker's Holiday," a quaint old English comedy, which will be given by the senior class of Western College for Women at Oxford, a Tree day, May 17, by Miss Doris J. Shirey, 1705 Illinois street. So far as known, this is the first presentation of Thomas Dekker's rollicking comedy in the United States. Dekker was a younger contemporary of Shakespeare, who published "The Shoemaker's Holiday" in 1600.

The play contains sixteen characters, all of which will, of course, be impersonated by young women. A surprise party was given on Mrs. William Smith, of 1808 Lumbard street, on Thursday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Smith's daughter Clara planned the party. Mrs. B. Steward, Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. H. Sherman won prizes in guessing contests. Miss Clara Smith won the prize in a spelling match which was the occasion for a lot of fun. Participating in this good time were Mesdames J. Garrison, C. Noble, F. Hackman, B. Pepper, F. Gronau, B. Smith, L. Smith, H. Subkowski, H. Sherman, F. Myer, B. Steward, E. Hackman, A. Bennett, C. Niemeyer, Erma Lepke, Clara Smith, B. Wadington, A. Crismore, W. Washburn, G. Valroff, G. Tiesman, F. Schaeferacker, L. Fredericks, Ilo Smith, Jean and Helen Steward, James, Mabel and Virginia Bennett, Roger Hackman, Kathryn Pepper and Wilson Smith.

Cots Needed at Relief Union.

The workers for the Relief union at 1118 Hanna street, have a pressing need just now that they are unable to meet in a financial way, but which friends, looking through their batteries at house-cleaning time may be able to remedy somewhat in replenishing the union's need, which is for cots. Cots for children especially are needed and the need is immediate. Naturally, the union will not refuse new cots if anyone is inclined to give them.

Lakeside School P-T. Club.

The parent-teacher club of the Lakeside school held a meeting on Friday evening and decided to drop their agitation for a new school building and instead ask for improvements on the present building to provide for kindergarten and seven or eight grade departments. Herman Traxler was named chairman of the committee to draw up a petition to be presented to the board of city school trustees.

Hoff-Drill.
Mr. Charles D. Hoff, who has been employed at the F. Schanz studio for ten years, was married on Wednesday in Union City to Miss Helen Drill, of that city. The bride and groom have returned here and have gone to housekeeping in Savilla avenue.

Koons-Stout.
Miss Bernice Stout, of Bluffton, and Mr. Harry Koons, of this city, were married in Lansing, Mich., this week, according to a report received from Bluffton. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Stout, of Bluffton, and her relatives knew nothing about the wedding until Friday.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

The Shakespeare club will meet on Monday with Miss Ellen McKeag. Mrs. Sam E. Taylor will read "Kindling," the play by Charles Kenyon.

The General Culture club will meet on Thursday with Mrs. J. Grosjean. "The Bible in Literature" is to be the subject of the day's program. Stories of bible women will be related.

The first annual spring luncheon of the Twentieth Century club will be held on Thursday. The subject of the meeting is Indiana. Mrs. Meigs will be toastmistress.

The College club members met with Mrs. O. N. Guldin on Friday afternoon. The program consisted principally of an educational and interesting talk by Rev. A. J. Folsom on the subject of "Scientific Socialism." Mr. Folsom explained the true meaning of socialism and of its evolution as a matter of progress, and of the distinction between socialism or sociology and anarchy. Mrs. Redding will address the club at its next meeting, at the home of Mrs. Guldin, on "The Workingman's Compensation Law."

The Equal Franchise league met on Friday evening at the Y. W. C. A. and members listened to a talk by Mrs. Fred McCulloch on the question of whether or no suffrage is a success in California. Mrs. McCulloch declared with conviction in the affirmative and then proceeded to give numerous facts and reasons concerning what suffrage has accomplished in that state, to support her contention. The next meeting of the league will be held at the home of Mrs. O. N. Guldin, in response to an invitation extended at the meeting yesterday afternoon. The date will be April 25.

The Mothers' club will meet next Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., at which an address will be given by Judge O'Neill, who "fathered" the mothers' pension bill.

Next Monday is Easter Potato Loaf Day.

What Do Flowers at Easter Say? It All Depends: Are They For Wife or Mother, or For Sister or Sweetheart?

The Easter "flowergram" is no longer merely the conventional lily. The blossom gifts must now be given according to an etiquette all their own.

And he who gives his mother the kind of flowers his sweetheart ought to have or his sweetheart the sort of posies he should have given his mother will show himself as a failure of the first degree.

of flowers—which is a very sad state indeed.

For instance, what could be more terribly embarrassing for a young lady than to receive on Easter morning a large azalea plant? Horrors! What atrocious taste!

But if the Most Wonderful Girl in the World awakes Easter morning to find a basket of roses on her doorstep, there will be smiles for some young man when he saunters up to that same step, wearing his shiny tie and his cutaway coat, along about church time.

And then as life progresses, and the Most Wonderful Girl becomes the moderately wonderful wife of the young man who sent the roses, for some other young man—the etiquette of flowers must again be observed.

For the wife sweetpeas are the thing, according to the most fashionable florists. And if there should be a very little girl, a dainty cluster of daisies are her Easter portion, along with the rabbit and the Easter eggs.

WOLF MEISSAUER Tonight Brings Anniversary Week to a Close

We believed, when we made our preparations, that this 20th Anniversary celebration would be the greatest and most successful we ever held.

If a qualm of doubt should have assailed us, it would have been swept away by the number of good and kindly things said by our friends, and those who have helped toward the success of this event.

Everybody in Line for Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week Which Starts in Fort Wayne Next Monday

Starting Monday clean-up and paint-up week will be observed in Fort Wayne, during which time every citizen is expected to clean-up, clean out and clean off. And also paint-up wherever paint is needed.

By April 23 all disease producing garbage, tin cans, ashes and trash that have accumulated about the premises should be entirely cleared away.

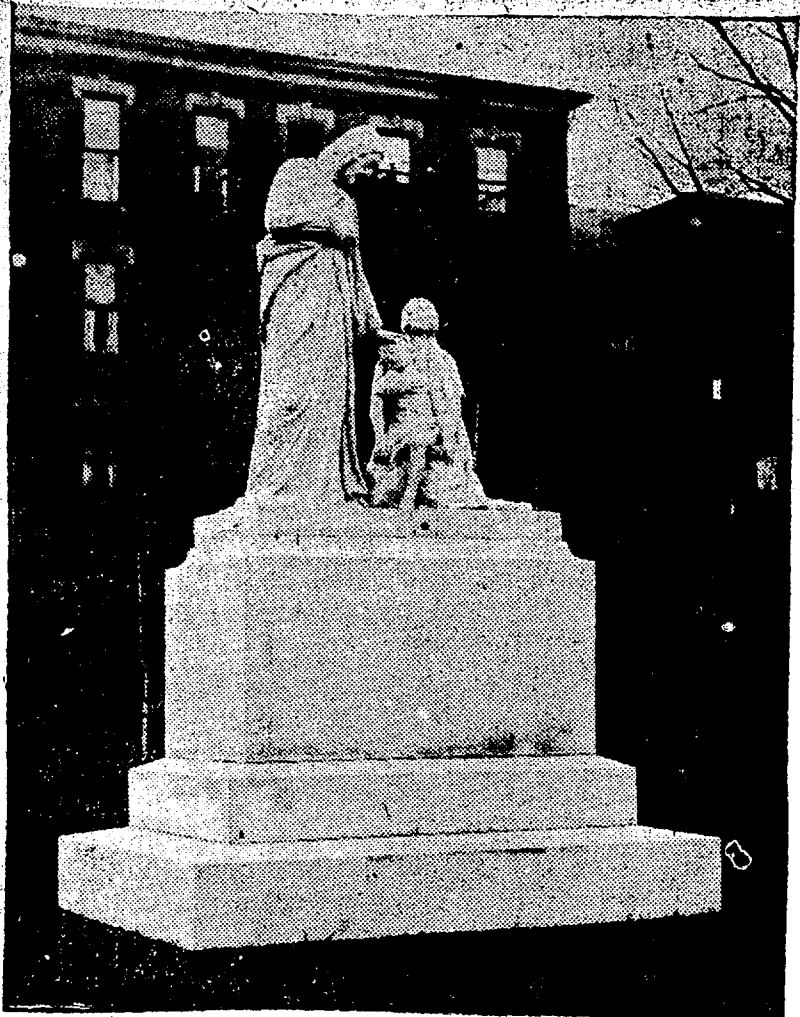

On Monday, Mrs. Josephine L. Nesbitt, of North Hampton, Ohio, will start a back-yard clean-up campaign, which is to be conducted during the next few weeks under the auspices of the city board of health, real estate exchange and various civic organizations. Clean-up week will afford a splendid opportunity for all citizens to co-operate in this worthy movement. The suggestion has also been made by the board of health that screens should be put up during the week in order to keep out the early flies, and that every effort be made to keep the flies away from garbage cans, manure piles and bins and all other places where there may be any danger of contamination or disease.

As a matter of fact, cleanliness is not only godliness, but it also insures health and happiness.

To clean-up is also a commercial proposition. Ideal home surroundings greatly increase the value of property as any real estate man will testify. So from a commercial point of view every citizen should aid in the clean-up campaign next week.

MONUMENT PLACED IN LUTHERAN HOSPITAL GROUNDS.

The monument, "Christ the Great Physician," erected by Dr. Herman Duemling, and the work of Herman Scherer, was placed in position in the grounds of the Lutheran hospital Friday, and is a wonderful bit of stone carving. It stands about twelve feet high and makes an impressive appearance.

BIG CAMPAIGN OPENS MAY 16

quirement of a modern Y. M. C. A. The amount to be raised will be determined later, but it is certain that it will not be less than $250,000.

Mr. Mogge does not know the meaning of the word "fail" and in his efforts here he will have the active and earnest co-operation of the citizens of Fort Wayne.

Generals Are Named.

At a meeting of the executive committee Friday afternoon at the Anthony hotel, Mr. Mogge explained in detail the plans which have been successfully used in other cities. There is to be a business men's committee of two hundred, selected from three hundred names, the two hundred to be selected by a committee composed of William N. Ballou, Lee J. Ninde and Ed G. Hoffman. After the two hundred active, progressive and wideawake business men are selected they will be classified into two divisions of one hundred each, with Arthur K. Hall general over one division and Lee J. Ninde lieutenant general, and S. B. Bechtel, general over the other division and Ed G. Hoffman lieutenant general.

Each division will be divided into ten teams consisting of nine men and a captain. The captains will be selected April 18. Each captain will be given the names of fifteen persons from which to select nine men. In this manner the teams will be of equal strength and it will be possible to keep up the interest and enthusiasm that is certain to result from the rivalry that will be engendered among the various teams. Of course, each team will try to secure larger subscriptions than the others.

Will Work in Pairs.

The members of the various teams will work in pairs and each day will be given the names of persons they are to see, these names to be taken from a list of 8,000, which is now being compiled. Members of the teams are expected to see only those whose names have been given to them during the first eight days. In this way one man will not be "pestered" and more rapid progress can be made and more territory covered. The whole proposition is to be worked out in a systematic and business-like manner.

The last two days of the campaign the members of the teams will be privileged to see whomsoever they please, for by that time the field will have been pretty well covered. There is little danger of anyone being overlooked. The small contribution from the man of little means will be equally as much appreciated as the big contribution from the man of wealth. In the matter of contributing there will absolutely be no discrimination. Every body will be solicited and asked to give something.

Other Divisions.

Besides the twenty teams there will be a ladies' division, boys' division, country division and perhaps other divisions that will be put to work about the middle of the campaign.

The plans will be explained in full from the pulpit of the city and on May 15 the campaign will be formally launched with a citizens' dinner, perhaps at the Anthony hotel or at the headquarters, if large enough. All persons interested will be asked to attend.

C. H. Worden and George Evans have been appointed to look after the selecting of a desirable and adequate place for the headquarters, which are to be centrally located. Until the permanent headquarters are opened, the temporary headquarters will be in the basement of the Y. W. C. A. building on West Wayne street.

Director Mogge will meet the members of the Ministerial association next Monday afternoon to explain the campaign. During the week of the campaign a clock sixteen feet high will be erected in a conspicuous place in the downtown section of the city, which will keep the public informed as to the amount subscribed each day.

Officers Named.

Those who will direct the campaign are: A. H. Perfect, chairman; B. Paul Mossman, vice chairman; A. J. Cash, secretary; Theodore Wentz, treasurer.

The other members of this committee are: S. B. Bechtel, W. N. Ballou, S. F. Sawyer, H. J. Boverfand, Dr. L. P. Dray, George P. Evans, August Freese, J. H. Foster, J. E. Frank, S. V. Green.

WABASH ROAD SUED FOR $4,000 DAMAGES

Theodore Brinker Says He Was Permanently Hurt by a Fall.

Theodore Brinker has begun action in the superior court against the Wabash railroad for $4,000 damages, alleging personal injuries of a permanent character. He says that July 19, 1915, while he was in the employ of the defendant wheeling freight on a two-wheeled truck it was necessary to pass by means of bridges connecting various freight cars on the sidetracks in order to reach the car he was loading and that other employees of the defendant had carelessly and negligently failed to properly secure one of these bridges. In consequence he got a fall that broke both bones of his right leg and injured his left arm. Thomas & Townsend appear for the plaintiff.

Vain Fleet to Girls' School.

In the juvenile court, Saturday, Vain Fleet, the 16-year-old girl whose waywardness is tragically associated with the suicide of Herbert H. Austin and is in a measure responsible for the arrest of Edward Davis on a grave criminal charge, was adjudged incorrigible and it was ordered that she be committed to the Indiana Girls' school until she is 20 years old. The young miss has been going a fast pace. It will be remembered that Austin ended his life by hanging himself in his skating rink, Main and Webster streets, Wednesday night, a short time after he had procured bond for his release on a charge of having criminally assaulted the girl. Davis was arrested on the same charge Wednesday evening.

Negro Tiger Keeper Fined.

Walter Wedlaw, a negro who conducts a restaurant for colored people on Lafayette street, was found guilty on a blind tiger charge in the circuit court, Saturday, and was fined $50 and costs. Judge John W. Eggenman, added a sentence of thirty days, but suspended it during good behavior. Wedlaw was fined in the city court and given a jail sentence that Judge H. Waveland Kerr refused to suspend and the negro took an appeal.

Mrs. Smaltz Wants a Divorce.

Aileen Smaltz has commenced suit in the superior court for divorce from Charles Smaltz. She alleges that he treated her with cruelty, did not provide and finally deserted her, leaving her without means to support herself and two children and has provided nothing since. They were married December 24, 1908, and he left her in June, 1912. The defendant is said to be now in Chicago. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich appear for the plaintiff.

Disposes of Estate in Few Words.

One of the shortest wills ever probated in the circuit court has just been admitted by Judge Eggenman in the testament of the late John A. Koch, who required but twenty-five words to devise to his wife, Dora C. Koch, his entire estate, both real and personal. Philip J. Getty and Mary M. Getty witnessed the testament, which was written on half a sheet of note paper.

Kirkland Again Divorced.

The superior court has just granted for the second time in less than a year a decree of divorce to Ida J. Kirkland from Bruce E. Kirkland. The first decree was granted last August and a short time later a reconciliation was effected, the divorced couple resolving to try again to get along, and they were remarried. In her second complaint, Mrs. Kirkland said her husband would persist in discussing the troubles that caused their earlier estrangement and she could not stand it. The couple are well to do and well known in Fort Wayne.

Can Execute the Judgment.

Attorney Harry W. Mueller, for Mrs. Minnie Spear, has for the first time caused it to be established in Indiana that an award made by the state industrial board against an employer for the injury or death of an employee can be enforced by execution of supplementary judgment obtained in the civil courts of the regular judiciary. Mrs. Spear sued for judgment on award given by the board in the case of the Day-Lite Gas company, in whose plant here her husband was killed last December. The state board's award of $6,000 a week had not been paid and suit was brought. The case is of vast importance in the state. The judgment was obtained in the Allen superior courts.

Notes of the Courts.

The will of the late Catherine Dammeier, just probated, leaves bequests of $25 each to a son and four grandchildren and divides the residue of the estate equally among her three children. Charles F. Pfeiffer is named executor.

Final report has been filed in the superior court by Daniel Sprague, counsel for the Sprague Clay Products company, of Sheldon, defendant in a suit brought by the Fort Wayne Oil & Supply company, and he was discharged.

A jury in the circuit court awarded Horace Mariotti a verdict for $20 in a suit against the Nickel Plate railroad, tried in the superior court. The demand was for $50 and the jury took but twenty minutes to agree to the finding.

In the suit of E. W. Cook, administrator of the estate of the late Martin Steele, vs. the Indiana Lighting company the superior court has given judgment to the plaintiff for $800.

Mary K. Freiburger has brought suit in the superior court against William J. Van Schuyler and others to quiet title to real estate. C. W. Kuhne appeared for the plaintiff.

The superior court has dismissed the divorce action brought by Lucile Robin against Charles C. Robin. Mrs. Robin Gratz and the Pennsylvania railroad, in the circuit court to foreclose a boarding-house keeper's lien for the collection of $98 alleged to be due from Gratz. The Pennsylvania is made a party by reason of employing Gratz. Harry W. Muller is attorney for the plaintiff.

George F. Root has sued Abraham and Isaac Wolf, doing business as the Brothers & Co., to collect $1,000 on account. The plaintiff's attorneys, Thomas & Townsend, filed the case in the superior court.

The case of the state vs. Ralph F. Disorens, charged with driving his automobile past a standing street car, has been dismissed from the circuit court.

George Killen was arraigned in the circuit court Saturday afternoon on charges of driving recklessly.

HIGH PRAISE FOR ROADS HERE

Prof. George B. Martin, of Purdue university's highway engineering department, who with Prof. T. R. Age, head of a similar department in Iowa university, and Prof. T. H. McDonald, chief engineer of the Iowa highway commission, made an extensive inspection of Allen county's improved highways Friday, joined in high praise of the roads they drove over with County Commissioners Schwie, Black and Wetzel. Prof. Martin declares Allen county's roads the best in the state and he brought the other highway experts here to see them.

LICENSED TO WED.

Martin Oberle, salesman, and Clara B. Smith, James L. Williams, machinist, and Madonna M. Pattee, Harry R. Shirk, electrician, and Susan E. Rosa, Norman E. King, harnessmaker, and Martha Gerrard.

WILL ASK JUDGMENT IN PAVING VICTORY

City Attorney to Seek an Early Conclusion on Rudisill.

City Attorney Guy Colerick expected to go to Auburn late Saturday afternoon to ask that judgment be rendered on the findings for the city made by Judge Dan M. Link, of the DeKalb circuit court, in the case of Wiebke et al. vs. the city of Fort Wayne to restrain the city by injunction from proceeding with the work of paving Rudisill boulevard. All of the findings were in favor of the city.

WILL HURRY SUBWAY DRAINAGE.

With the New York Central railway people clamoring for a chance to get in and commence the building of a bridge for the subway at the Lake Shore tracks and Osage street, the board of works, accompanied by Mayor W. J. Hosey planned a trip of inspection to the scene of the proposed grade separation to view the status of the sewer that will drain the subway. The McCallister Construction company has the contract for the construction of the drain. The board will hasten operations as much as possible. H. B. Reinsagen, principal assistant engineer of the New York Central lines, has written the board that its steel for the bridge is purchased and that it is ready to begin the bridge work as soon as the sewer is completed.

FIVE HUNDRED TAKE EIGHTH GRADE EXAMS

Five hundred or more pupils in the schools of Allen county spent Saturday taking the annual eighth grade examinations and all who secure passing grades will be permitted to participate in the county commencement exercises to be held in Fort Wayne some time the latter part of June. One hundred and fifty pupils were given the examination at the Lincoln Life building. Examinations were held at fifteen other places as follows: Ed River Center, Huntstown, Leo, Harlan, Arcola, Milan, Center, Woodburn, New Haven, Jefferson Center, Jackson Center, Lafayette Center, Sheldon, Poe, Madison Center, Monroeville.

THE DEATHS.

LOEBEL.

Moritz R. Loebel, aged 64 years, a knitter employed at the Wayne Knitting Mills, died very suddenly at the family home, 1645 High street, Friday afternoon. He was stricken with apoplexy at 11 o'clock Friday morning while at work. He was removed to his home, but he never regained consciousness.

The deceased was born in Saxony, Germany, but came to Fort Wayne eight years ago. He was a member of the Saxonia Singing society and Turnverein Vorwaerts. The following children survive him: Mrs. Charles Leppor and Mrs. Rheinhold Mertz, of this city, and Miss Jennie and John Loebel, of Milwaukee.

PENCE.

John W. Pence, a well known farmer of El River township, died Friday at St. Joseph hospital at the age of 63 years. He was taken to the hospital a few days ago, where he underwent an operation for relief from obstruction of the bowels. The widow and four sons survive him—Elmer, at home; Vernon, of Columbia City; Homer, of Chicago, and Merl, of Detroit.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Blue River Methodist church, Rev. S. Matthews, of Union City, officiating; interment in the church cemetery.

BURK.

Mrs. Ella Burk, wife of Abrose T. Burk, a well known employe of Bowser's, died at midnight Friday at the Lutheran hospital after an illness of six weeks due to a colic. She had been a patient at the hospital but one week.

The deceased had been a resident of Fort Wayne for ten years and besides the husband is survived by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dick, and two brothers and two sisters, all residing in Ohio.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Smith—Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah J. Smith will be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the residence, 1609 Walton avenue, and at 10 o'clock at the Harlan Lutheran church. Interment at the Harlan cemetery.

DUE TO REPORT BY CAPT. GRANT

prepared to set in motion diplomatic machinery for a discussion with Gen. Carranza on his proposal for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico. The hunt for Francisco Villa will continue. Secretary Lansing has given no indication as to when a reply to the Carranza note proposing the withdrawal of the troops might be sent. Several days may elapse before such a communication can be completed. The secretary is known to have many details to consider.

Report Still Awaited.

Meanwhile a report from the commander of the American cavalry attacked by Mexicans is awaited. It is expected to throw light on the fate of the little force and to clear up the conflict of information regarding the attack. The Carranza version is that his troops did everything to stop the firing upon the Americans. Unofficially, however, Carranza asserts that Carranza soldiers participated in the attack. Apparently the immediate withdrawal of the American forces in Mexico is not contemplated.

Says Americans Were Unarmed.

An unconfirmed version of the Par-

ral fighting current in Chihuahua which has been received from General Funston is to the effect that the Americans on whom the Mexicans at Parral fired were unarmed.

According to this story, forty of the troops entered Parral, presumably to purchase supplies, and were fired upon. Two were killed and the remainder retreated to the main body of troops encamped outside the city.

The attacking force pursued them and were met by a fire from the Americans, who were using a machine gun, killing forty Mexicans.

According to this story the attacking party comprised Carranza soldiers and civilians.

It is said that crime increases at the rate of 300 per cent every twenty years.

"STACKS OF SMACKS" IS NEW NAME GIVEN BY WIDOW TO MAJOR'S KISSES.

MAJOR GEORGE D. SHERMAN AND MRS. LORETTA MONTANYE

Elgin, Ill., April 15.—Mrs. Loretta Montanye, 53, and a widow, planted flowers in her "garden of love." They have blossomed into a breach of promise suit with a $25,000 tag on the "love bouquet," which she hopes Major George D. Sherman will be gallant enough to pay.

The widow's little "love garden" at Elgin was planted way back in 1908, when her widow's weeds were fresh. Major Sherman, a neighbor, civil war veteran and club man, came according to Mrs. Montanye, "gathering rosebuds while he might." He was almost 70 years old.

The major's wooing, said Mrs. Montanye, was "gallant" and "of a kind that a gallant soldier" with the major and the widow, she said, "the major was so gallant."

When she returned from California, she alleges, the major "took me in his arms and said the kisses were stacking up and falling over."

A widow of 53 has to tell a lot to collect $25,000 in heart-balm. Widow Montanye's testimony turned the x-rays on a five-year courtship she said she had with the gallant major. She told of ardent love making, a proposal and their first quarrel.

She told of a second invasion of her "love garden" and of "stacking up" kisses. She said the major changed his mind and decided to remain single.

Widow Montanye's "love garden" was planted in 1908, she said, and it was "stacked up" with kisses and "stacked up" with kisses.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 15.—Improved weather conditions, especially in the northwest, had a bearish effect today on wheat. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/16 to 1/8 decline to 1/16 advance, with May at $1.15 to $1.16 and July at $1.14 to $1.15. The close was unsettled, 1/4 to 1/8 net lower, with May at $1.15 and July at $1.14@1.14 1/4.
Corn turned down grade with wheat. After opening 1/8 off to 1/4 up, the market underwent a moderate sag.
The close was firm at 1/4 to 1/8 net advance.
Oats had no independent action. Weakness developed in provisions after a little firmness at the start.

Political Brevities.

Calvin H. Brown, democratic county chairman, has announced that the congressional and county campaign will be started by the democrats soon after the national convention in June.

The Allen county democrats will go to Indianapolis to attend the state convention in special cars over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line.

Louis W. Fairfield, of Angola, republican nominee for congress, spoke at the regular monthly meeting of the Traveling men's Republican club at the Hotel Anthony Saturday afternoon. A large attendance was present and the congressional candidate made a most favorable impression.

The republicans will open their campaign soon after the national convention in June.

Sig. W. Kann, of Ligonier, democratic candidate for state statistician, was a visitor in Fort Wayne, Friday.

PAY DAY, YOU KNOW.

"What art you digging for?" asked by the bystander.
"Money," he replied.
"Money," ejaculated the amazed wayfarer. "And when do you expect to strike it?"
"Saturday," replied the workman, and resumed digging.

WILL DIRECT TRAINS ON D. B. C. & W.

W. J. Montieth Gets Good Position and is Moving to Bay City.

W. J. Montieth, for a number of years employed as a telegraph operator and later a dispatcher on the G. R. & I., has taken a position as a train dispatcher on the Detroit, Bay City and Western road, and was here yesterday assisting the family in packing up the household goods preparatory to moving to Bay City, which will be their home as long as Mr. Montieth holds his present position. The D. B. C. & W. is a little coal road, seventy-one miles long, and does a good business in the freight line. It is also a well patronized passenger line in the summer time. Mr. Montieth left the G. R. & I. service when the telephone system of handling the train dispatching department was inaugurated, reducing the work of dispatchers, and took employment with the Nickel Plate. For awhile he was employed as telegraph operator and station agent at Peabody. During his short stay in the city this week, Mr. Montieth made it a point to call upon a number of his friends and former railroad associates.

PUSHING THE WORK ALONG.
Wells Brothers Have Over 100 Men at Work on Wall Street.

The progress made in building the forms and putting in the footings for the columns and side walls of the big five-story factory building on Wall street indicates ability in the hustling line on the part of the contractors. All of the equipment is on the ground and the building material is rapidly piling up there. A large part is already on hand. The last of the structural steel is en route here and much of it is now on the ground. Pouring concrete for the column footings commenced Thursday and a few days will see this part of the work finished. Wells Brothers have 100 men at work at present, most of them being carpenters.

NO. 18 TO BE HOSTESS.
Will Entertain at Cards and Dance May 2.

Friendship division, No. 18, Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will be hostess at a dance, social and card party at the Elks' temple, Tuesday evening, May 2. The entertainment committee is extending invitations to all members of the B. L. E. and their families and friends, promising them a good, old-fashioned time. As an entertainer Friendship division stands in the front ranks and the people who enjoy dances, cards and social times know it and always show up when the auxiliary has anything doing.

HIPS PAINFULLY HURT.
John David Pinched Between Two Pig-iron Trucks.

John David, a laborer in the yards at the Bass foundry, was caught between two trucks loaded with pig-iron at 8 o'clock this morning and painfully injured about the hips. He was attended by the company's surgeon, who had him sent to Hope hospital. No bones were broken.

LEO ACKER IS DEAD.

Machinist Joseph Schallenberger, of the Pennsylvania, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Stephen Schallenberger, left last night for Pittsburg, on receipt of news of the death of Leo Acker, a relative. R. A. Morton and F. E. Markey, clerks in the Pennsylvania freight house, will leave tonight for Pittsburg to attend the funeral, which will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The details of the death of Leo were not received here and the news came as a shocking surprise to the friends. Ten years ago Harry Acker, the father of Leo, was foreman of the Pennsylvania freight house, a position now held by Chris Kees. He was here only about a year, when he received a more important position at Pittsburg, where he is still in the employ of the company. During the residence of the family here, Leo attended the Cathedral school.

TRANSFERRED AND PROMOTED.

Two transfers which were in the nature of promotions for the men affected were made at the General Electric works yesterday. K. G. Zink, a tester in the small motor department, was given a clerical position in the production department, with desk room in the storeroom in the small motor production department.

TOO BUSY TO FISH.

"No laying off to go fishing goes at present," was the word given out by the callers at the Nickel Plate yards this morning. "A half dozen or more conductors and brakemen have requested absence on this account," he said, "and all were turned down." The Nickel Plate is handling an immense lot of high class eastbound freight at present and is too busy to let men off for pleasure.

ATTEND EXPRESS MEN'S MEETING.

George E. Becker, agent at Fort Wayne for the Adams Express company, went to Grand Rapids last night and today attended a meeting of the employees of the company from northern Indiana and southern and central Michigan territory. The business session of the gathering will be followed by a banquet. Mr. Becker will return home tonight.

E. W. FERGUSON IS PROMOTED.

E. W. Ferguson, of the transformer department of the Pennsylvania, works, has been advanced to inspector of the Entz-Owen transmission, one of the important outputs of the big plant. The change is a nice and deserved promotion for Mr. Ferguson, who has been employed at the plant for about nine years.

CALIFORNIA TICKET FOR $18.40.

Speaking about the west and his trips to California, Dr. N. R. Wenger said that thirty years ago he made his first trip there on a one way ticket which cost him just $18.40. Today the one way fare is $53. Dr. Wenger has made four trips to California since he took up a residence in Fort Wayne.

ANOTHER CREW IN SERVICE.

To meet the demands of the increasing freight business on the road the Nickel Plate has added another engine crew to the pool of the Fort Wayne division. The appointment has fallen upon Engineer Andy Shoda and Fireman R. L. Mills.

BUMPED WITH WAGON TONGUE.

While helping to move a loaded truck in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop yesterday H. West sustained painful bruises in the chest when the tongue of the vehicle was thrown violently against him. He is off duty pending treatment.

HAS JOINED THE AUTO GANG.

Machinist Oswald Kamm, of the Pennsylvania tool room, has purchased a Herff-Brooks five passenger motor car and will be seen on the streets with it tomorrow. Mr. Kamm is as proud as a peacock over his new turnout.

MOVES INTO NEW HOME.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Nickel Plate Fireman John T. Hood is sick and off duty.

T. E. English, of the Pennsy, will spend the week-end in Chicago.

H. C. Walda, a painter at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick.

William F. Scherer, tinner at the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty on account of the death of a relative.

Harry Grav, of the Pennsylvania via gang, went to Chicago this morning to visit over Sunday.

Thirteen engines received general repairs and left the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today.

Pennsylvania Machinist Ed Hecht and wife will go to Chicago tonight for a short visit.

After a vacation of ten days, Nickel Plate Brakeman F. H. Showers showed up for work on the road today.

Nickel Plate Brakeman J. J. Welsh is on duty again after a few days' lay off for personal reasons.

Nickel Plate Engineer J. D. Bright has taken a thirty days' leave of absence to look after private business.

Mrs. S. L. Morris is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Good, in Huntington for a few days.

Master Mechanic G. W. Smith, of the Wabash, was in Windsor, Canada, yesterday on business for the company.

Mrs. F. C. Weaver, wife of Pennsy Machinist Weaver, will spend the week-end in Chicago.

Engineer B. M. Fullerton, of the Nickel Plate, is taking a lay off to look after personal matters.

Fireman A. J. Pappert and F. W. Pappert, of the Nickel Plate, are off duty for a few days.

Local Freight Engineer George L. Kelly, of the Fort Wayne-Knox run on the Nickel Plate, is taking a lay off in order to be with his family today.

Engineer Frank and Fireman H. A. Rodabaugh, B. F. Ambler and H. G. Weigman, of the Nickel Plate, have gone to Lake James to fish a few days.

H. F. Kappel, messenger in the Pennsy freight offices, yesterday became a clerk and H. Ackerman was employed as a messenger.

E. C. Danes, assistant superintendent of maintenance of way on the Wabash, was in Fort Wayne yesterday on company business.

Nickel Plate Conductor J. J. Stephens is again disabled by sickness after working only a week following his last sickness.

Conductors E. H. Roe, B. H. Hire and L. Schoonever, of the Nickel Plate, are off duty to look after some private business.

General Manager F. S. Hunting, of the General Electric company, was called to Indianapolis on business for the company yesterday.

A. Stege, of the car machine shop, and A. J. Sordlet, of the cab-building shop, Pennsylvania employees, are sick and off duty.

C. S. Burnsworth is kept from his work in the Pennsy blacksmith shop today on account of the sickness of his child.

Nickel Plate Fireman Gus Zerull has taken a position in the yards in Postoria, preferring that work to work in the "pool" on through freight.

Mrs. Bond, mother of Round House Foreman C. Z. Bond, of the Wabash, will spend Sunday with relatives in Huntington.

C. D. Easley, who worked in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shops about six months, resigned today to go to Toledo to work.

W. O'Connor is sick and J. Switalaki's wife is sick, preventing work at the Pennsylvania copper shop, where the men are employed.

B. Steinacher and W. Doell were absent from the Pennsy blacksmith shop today on account of sickness. J. F. Rich, of the same shop, has gone to Detroit for a visit.

The Wabash shopmen worked eight hours today, making the weekly schedule forty-eight hours. Usually the shops are closed all day Saturdays.

W. R. Israel, one of the oldest in the line of service and years of the traveling passenger men who come to Fort Wayne, was in the city today.

Next Monday, Operator Will G. Cartwright, of the G. R. & I., will be on duty for four days' vacation, which he will spend at Grand Rapids and Muskegon with relatives.

TWO BOY BURGLARS ARE PINCHED HERE

Youngsters With Loot from Montpelier, Ohio, Job, Got by Police.

John Hiteshaw and Sam Frey, a pair of boy burglars who pulled a job at Montpelier, Ohio, early Friday morning, and headed for Fort Wayne, ran into bad luck here. Both were arrested, by the Fort Wayne police and are held to the city court as fugitives under $1,000 each pending the arrival of officers from the Ohio town. Hiteshaw was arrested in the vicinity of the Wabash yards at Fairfield avenue by Officers Walter Pattee and John Hill, about 9 o'clock, Friday night, and he was toting a Winchester magazine rifle, that was a part of the loot, with as much sang froid as a man going to hunt Villa. Later Officer Pattee found concealed near the Wabash freight house another magazine rifle that had been stolen along with shoes, clothing, safety razors, cutlery, electric flashlights and other chattels. Frey was taken into custody at the Wabash roundhouse at 4 o'clock Saturday morning by Night Sergeants Dave Blum and William Zwick, who were summoned to the place by Wabash employees after Frey had been cornered. The lads are about 19 years old. Hiteshaw says his home is in Peru, Ind., and Frey claims Reading, Pa., as his native heath, but says he really has no home. The young bandits came in Friday evening on the Wabash local from the east.

Blind Tiger Case, Blows Up.

Eleanor Gillen, a negress, residing on North Calhoun street, in the old red light district, was found not guilty in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of keeping a blind tiger. She was tried on her second arrest, no affidavit having been filed following her first apprehension. Deputy United States Marshal W. H. Haggerty and a man named McDonald testified that they purchased beer of the woman, but the beer they bought and took away with them was not introduced as evidence and McDonald's identification of the wench was hazy. Judge H. Waveland Kerr held a private session of court, at which only himself, Prosecuting Attorney John C. Hoffman, Witnesses Haggerty and McDonald, the defendant and her attorneys, S. A. Callahan and W. C. Ryan, were present. This was because the dusky lady had nervous twitches and jerking, spasmodic sniffings and other signs and tokens that were considered pregnant with a threat of hysterics—held, in common by all authorities to be improper for a public exhibition in a court room, even under that aegis of Anglo-Saxon liberty which, through the centuries, has mandated hearings in open court. Under the more merciful ordeal of a hearing in camera the lady made shift to control her emotions and nothing was torn up but the state's case.

Lepper Held for Arson.

Fred Lepper, charged with arson, had been altogether too frank in discussing his love affairs and in confessing his pique at being thrown over. His untoward admissions had been during a heart to heart unassuming process with Chief of Police Charles Lenz following his arrest on suspicion of having set fire to the home of his erstwhile lady love, Mrs. Lulu F. Dyseret, a widow residing at 1712 Calhoun street. Beyond his confession no testimony was introduced against Lepper. What he had said to Detective Sergeant M. A. Rundell, who unraveled the mystery of the Dyseret fire and arrested Lepper, and to Chief Lenz following the arrest, made up what Judge Kerr considered to be a case of probable guilt. Mrs. Dyseret was not in court. Lepper was bound over to the circuit court under $500 bond. He is said to have started two fires in Mrs. Dyseret's home the night of March 20, while she was away, but while her sister, occupying the upper apartments of the residence, was entertaining near a score of ladies.

Other City Court Cases.

Upon representations by Attorney S. A. Callahan that his client is seriously ill in the Lutheran hospital, the case against John Hageman, a well-known contractor residing at 1404 Fletcher avenue, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was continued until the 25th inst. Bond was fixed at $100. Hageman's motor truck collided with a jitney bus at Washington and Clinton streets and a lady passenger in the jitney suffered a broken leg.

Minnie Cannon, who does her own loading and does it often, was in again on a drunk charge and drew $1 and costs. It was her fourth appearance since last June.

John Ray, a soue, was tagged $5 and costs and went to jail.

Tim Kelly, a boozier and a roughneck who has been in before, drew fifteen days on a drunk charge. He was arrested after he had been caught stealing milk from doorsteps on West Superior street and had made a filthy exhibition of himself.

Henry Franke, charged with disorderly conduct in his home, went free, the prosecutor dismissing the case.

Dick Brennan, who has not been long returned from a sojourn at the state farm, was headed that way with a conviction for drunkenness that got him fifteen days in jail.

Reginald Wodard, the youth who came here from Tri-State college in Angola and stole a bicycle belonging to Bud Thomas, of the Citizens' Trust company, to get money to help him in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he is signed up to play baseball, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and got $10 and costs and fifteen days.

A letter to Prosecutor John C. Hoffman, from Bristol, Conn., the lad's home, shows he is of good family, and the Poughkeepsie baseball management has wired that he will be sent a ticket to come on when he completes his engagement here.

Ernest Hanes, charged with petit larceny, was continued under $250 bond until Monday.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to extend our thanks to the many friends and neighbors for the sympathy shown us during the illness and at the death of our husband and father, and to Rev. Olmstead for his comforting words.

MANY PROMINENT FIGURES IN LIST

Presence is Assured at Anti-Saloon League Convention.

Westerville, O., April 15.—Acceptances have been received by the committee in charge of arranging the program for the seventeenth convention of the Anti-Saloon league of America, from many prominent men. The convention will be held in Indianapolis, June 26 to 29, with promise of an exceedingly large attendance.

Governor Moses Alexander, of Idaho, has accepted an invitation to address the convention. He holds the distinction of being the only member of the Jewish race to occupy a governor's chair in the United States. He is the most ardent and successful leader of the dry forces in Idaho. In a letter to the secretary of the program committee, Governor Alexander writes:

"After a few months of enforcement of the prohibitory law, Idaho is delighted and rejoicing. Many who were victims of drink have had the shackles fall from them and are looking to the future with renewed hopes and ambitions. They are being rejuvenated and put on the plane of equality with their fellowmen. Whether or not I ever make another temperance speech cuts no figure, for state-wide prohibition is a practical illustration of the result of temperance and I feel proud of having the honor of signing the law which placed Idaho in the column of temperance. After two months' operation, the law is looked upon as an absolute success, even by those who opposed it."

In the battle line of temperance forces, no more critical position is anywhere held than that maintained by Ohio. James A. White, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Ohio, is scheduled for an address on "Ohio's Program for Victory." Mr. White has a magnificent and comprehensive program and declares that if he can put boots on it and blood into it, Ohio will swing into the list of dry states the next time a fight is on.

Frederick Landis, of Indiana, a former congressman and known everywhere as a master of wit, sarcasm and word painting, will deliver an address Tuesday afternoon, June 27.

Judge Samuel D. Weakley, of Birmingham, Ala., will speak on "One Year of Co-operative Prohibition in Alabama." Judge Weakley has been gathering statistics. He is in possession of facts and figures not obtainable in any other prohibition state, with which he will completely refute the lies in the year book of the National Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' associations.

No more venerable or distinguished figure is to be found anywhere in the ranks of temperance leaders than that of Jonathan K. Taylor, of Baltimore. Mr. Taylor was an important man at the Atlantic City convention last year. He not only gives largely of his means, but also of his time and thought to the temperance cause. He will preside at the closing session of the convention and make an appropriate address.

Prominent in the ranks of Catholic temperance leaders is Rev. Father J. J. Curran, of Villa Grove, Wis. Father Curran will preside at one of the sessions and bring a message of hope concerning the victorious conclusion of this great fight when all Christian forces unite on a program for national prohibition.

Correspondent Tells How

Rich Military Governor Becomes Poor Helping Countryman—Takes War Orphans by Carloads to School He Opens for Them.

(This is the first of a series of articles by Leon Starmont, our special correspondent who is now touring Sonora, Mexico, as guest of the Mexican government. This arrangement is permitting him to get a remarkably clear insight into conditions among the common people of Villa's country and firsthand information regarding their feeling toward America, as well as our punitive expedition.—Editor.)

BY LEON STARMONT
Sentinel Correspondent, touring Sonora as guest of the Mexican government.

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, April 15.—I am riding through Mexico on a special train as the guest of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, military governor of Sonora and virtual dictator of northwestern Mexico.

Gen. Calles is taking 800 war orphans to Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, where they are to be placed in a school he has founded to be educated at Gen. Calles' expense.

Two carloads of them, left Naco, Sonora, with us. The train also bore a kitchen-car, formerly a caboose, and a dining-car, also a converted caboose, in which meals were prepared and served to Gen. Calles and his party.

And there were several carloads of horses and box cars full of hay—the mounts of Gen. Calles' bodyguard, the flower of the army in Sonora.

A swartly man of striking appearance is Gen. Calles—a rich man he was, but a poor man now. For most of his fortune has gone toward the revolution in the cause of government in the interests of the people.

Just last week he announced he would seize the Cananea mines and operate them himself if the American corporation that owns them carried out its threat to suspend operations until after the international crisis had subsided. By that decree Calles saved 3,500 men their jobs.

Just now he's placing 800 children in school at his own expense—and he's having a hard time doing it. For many Mexicans of the peon class imagine that these tiny boys and girls—many of them mere babies—are being recruited for the army.

TOURING THE VILLA WAR ZONE AS GUEST OF CARRANZA'S GOVERNMENT

was a doleful face, that of a boy of 8 or 10, who imagined he was being led to war.

In our party, besides Gen. Calles, were Ives G. Leveier, Mexican consul at Douglas, Ariz.; Miguel S. Vivero, financial inspector of the state of Sonora; at Hermosillo; E. Ocaranza Llano, superintendent of the Naco railway; Col. J. A. Campbell of the Mexican army, who speaks no English despite his Anglo name; Lieut. Col. Angel C. Margo, Maj. J. Calderon and some 30 prominent Mexicans of Agua Prieta, Naco and Naco.

In one car 130 children, taken aboard at Naco, raced up and down the aisles, leaned out the windows, shouted and sang in Mexican, and munching candy and peanuts.

In the dusk we pulled into Cananea. To the Hotel Sonora trooped the orphan army, piloted by Gen. Calles and mothers of Cananea orphans who were to join the party here.

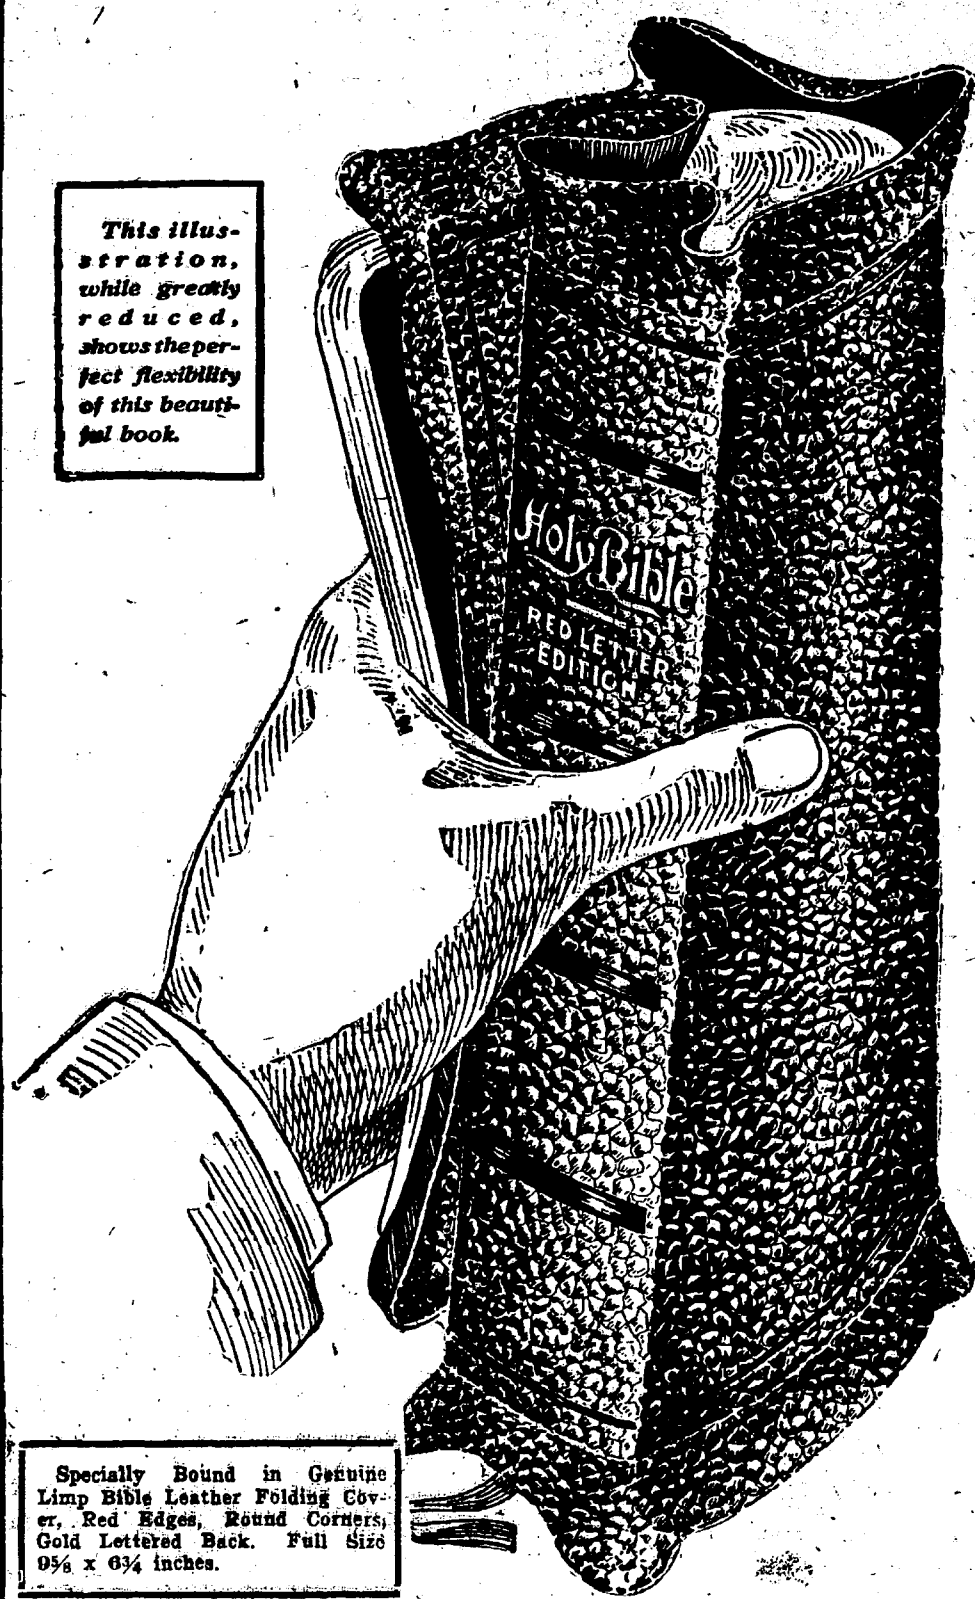

The entire hotel had been reserved for the Calles party—and the fatherless troop of juveniles wandered to sleep amid surroundings such as all the children of Cananea had ever known.

from the first party by the tears of peasant sonoras that their fatherless darlings were wanted for cannon fodder.

These children all are sons and daughters of soldiers killed in the revolutions that have all but devastated Mexico in the past six years.

Scientific or constitutionalist—Gen. Calles asked no questions. "They are all Mexicans," says he. "And through this experiment in whole-sale education he hopes to make effective his motto for Mexico."

"Green"-Picking Time is Here and High Cost of Living Gets Body Blow

In these days when even the Ford owner cringes before the greivous visage of the high cost of living, the merry springtime brings with it more than balmy breezes and cessation of cold. For trotting along, hand in hand with April showers, baseball practice and pussy willows, comes the toothsome taraxacum, known in Hoosierdom as "greens."

Early in the week dandelions began to put in their appearance in such numbers and quantities as to make the watchful housewife sharpen up a nine inch Bowie and seek the open places. The parks probably attracted the greatest number, for any afternoon this week there could be found hundreds of women and children digging in the sod.

The accompanying pictures were made in Swinney park on Wednesday afternoon, and it was interesting to note that in some parts of the grounds park workmen were striving to exterminate the weeds, while in others women were digging a "mess" for supper.

The inquisitive person with a camera stopped half a dozen of them and asked concerning the ways and means of preparing the greens for human consumption.

tion, and got as many answers as he put questions.

It seems that the women who depend on dandelions for springtime vegetables have methods of their own, handed from grandmother and mother to daughter, none of which ever possessed literary merit enough to find its way between the covers of a cook book.

All these digger-cooks knew how to prepare the vegetable, they all said it was mighty good when cooked right, but each seemed to be rather hazy as to the methods employed. One thing they agreed upon, the greens were to be thoroughly washed before they were cooked. And another point upon which they all laid stress, was the fact that dandelions (like coffee, mayhap) need long and unceasing boiling to bring them to the state in which the green-friend finds them most palatable.

The Lowly Dandelion. The dandelion ranks pretty close to the juniper as a habit of all the climates and continents. The botany calls it a member of the family taraxacum. It is a native of Asia, say the scientists, and has spread over Europe and across the American continent.

In the earliest medical parchments reference is made to the dandelion and its medicinal qualities. Even now in rural districts a tea is brewed from the roots and leaves of the weed, and is prescribed by all the grandmothers and maiden aunts for a variety of ailments. The leaves have been used as food in rural communities of Europe for centuries, and among the earliest food-stuffs mentioned in the history of the colonies is the dandelion.

In Old Fort Wayne. In the early days of Fort Wayne there were in the city a host of families in poverty or moderate circumstances, and to them the dandelion was a godsend when spring brought it to the fields. Although history does not mention the green as a staple article of diet for Anthony Wayne and his brave and true, there is little doubt that the garrisons here fed upon the dandelion often in the olden days. But in the memory of the oldest inhabitants Fort Wayne men and women went out to the Hamilton fields south of the railroad, where dandelions were as profuse as diplomatic notes.

Wayns and Means. There are a variety of ways of preparing the dandelion for the table. Although there are those who take the young shoots and prepare them simply by washing them and serving them as lettuce with a dressing, this can be done only when the greens are very young and tender.

However, the majority of cooks, after giving the "mess" a thorough washing, to get rid of sand particles, for the leaves are always full of sand and grit, pour scalding water over them. After a scalding the greens are boiled hard and long, and are prepared in many ways. Some cooks use cheese in preparing them, some prefer bacon. Water cress and celery are put into it at times, and there are so many other ways of preparing it that they are hard to recount.

The H. C. of L. But at that, the dandelion deals a body blow to the much discussed high cost of living. A person with a taste for dandelions can eat them three or four times a week and relish them in season, and the head of the family surely feels the tension of the grocery pull lessen.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., April 15.—Mrs. William Beatty, of Bluffton, of Ossian this week visiting in the home of her son, Harry Beatty, and family, and with other members of her own family.

Avery Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs.

George G. Glass, celebrated his tenth birthday anniversary on Thursday, April 13, and his mother gave a dinner in honor of the occasion and entertained all the Daniel Boys, of whom Avery is one. The boys, accompanied by their teacher in Sunday school, Miss Phebe Summers, spent the entire day at the Glass farm and had a jolly time playing games out doors. Those entertained were Russell Hanna, Harry Niblick, Alfred Mills, William Beatty, Remington Johnston, Edwin Dyar, Forest Crummitt, Curtis Bunn, Dwight Crowl, Brice Wilson, Adrian Hoopengardner, Shirrell Ferguson and Kenneth Stirling as a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Park Summers, Glee Summers and Doyle Plummer were in Fort Wayne Wednesday attending the funeral of Kenneth Sprang, a nephew of Mr. Summers.

Mrs. Will Gibson was hostess for the Whilaway club Thursday evening. Current events were discussed with interest, and afterwards the ladies enjoyed a social hour with their needlework. The hostess then served a delicious two-course lunch. Those present were Mesdames Will Hoopengardner, Frank Zehrung, Orin McMullen, Meredith Aldred, D. C. Wybourne, C. F. Goshorn, Fred Mills, J. W. Crummitt, A. F. Roe, Frank Foughty and Clyde Wagner. The next meeting will be Friday evening, April 21, at the home of Mrs. Will Hoopengardner.

Mrs. Albert Melching was in Bluffton yesterday to see her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Dustman, and to attend the funeral of Mrs. George Albright.

A number of girls who had been students in the room at school this winter taught by Miss Beth Chalfant went to her country home on Wednesday to spend the day with their teacher. They were motored out by A. A. Melching and brought home by Willis Melching. Those in the party were Misses Dorothy Melching, Vera Richey, Maxine Gibson, Fay Melching, Elizabeth Kendrick, Mildred Ferguson, Pearl Wilson and Marguerite Turner. Miss Chalfant is preparing to leave on the 25th for Angola to take special work at Tri-State Normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Swaim and James Swaim spent Wednesday in Sheldon visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Lum T. Swaim.

Mrs. Gee Lord, of Fort Wayne, visited with Ossian friends Thursday and attended to business matters.

The Sargasso club was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. E. D. Pufferberger. A social hour followed the program when the hostess served delicious refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and candy. Those present were Mesdames Aaron Deich, W. W. Fryback, S. L. Gorrell, W. W. Hoopengardner, E. H. Roe, F. M. Rector, B. F. Sprunger, Charles I. Weirich, L. E. Wilson, D. C. Wybourne and Miss Nan Johnston. On Tuesday evening, April 18, the club will meet with Mrs. Wybourne for a social meeting.

Mrs. Frank K. Baker spent Thursday visiting with friends in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. W. A. Woodward is home from Fort Wayne, where she spent a few days visiting with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Woodward, and in the home of her cousin, Dr. Morris Herrod.

Mrs. Joseph Elzey was called to Decatur Thursday morning on account of the serious illness of her mother, who had suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. Grace Powell and son, John Franklin, left Thursday for their home in Greentown, after a week's visit with Mrs. Powell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Les F. Chalfant.

Mrs. Carl Wilson entertained most delightfully the members of the Pleasant Word Circle. The evening was of a social nature and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Hazel Mahan-Smith, president; Mrs. Carrie Melching, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Melching, secretary; Mrs. O. J. Melching, treasurer.

Swaim, Ina Miller and Bessie Cotton, flower committee; Mesdames Golda Rector, Gay Hall and Myrtle Crabill, social committee; Mesdames Margaret Kellogg, Effie Roe and Lillian Henline, devotional committee; Mesdames Hazel Wilson, Emma Vananda and Hazel Klein-knight, lookout committee. The hostess then served very nice refreshments to all.

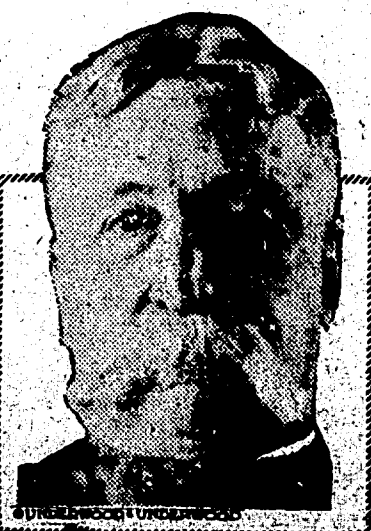

Mrs. John McMullen and daughter Mary are spending this week in London, O., visiting with Mrs. McMullen's daughter, Mrs. Vera Epply.

Mrs. John M. Beck, of near Poe, spent Friday visiting with her daughter, Mrs. M. E. Spencer.

Mrs. Dora Hoover spent Thursday visiting in Fort Wayne with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. C. Hoover.

Mrs. Will Woodward and Miss Gem Tyler will spend the week-end in Fort

The April Birthday Social of the Presbyterian church ladies will be held next Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room of the church.

Mrs. W. W. Fryback is taking the school census of Jefferson township this week for her husband who is the township trustee.

The Needlecraft club enjoyed a pleasant evening with Mrs. Frank Gray. The ladies spent their time visiting with their fancy work and the hostess served delicious ice cream and cake. Those present were Mesdames A. S. Elzey, Alex White, Will Woodward, R. A. Sparks, T. V. Rector, J. W. Metts, Wils. Woodward. Mrs. Will T. Hood was a guest. The club will meet next time with Mrs. Will Woodward.

A reception was given Thursday evening at the M. E. church in honor of J. Orr Powell and Rev. Garfield Dawe and was very largely attended. A nice program had been arranged to welcome the return of Rev. Powell to the Ossian church for another year and to greet the pastor of the new circuit established here. A social time followed and the ladies served ice cream and wafers.

CONVOY NEWS.

Convoy, O., April 15.—Mrs. Andrew Beggs went to Monroeville Thursday to spend the day with Mrs. W. G. Dressel.

Mrs. Ray S. Stuckey and daughter Alice spent Wednesday in Van Wert the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Butler, and family.

Mary, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Hoyer, is quite sick.

A number of girls and boys were entertained at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Balyeat Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Thomas Meads and Mrs. J. A. Dressel spent Thursday in Monroeville the guest of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Dressel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowen went to Van Wert Friday to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Cal Bowen and family.

Walter Denig, who is studying dentistry at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., is the guest of his parents, Wm. Denig and wife.

INDICTED FOR BROTHER'S DEATH

Anderson Grand Jury Returns Finding Against Chauncey Stanley

Anderson, Ind., April 15.—The Madison county grand jury returned an indictment late yesterday against Chauncey Stanley, 27, of Summitville, charging him with second degree murder for killing his brother, Frank Stanley, 26. Stanley is held in jail without bonds. The indictment follows an investigation of the death of Frank Stanley, who succumbed to injuries resulting from a fracture of the skull caused by a rock alleged to have been thrown by Chauncey Stanley. The trouble between the two brothers began in front of their home near Summitville, on Saturday night, April 9.

Excluding private plants, it has been estimated that electric railway lines and power plants in this country absorbed a total of about $100,000,000 of copper.

The common alkali used in the production of copper is known as copper pyrites.

Carranza Boy Soldiers Laugh at Death, Declares Starmont

Youths Show Contempt of Danger by Sleeping Next to Deadly, Whirling Car Wheels, Says Writer Now With Mexican Army.

By Leon Starmont.

Santa Cruz, Sonora, Mexico, April 14.—The more you see of Mexican soldiers the more they impress you! Their stoicism becomes bravery; their fatalism becomes real daring.

When Gavira's troops entrained out of Juarez some of them went to sleep in hammocks—rope hammocks—swung under the cars. And some of the ropes were frayed. But that didn't disturb the slumbers of the young boy soldiers, some of them scarcely 14, who rested soundly as their fragile beds dipped and tipped only a few inches above the roadbed and a few feet from the whirling wheels.

Women and children go along when the troops entrain—for a Mexican soldier's home is in the field of battle, and "a woman's place is the home."

At Naco, where Gen. Calles delayed his special train so pictures could be taken of the troops, there was a string of box cars on the siding, these had been converted into movable barracks.

On the ground across from the station women were cooking frijoles in spiders over coals set in shallow holes. Children were running about, some of them carrying their daddies' knives or pistols. Boys with their breasts covered by cartridges in belts ran for their rifles so they could get the weapons in the picture, too.

On top of the box cars were more women, cooking. And little babies of three or four toddled about the tops of the cars in seemingly great danger of falling off.

Probably they never fall, or their mothers wouldn't let them use the roofs of cars for playgrounds.

Gen. Calles' bodyguard, which traveled with us in the special train, was composed of older, more seasoned soldiers than the majority of those at Naco. These were some of the men with whom Calles, commanding 1,080 soldiers at Agua Prieta, fought off a force five times its size under Gen. Maytorena.

They tell some interesting tales of this battle. In order to impress the Maytorena regiments with the defense's strength, the Agua Prieta garrison bought 1,000 straw hats. With these hats on 1,000 soldiers moved through the trenches, the hats showing over the top.

As soon as they reached a spot where the trenches were out of Maytorena's sight, the soldiers doubled back to the starting point, creeping low and carrying the hats in their hands.

Thus the 1,000 hats passed Maytorena's sight three times in a solid line, and the attacking force was so impressed with the strength of the Agua

Prieta garrison the attack was not pressed.

There are 16,000 trained soldiers in Sonora, they assert. These include the famous Yaqui fighters like those at Naco. There also are a number of Pimas in the Mexican army in this state.

And seeing their fatalism, from childhood to warrior days—the little babies playing on roofs of box cars, the soldiers dozing in hammocks under moving trains—your heart begins to understand why the Mexicans do not fear death.

THE CONVERSATION HERE DIDN'T PASS THE CENSOR

Difficulty in arranging the schedule for The Sentinel horseshoe contest because certain of the contestants have requested afternoon dates and others demand nights, has held up the announcement of the schedule and the exact date of opening play. However, the opening date will be published Monday and the schedule will be made public at the same time.

Scores of practicing pitchers have asked The Sentinel to hold off on the contest another week to assure warmer weather, to make it possible to pitch more accurately. They state that with cold hands they have difficulty in making the shoes go where they ought to and stay put.

It is planned to have fifteen or twenty courts, with that number of games going constantly. By doing this it probably will be possible to play off the series in an afternoon and evening.

Swinney park, Lawton park, and a score of other places are being used daily as practice grounds for the participants, and crowds of from six to twenty gather each afternoon to work out. The pictures of the artists displayed above was made at Swinney park, where a crowd of man-eaters rehearses nearly every day.

It has been years since horseshoe pitching really has interested the city as a whole, and the coming Sentinel contest has stirred up thousands of interested pitchers who do not consider themselves in condition to go into the contest, but who pitch in their own back yards.

HAL STEWART WINS BOUT BY KNOCKOUT

Spills Drouillard for Good in Fourteenth—Mason Beats His Man.

Fort Wayne climbed a notch in the pug world last night when Hal Stewart and Frankie Mason came out victorious in a pair of bouts at Dayton, O. Stewart knocked out Patsy Drouillard, of Windsor, Ont., claimant of the Canadian lightweight title, in the fourteenth round of a scheduled fifteen round battle, and Mason drew a decision from Referee Bud Lilly although his bout with Kid Dayton ran the full ten rounds. Both local fighters put up great shows, and both outclassed their opponents all the way round.

The Stewart-Drouillard go was a fast neck and neck affair until the thirteenth, and in the midst of it Stewart floored his man. Patsy was up in a moment, and thrashed into the local pride right and left, none of his blows telling. He started the same tactics in the fourteenth and was badly winded when Stewart smacked him, a hot one to the jaw, and Patsy went down for the nine count, climbing to his feet at the last second to lie down for another nine. Once more he got up and once more he went down, and then after a count of nine just got to his feet when Stewart smacked him an artistic wellop that ruined the go.

Frankie Mason tried hard for a knockout but had a tough young proposition in Kid Dayton. Dayton handled his mitts with ease and grace in the open places but Mason had him faded on in-fighting. Local fighters went to Dayton with them, and says that Stewart put up the best fight of his career.

The first steel pens were sold for about 40 cents each.

MART CLEARY'S CROWD OPENS SEASON SUNDAY

Sunday, April 16, Defiance, O.
Sunday, April 23, Peru, Ind.
Sunday, April 30, Lafayette, Ind.
Succeeding Sundays to end of season, at home.

Sennett and Diederich will act as the hurling staff for Mart Cleary's Independent Fort Wayne ball club, when the locals go to Defiance, O., to open their season. Hoffer and Robinson will catch. The team leaves at 10 o'clock over the Wabash railroad, and a number of rooters will accompany it.

Mart Cleary today received word that both Peru and Lafayette are willing to meet the locals and has signed up with them. These are two of the strongest independent ball towns in the middle west and some lively play may be expected.

SHOP LEAGUE NOTES.

THE Pennsylvania shop league baseball team blossoms forth with a letter and envelope of crinkly brown paper that would do credit to an art school. And on this paper Harry Hamm writes to The Sentinel sport editor as follows:

The Pennsylvania team will be out in force every Saturday afternoon and Sunday from now on until May 6 at Lawton park for practice.

Manager Al Ringle has a stiff proposition on his hands to weed out his team and whip them in shape as there are about fifty applicants for places, among them the old shop league stars, Benoy, Romary, Hamm, Weberuss and Lauer, and some new material that looks equally as good. The team will not be picked until the opening shop league game May 6. The Pennas will be the best uniformed and equipped team in the league, as Manager Ringle has given Trautman Bros. a contract calling for their highest priced equipment.

The suits will be brownish gray with a wide green stripe, cape and keystone on shirt to match and orange and black socks.

Besides playing shop league ball on Saturday the team will be kept intact for Sunday and holiday out of town games and after are being daily drilled. The opening Sunday game will be played on

HOW MY DAD TAUGHT ME TO PLAY BASEBALL

THE FIRST BASEMAN SHOULD BE THE SUREST CATCHER ON THE TEAM.

Sixth of a Series of Photos, Posed Especially by Joe Tinker, Jr., for The Sentinel, on How to Play Baseball.

FIRST BASE.

The first baseman should be the surest catcher on the team as a large percentage of the balls thrown go to his station. When the bases are empty play well into the field for hits that would otherwise go safe. Make your pitcher cover first base on plays of this nature. Don't make swift overhand throws which are liable to be muffed.

Goshen, Ind., May 14, where preparation is being made for a big time, a parade of the downtown streets, headed by the Goshen band is one of the many features of the program. Although the Pennas suits will make a lot of noise. Any out of town teams wanting games write for date and terms. B. H. Hamm, Secretary, 608 High street, Fort Wayne.

Keep your eyes on the batter if first is occupied. If he bunts toward first, run in and get the ball and peg it to second, taking a chance that it will be returned quickly enough to head off the man who is running to first. Make each peg be accurate.

Before you throw be sure you will head the runner off. Practice handling low balls. A clean pickup invariably retires the batter.

A long reach is a great help to a first baseman. It is sometimes hard to gauge a long throw. Stand with both feet in front of the base so that the position may be easily changed from one side to the other, according to the course of the ball. Watch for the foul line. Practice getting. Always be on the alert to grab popups.

Don't wait for the ball to come to you. Go after it.

PORT DOPE

Arch Osborne, last year's local smiling hurler, signed with Topeka this spring, but has been released. It seems pretty hard to see the big fellow slip for he certainly looked as though he would come back last summer. Osborne spent a season in the A. A.

Well, Erie got back; let old Fort Wayne hump itself. And may Fort Wayne remember that the Central league has a couple of weak sisters who may drop out.

Grand Rapids is just recovering from its roller polo series. Indications point to a Central roller league next year, and all that will keep Fort Wayne out of it is the lack of a suitable rink.

ERIE IS BACK IN LEAGUE BALL; FORT WAYNE BETTER KEEP ITS EYES OPEN

Erie is the first of the cities dropped from the Central league to get back into organized ball. The Sailormen, simply waited until the Hornell club of the Interstate league got into bad financial condition, then grabbed off the franchise and had it moved to Erie. The town was a pretty good drawer last year, and should make good with the Interstate.

Fort Wayne oughtn't to let any opportunities slip should they present themselves, and there is a chance that the locals may get back into the fold before the end of the season. The officials of the Central league surely miss this city, as is evidenced by the awful brawl emitted just this week by President E. W. Dickerson regarding the local conditions. And by the way, the management of the Fort Wayne Independent team wants it made plain that the present representatives of this city are not and never were in any way connected with the Central league management here. Dickerson's slur against the Cleary crowd has left a feeling of bitter resentment with the boys here and they simply want it repeated that Dickerson either is a badly misinformed man concerning Cleary's league or that he is inclined to give vent to his spite at the expense of the truth.

RUNNER 51, WINS 5-MILE RACE.

Cross-country running may be injurious but Arthur William Jones, 51 years of age, old-time Liverpool athlete, will cheerfully offer arguments showing the statement to be erroneous. Jones recently won a five mile race in 30 minutes and 20 seconds. He annexed his first cross country event at 21 years of age, and a ten-mile handicap at 49. This veteran says he hasn't had a sick day since he started in the hill and dale game as a youngster.

GOLF BALL PRICES TO BE SHAVED

Bargains in golf balls are now in order. The Haskell patent on balls has expired, after a reign of seventeen years. Competition has become keen and as a consequence there has been a drop in the prices. With the expiration of the Haskell patent it will be largely English made balls that will be sold here. The Haskell patent does not cover the liquid core balls. They come under the old Kempshall patent which still has two more years to run.

THE LION'S BRIDE.

Vaudeville's Most Astounding Spectacle Coming to Palace.

With the closing of the current bill at the New Palace tonight, a bill that includes the Sigbee acrobatic dogs, funny fat Ed Blondell and company in "The Lost Boy," Thurber and Madison in their unique conceit, "On a Shopping Tour," Bert Howard, the comedy pianist; Mumford and Thompson, humorists, and those French Girls, the dainty little acrobatic dancers, an entirely new program will open next week.

The great Carter himself, the eighth wonder of the world, and his celebrated conjuring constellation, including "The Magical Divorce, the Mystery of the Crystal Casket, the Astral Hand, the Aerial Levitation and the Lion's Bride" will be the prime feature on this bill. All presenting the beautiful dancing girls whose oriental beauty and grace lend a delightful setting for the mystifying necromancies of this King of Thaumaturgi. It is the most pretentious act of its character in existence, requiring a special double length baggage car to transport the effects. Lulu Coates and her famous pickin'-n'-crackerjacks in a lively sixty-hour power dancing specialty; the Three Loretas, in a musical offering extraordinary, and the noted acrobatic combination, Seabury and Price, are also on this coming bill.

Everybody that likes good Bread should buy Haffner's Potato Loaf next Monday. 10c at all dealers.

CONTEMPLATE CHANGE IN THE TIME TABLES

Officials of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company are contemplating changes in the timetables of the Bluffton and Huntington lines to take effect some time next month. It has been a custom of the company to make changes in the schedules each fall and spring. However, no changes have been made for nearly a year and a half.

S. W. Greenland, general manager, states that the automobile changes freight conditions in the country to a great extent in the spring of the year, another reason why the tables are to be altered.

EXPO DURING CENTENNIAL

Amusement and Industrial

Show to Be Held in June.

IT WILL OCCUPY FOUR CITY BLOCKS

Merchants and Manufacturers to Join in Big Display.

For several days the Centennial general committee has been just "bustling" to tell the secret which it has been keeping securely locked up during that time.

But it's out now. In addition to the pageant, parades and everything else which will make Fort Wayne the most talked-of city in the middle west this summer, the committee announces that it will hold a vast amusement and industrial exposition for six days and nights, beginning one day earlier than the Centennial celebration, and closing one day later.

E. C. Miller, general chairman of the Centennial celebration, asks The Sentinel to make several points in connection with the exposition plain to everybody, so there can be no confusion or misunderstanding. Mr. Miller says: "This exposition, which will run for six days and nights, June 5 to 10, has one great object to accomplish, and it can do it only with the earnest help of everybody. "The week of June 6 to 9 would be entirely lost-sided, if we had merely the historic pageant. By this I mean that the pageant will tell our hundreds of thousands of visitors the thrilling story of the years of development of the wilderness into a civilized community. But it stops right there. It cannot, of necessity, show to the world the greatness of Fort Wayne of today. So, in the pageant, we have only one-half of the story told. The other half is the story of the present-day results. And this exposition is designed to tell the story in a most impressive way to the thousands who will attend."

Chairman Miller then went on to show the details of the big undertaking. "We have secured an exhibition space equal to four city squares," said he, "in which to make this big showing of Fort Wayne of today. The space includes the present base ball park, all of the space at the north of the park to the St. Mary's river, and all of the open space south of the park, extending well toward Superior street. The lease for this big area was closed last evening, and work will begin at once to level off the ground and put it into shape for use in June. We will begin at once the expenditure of probably $15,000 to make the place over into a big attractive exposition ground."

"You will be interested in knowing how this space is to be used. In the first place, the visitor as he goes northward on Calhoun street, will encounter a wide arched entrance nearly opposite the county jail. This will be the only entrance to the grounds. The ticket of admission will be twenty-five cents. Once within the grounds, the visitor will find this large area simply covered with high class exhibits and the best entertainment we can provide. We are endeavoring to arrange for the appearance of Sousa's band during the six days of this exposition. If we fail to secure it, we shall strive to get Creators or the Kilties. This suggests to you the quality of the entertainment to be shown. We will then provide a large number of the very best outdoor attractions in America. And when I say this, I mean it. There will be no cheap claptrap shows or anything of that kind. The word carnival has no place in describing this big attraction for the Centennial. We have engaged a competent man—J. S. Berger—to manage the exposition, under our personal direction, and he has gone at the work as if he knew his business. He has already mapped out the plan of the grounds, showing the location of a large number of well-planned booths of uniform size which will be occupied by the producers and dealers who recognize in the exposition a splendid opportunity to proclaim the greatness of Fort Wayne. I feel that the exposition will prove to be the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in the middle west."

Will Hold the Crowds.

Members of the general committee, who have been working on the preliminaries of the exposition feel that this feature of the Centennial solves one of the real big problems of the week. The parades are scheduled for the afternoons of each day. The pageant will take place for three nights. But between times, the thousands on the street will have to be entertained. The arrangement for the exposition not only provides some of the best of free attractions for the streets, but, for the sum of twenty-five cents the throngs can enjoy the sights of an exposition worth many times the price of admission, as everything is free after one enters the gate.

Not a Money-Making Scheme. The committee wishes it to be understood that the great object of the exposition is to bring together a great made-in-Fort Wayne exhibit, a large, comprehensive automobile show, a display of goods sold in Fort Wayne, as well as other evidences of modern progress.

The Result of It All. The undoubted result of the exposition will be to open the eyes of our own people and those of the surrounding territory to the vastness of the manufacturing industries of Fort Wayne. If it accomplishes no more than to make the people acquainted with their own city, it will be one glorious success.

Next Monday is Easter Potato Loaf Day.

HEREDITY in MOTION PICTURE WORK

LETTERS FROM A CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL ACTOR BY A. H. GIEBLER

DEAR DAVE:
Well, Dave, I want to tell you about that Sunday-school entertainment that I went to because those women wanted me to come so they could have a movie play to run off and the actor in it so they could see what a big movie actor like me looks like, and I could make them a little speech and tell them how the movies are made.

"I got chased all around the house in the rain."

But I didn't make no speech on account of having such a bad cold, and I wouldn't have went at all but J. J. Murphy said:

"Do you want to make them people sore and disappoint all them girls that want to take a look at you?"

The way I come to get that bad cold was from working in a play with rain stuff in it. We don't make pictures of it raining like you think we do, Dave, because it don't rain when the sun shines and you can't make outside movies when the sun don't shine, and if they had to wait for rain to come along every time they wanted to have a scene of that kind they would just have to wait till it rained.

This picture when I worked in the rain scene is where I got to see a girl that I like and her pa won't let me come in the house and the bulldog won't let me go out of the yard, and I got chased all around the house in the rain which is made by a rain-making machine that is like a big sprinkler, only there's more water in one of them movie rainstorms than there is in any cloud you ever saw.

After the scene was over I says to J. J. Murphy: "Hurry with them other scenes, I am getting cold."

He says: "You poor boob, we ain't going to make them other scenes till tomorrow. Get that wet make-up off of you or you'll have bronchitis or something." And the next day I started to sneezing like a house afire and my nose was red.

That was the day of the entertainment that was to be pulled off that night, and I said: "Oh, pshaw, I won't let a little thing like a bad cold keep me away and disappoint them women," but when J. J. says that evening, "Everybody go out and get some eats and come back to the studio while we make them interiors," I told him I couldn't go to no entertainment, because you can't be at two places at once, and he said:

"We only need you in one scene. You can beat it in time to go there, easy."

I said: "Yes, but won't I be awful tired working, and I've got such a bad cold?"

He said: "Tom, I didn't think you was afraid of a bunch of women," and I said, "I ain't afraid of no bunch of women," and J. J. says, "Well, then, go and let 'em gaze on you and make 'em a little speech, otherwise you'll make them sore at the whole moving-picture industry and there's lots of people that go to Sunday school in this broad land of ours. What if all them people quit going to the movies? It would cripple the business, and a lot of actors would lose their jobs."

And that's right, Dave, you got to be careful and not make people mad in this business. While we was making them other scenes of that brakeman picture I got to studying up that speech to make to those people, and I couldn't think of nothing on account of having that cold in my head, and I said to J. J.:

"Why don't you send Bennie Steinbush to make the speech and just let me go along for them to look at, and Bennie can tell them about what a fine actor I am."

J. J. said, "What's the matter? Got cold feet again?" I says, "No, I got a cold in my head."

Bennie says, "Good! Then I'll get in on some of that popularity stuff myself, I'd just like to go over there and make 'em a speech. I'll tell 'em about Tom, but I won't forget to tell 'em about little Bennie, and I'll bet I make a hit. All them girls will want to kiss me, I guess."

I said, well, I guessed I could go and make them a little speech by myself, only I wished I didn't have this cold.

Bennie says, "Come with me; I'll fix that so you won't know you ever had a cold." And we went to a place called Jake's Place, and Bennie said, "Jake, shake hands with Mr. Boggs, the celebrated movie actor. He's going out in society, and needs a little bracer."

And Mr. Jake says, "Yes, he looks like one. What he needs is one of my stingers." And we drunk one of them, and it made you feel good, and I said, "How much does them drinks cost?"

Jake says, "Three for a quarter."

I told him we didn't want but two, and he said the drink was patented and the inventor had to drink one every time anybody else does, and so I bought a quarter's worth of the stingers, and Bennie says, "Don't your cold feel better now?" and I said, "Yes, it is better."

A man come up and butted in to us while we was talking, and Jake says to him, "Who sent any messenger boy for you to come and here in on us this way? I'll tap you with this beer mallet if you don't beat it!"

But Bennie says, "Desist, Jacob. The gentleman is attracted by my friend Boggs, who is such a famous actor that people take all kinds of chances to get to talk with him."

The man said he was an admirer of genius, and he was an awful nice man, and he said he had always wanted a chance to talk to a real live movie actor, and I bought some more stingers and give him one, and then I said, "Well, I'll have to go and get this make-up off and go to that Sunday-school entertainment."

And then Bennie Steinbush thought of a good scheme. "You just go the way you are, Tom," he says, "and set down in the back of the hall. If folks know you they will be bashful about saying nice things about you to your face, but if they don't know you, you can have lots of fun listening to what they say about your acting when the film is run off."

I thought that was a good scheme, and Jake says, "I did that when I got married. My wife's folks had never saw me, and I went around and didn't tell them who I was, and I said to her old man, 'Did you know your daughter was married?' And the old man said, 'Yes, she married a bum.'"

Then the other man, who thought I was such a good actor says to me, "Have you got change for a dollar?" I said yes, I had change for a dollar and I gave it to him, and he bought more stingers, and I said, "Where is the dollar I give you change for?" And he says, "Oh, I'll hand that to you in the morning." And then Jake says, "Let's have another round." And we did, and my cold was all gone, and I told them all good-by and shook hands with them and a lot more people who were in the place, and told them I would send them all my picture, and then I went to the entertainment.

There was a whole lot of people going in the hall, and there was a great big picture of me and "Strongheart" having that fight in the schoolhouse scene posted up on the outside, and a lot of people was looking at it, and I stood up alongside of the picture so they could see what I look like, but none of them didn't know who I was because I had them brakeman clothes and make-up on, and a man says, "Stand to one side; you are blocking up the picture gallery."

I went into the hall and they charged me a quarter to go in, and I didn't think they ought to have done that, but it was for a good cause and I paid and didn't say nothing. There wasn't hardly any seats but way back in the hall, and I set down behind a lot of girls and their boy's who had brought them there.

They started running off that picture of me as the backwoods school-teacher, and I tell you, Dave, if you see yourself up there on the screen acting out a piece, you don't know how funny it feels, and them girls got to talking and one said, "Ain't he splendid?" And one of the men, a little bit of a runt, said: "If that guy is an actor then I'm a pugilist, and I can whip Willard and Moran both at once."

And one of the others says: "He don't act. That's the part of a big rube he's got to play and he's acting natural, that's all."

I said, well, I guessed I could go and make

Photoplay Answers

H. G.—The rejection slip you send is the regular form used by the Universal Company. It is a polite rejection, and the kind that is sent to all writers who send in plays that the company cannot use. It means nothing outside of the fact that this particular play has been turned down. The same play might sell at the next place you send it, and it might even be taken by this company after a while.

There are many things that cause a rejection. The play may not be the type the company is making; they may not have players suited to the parts, or they may have made a play along similar lines. The editors of the big companies get hundreds of plays a week. They can do no more than send a printed form of rejection.

Do not allow a rejection slip of any kind to give you any worry. If you think you can write and have confidence in your work, keep right on. When a play comes back send it out again; after it has been out five or six times, read it over; you may see a way of improving it.

P. S.—True happenings, as a rule, do not make good photoplays. Of course, everything is based on reality; it might have happened, or it could happen, but most professional writers do not base their plays on things that have happened to them. A prolific writer is never at a loss for plots, and the plots that are hatched right out of the brain incubator are the very best kind. Facts are sordid things. Take any actual occurrence and analyze it, and you will find that it seldom has any story material in it outside of one bare incident, and stories and plays must be idealized, and you have to take your true story and twist it around to fit these conditions, and you might just as well work on an imaginary plot and be done with it.

It is more elastic and can be molded easier. Do not tell a studio editor that the play you are sending is a true story, or the story of your own life, or of one of your friends. It will not impress him in the least.

One of the girls says: "You boys are just jealous because all the girls are in love with the movie actors," and another man said: "That guy ain't no actor, he's just stalling around, and besides, nice girls don't fall in love with actors, it's only chicken that do that."

I was going to tell them who I was, but they got to the part of the film where me and Strongheart and them roughneck extras has that big fight, and I forgot all about them, and pretty soon I didn't know what I was doing, but I was waving my arms and going through that scene again right there, and I grabbed a man in front of me and was tussling him around, and he said, "You're crazy." And an usher came up and wanted to know what was wrong, and I kinda come to myself and remembered where I was, and then the man who was running the show made a speech. He said: "Ladies and Gentlemen—We have a treat for you tonight. The actor that just acted in the picture you seen tonight will make an address and tell us some interesting things about the life of a moving picture actor. He was to have been here by now, but he was detained and we have sent an automobile to the studio for him."

An usher came up to me and says, "You come with me, sir," and I had to climb over everybody's feet getting out of there, and there is the ignorant people out here, Dave. They don't know nothing, sometimes, and I nearly all tried to trip me and make me fall, and once I set down on a woman's lap, and she says:

"When you are rested I hope you will get up and go on," and I told the usher, "My name is Boggs, and I am the movie actor," and he said: "Yes, yes, I know. Just come with me."

I thought he was going to take me up to the front of the hall, so I could make that speech, but he opened a door and we was on the outside, and he says, "Now you beat it or I'll call a policeman."

Well, good-by, Dave: I've kinda got some of that cold left and don't feel any too good yet. TOM.

"Now you beat it or I'll call a policeman."

offers an interesting study in inherited talent. This young girl was playing an important part with James A. Herne in Shore Acres at the age of 5 years, and at 15 she was taking the leading part of "Madge" in Old Kentucky. While yet a child she went all the way to London and made the hit of her young life in the part of "Lovey Mary" in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, and all because her father before her was an actor.

Miss Barriscale's father was a well-known English actor, who came to this country with the original Lights of London company. Miss Barriscale, after her return from abroad, was engaged to play the leading part in The Rose of the Rancho, by David Belasco, and it was through this that she got into moving pictures. When Jesse L. Lasky wanted to put this play in films he persuaded Miss Barriscale to take the part, and she liked the work so well that she accepted a long contract offered her by Thomas H. Ince, of the Triangle Corporation.

Miss Barriscale has made splendid success of screen work. Among her best-known films are "The Cup of Life," "The Green Swamp," "Bullets and Brown Eyes," "The Golden Claw," "The Matinee," "The Painted Lady," "The Last Act" and many others.

Children of actors seem to inherit the talent of their parents more than in any other line of work. This is caused mainly by the conditions of actors' lives. The child of the banker or the butcher or lawyer may grow up with little knowledge and no liking at all for the profession their fathers followed.

Not so with the actor's child. The actor, because he is constantly traveling, must take his children along with him, and the little ones acquire the rudiments of the art and a liking for the fascinating work as soon as they learn to think, and as quick as they can toddle out on the stage they are given parts whenever a child is needed in the plays being produced.

Some of the most noted picture stars inherited their talent and love of the work from their parents. Miss Barriscale is but one example. Another is found in the case of Miss Alma Hanlon. This girl represents the fourth generation of actors. Her family were the famous Hanlons, who came to this country years ago with Hanlon's Follies.

Mary Pickford, her sister Lottie, and brother Jack, were almost raised on the stage. Their mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, was a well-known actress at one time. Charles Chaplin is the son of English actors. Emily Stevens is the daughter of an actress, and niece of Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Wallace Reid's father is Hal Reid, the actor and playwright. Florence Reed is the daughter of Roland Reed, a famous comedian. Dorothy Davenport is the child of the well-known actor, Harry Davenport. The three Barrymores, Lionel, Ethel and Jack, belong to a family who have been actors for generations. Their father, Maurice Barrymore, was a well-known actor in his day, and their mother was a sister of John and Sidney Drew. Sidney Drew himself has a son, S. Ranken Drew, who is making a name for himself on the screen. Olive Fuller Golden is the daughter of George Fuller Golden, a well-known actor, and the founder of the White Rats, the association of theatrical performers.

married. Have heard no rumors to the effect that Bunny's pictures would be showed again. They may be reissued at some future date, however.

C.—EDNA PURVIANCE will play with Charles Chaplin in his new comedy for the Mutual Corporation. They are at work now in a studio at Los Angeles, Cal. Just address Chaplin at Los Angeles, he will get your letter.

R.—Helen Holmes will begin work in a new ten-chapter serial soon, which will be made from Frank H. Spearman's novel, "Whispering Smith." J. P. McGowan will be "Whispering Smith," and there will be much lively Western stuff in the serial besides the usual railroad action.

J. L. C.—Grace Cunard has appeared in several two and three reel plays since she finished work on the Broken Coin, but she is now working on another serial, Peg o' the Ring. One of the latest releases in which she and Francis Ford appear is Lady Raffles Returns.

V. B.—Mabel Normand has not left the Triangle, as it was rumored, but has entered into a new contract with that corporation whereby she will be given greater scope for her talents, and will be starred in five-reel comedy dramas. She will continue to receive her mail through the Triangle offices at 71 West Twenty-third street, New York.

T. R.—This is the cast of Essanay's Fanned Door: "Molly Carter," Ruth Stonehouse; "Jim Carter," Edmund F. Cobb; "Chester Cooper," the sheriff, Thurlow Brewer; "The Girl at Heidelberg," Peggy Sweeney. The actor you ask about was probably a minor character in the play and his name would not be given.

J. O. H. L.—In writing a photoplay you do not write a story at all, unless you do so some writers reduce your plot to story form and then make your scenario from that. Your question indicates that you do not understand scenario construction. If this is the case, you will have to get books from the public library that will show you the photoplay form.

Some firms will consider plots in synopsis form, but not many. Writing out the play in a scenario is what develops it and makes it saleable, usually. A book and a play for the regular stage are two separate and distinct pieces of literature. A plot in story form might not appeal to a producer of plays, but when it is reduced to scenes and dialogue, it might make a decided hit. The same is true of photoplays. Your plot in synopsis or story form cannot present its best side, while if it is developed and made into a picture play, its possibilities are seen at once. If you have a clever and new plot, you may sell it in any form, but you will stand a better chance if you can complete and offer it as a full-fledged photoplay.

Wallace Reid's father is Hal Reid, the actor and playwright. Florence Reed is the daughter of Roland Reed, a famous comedian. Dorothy Davenport is the child of the well-known actor, Harry Davenport. The three Barrymores, Lionel, Ethel and Jack, belong to a family who have been actors for generations. Their father, Maurice Barrymore, was a well-known actor in his day, and their mother was a sister of John and Sidney Drew. Sidney Drew himself has a son, S. Ranken Drew, who is making a name for himself on the screen. Olive Fuller Golden is the daughter of George Fuller Golden, a well-known actor, and the founder of the White Rats, the association of theatrical performers.

married. Have heard no rumors to the effect that Bunny's pictures would be showed again. They may be reissued at some future date, however.

C.—EDNA PURVIANCE will play with Charles Chaplin in his new comedy for the Mutual Corporation. They are at work now in a studio at Los Angeles, Cal. Just address Chaplin at Los Angeles, he will get your letter.

R.—Helen Holmes will begin work in a new ten-chapter serial soon, which will be made from Frank H. Spearman's novel, "Whispering Smith." J. P. McGowan will be "Whispering Smith," and there will be much lively Western stuff in the serial besides the usual railroad action.

J. L. C.—Grace Cunard has appeared in several two and three reel plays since she finished work on the Broken Coin, but she is now working on another serial, Peg o' the Ring. One of the latest releases in which she and Francis Ford appear is Lady Raffles Returns.

V. B.—Mabel Normand has not left the Triangle, as it was rumored, but has entered into a new contract with that corporation whereby she will be given greater scope for her talents, and will be starred in five-reel comedy dramas. She will continue to receive her mail through the Triangle offices at 71 West Twenty-third street, New York.

T. R.—This is the cast of Essanay's Fanned Door: "Molly Carter," Ruth Stonehouse; "Jim Carter," Edmund F. Cobb; "Chester Cooper," the sheriff, Thurlow Brewer; "The Girl at Heidelberg," Peggy Sweeney. The actor you ask about was probably a minor character in the play and his name would not be given.

J. O. H. L.—In writing a photoplay you do not write a story at all, unless you do so some writers reduce your plot to story form and then make your scenario from that. Your question indicates that you do not understand scenario construction. If this is the case, you will have to get books from the public library that will show you the photoplay form.

Some firms will consider plots in synopsis form, but not many. Writing out the play in a scenario is what develops it and makes it saleable, usually. A book and a play for the regular stage are two separate and distinct pieces of literature. A plot in story form might not appeal to a producer of plays, but when it is reduced to scenes and dialogue, it might make a decided hit. The same is true of photoplays. Your plot in synopsis or story form cannot present its best side, while if it is developed and made into a picture play, its possibilities are seen at once. If you have a clever and new plot, you may sell it in any form, but you will stand a better chance if you can complete and offer it as a full-fledged photoplay.

Old Actors' Farewell to Be in the Movies

THE old thespian stars of bygone days, who are now sheltered in the Actors' Home on Staten Island, New York City, are going to make another appearance—for many of them their last farewell. These kindly, mellowing artists will be seen, not on the boards they trod in their heyday, but in the youngest or the arts, the moving pictures.

Their appearance will be part of the Motion Picture Campaign for the Actors' Fund of America, which proposes to raise $500,000 in fifteen weeks as its share of the million-dollar endowment needed to put the work of the fund on a sound financial basis.

Here are the men and women who have given their best to the stage, now on the downward path of life. The films in which the old actors will take part are to be shown, according to the plans of the committee in New York, in every theater in the country at the same time. There will be depicted every phase of life in the Actors' Home in Staten Island.

The chief feature of the reel, however, is to be a film drama, entirely the work of the members of the home. It is written by one of them, and will be rehearsed and acted by the former stars, under the direction of Daniel Frohman.

KING OF HOP ALLEY CHINESE IN THE CLUTCHES OF FOREIGN DEVILS

FRANK T. DIGGES

UNITED STATES Internal Revenue Agent Frank T. Digges, who has been largely responsible for the clean-up among drug users and violators of the federal oleomargarine laws, was appointed to the government service about a year ago. He conducted a drug business at Glasgow, Howard County, Mo., and was made a member of the St. Louis staff because of his knowledge of narcotic drugs shortly after the Harrison anti-narcotic drug law went into effect.

When Digges showed up at the office of Internal Revenue Agent L. G. Nutt, then in charge of the St. Louis office of the department, he was given an outline of what his work would consist. Nutt then handed Digges a 44-caliber revolver and a gold badge and ordered him to "get busy."

Agent Nutt, after Digges had been given a two weeks' try-out, remarked: "He's one of the devilish fellows I've got. I never saw a man break into the business in such short time."

ally known as "Hop Alley," were the men who were responsible for the distribution of narcotics in various forms among its users.

With infinite pains they worked up the case and did not spring the trap until all was in readiness and, as one of the secret service men said, "the weather conditions were propitious." And then, at the place of Lee Mow Linn, in "Hop Alley," they found opium and its various narcotic derivatives in quantity and various forms, from the crude sirup to "Yen Shee," which is 15 per cent pure morphine, as was testified to in court later.

Lee Mow Linn and Lee Bing were sentenced to five years in Leavenworth for the illicit manufacture of opiates, took an appeal and furnished bonds. It is expected that within a short time the Court of Appeals will hand down a decision in their cases.

Lee Mow Linn has been in St. Louis for many years and has accumulated property through various chop suey restaurants and his business connections in "Hop Alley" reputed to be in the neighborhood of $500,000. He is the banker of the Chinamen of the Middle West.

Lee Bing is his right-hand man, and it is his name which appears over a more or less fashionable chop suey place near Grand and Olive. The two men have been under suspicion by the internal revenue men for some time, and their arrest and conviction was the result of a carefully prepared campaign.

"Their smiles are childlike and bland," said one of Uncle Sam's men, "but they are about the smoothest individuals on the face of the earth. They are the hardest men in the world to land, and we must have the most conclusive evidence to convict them. For not one of them will ever 'squeak,' and an informer is unknown. They go to their fate stoically, take what is coming to them. Among the Chinese crooks there is such a thing as 'honor among thieves.' Of course, this may be due to the fact that if one of them ever made a betrayal of a comrade he would be hatched at the first opportunity, and they know it."

Frank T. Digges bears the title of deputy internal revenue collector. He is the great authority on narcotics for Uncle Sam in the Middle West, with his headquarters in St. Louis.

"My only province, as far as the use of drugs goes," said the doctor, "is that which is concerned with infraction of the federal law. But it is a fact that the use of all sorts of narcotics is growing in the United States. Opium in its various forms, cocaine, heroin, all are used very generally in all walks of society. Among the lower classes the smoking of the pipe is the general form of this dissipation, although the use of morphine and yen shee as hypodermic injections is about as common."

Digges said that the raw opium was imported in bulk form and converted into the various forms in which it is used.

"Opium is a product of the poppy plant," he said. "It is popularly associated in the public mind with the Chinese. But it first became the national vice of the 'Flowery Kingdom' through its introduction by the British from India, when the great East India Company had control of the Buddhist nation. Practically all narcotics are products of opium in one form or another."

"The most common form of the drug used, particularly by the lower world, is that of raw opium. It is a putty looking substance and is rolled into small pills. These are heated over a flame and placed into the bowl of a long-stemmed pipe. The smoker reclines and inhales the fumes. The sensation ensuing is of a dreamy unconsciousness, and the visions which come are always remote. That peculiar attribute of the smoke has made it so tremendously popular. One who desires to forget may drift away into another world with the knowledge that the visions which come will always be pleasant."

In speaking of "yen shee" Digges said that it simply was another form of cooked opium.

LEE CHIN CHUNG, of indefinite age, as are all Chinese after they obtain their majority, is the logical successor to the head of the Chinese world of the Middle West should Lee Bing and Lee Mow Linn be sent to prison eventually. He is upstanding and of keen intelligence, takes pride in dressing well, and speaks splendid English. He says that he has been in this country many years. He is the business head of the chop suey cafe at 510 Market street, St. Louis.

LEE CHIN CHUNG

points of the body where arteries are readily accessible are sought."

The great narcotic authority then went on to tell of the discovery of cocaine. "It is one of the strongest of all drugs and was first used, and still is, by surgeons as a local anaesthetic. In using the knife, an injection deadens the muscles and tissues, and there is not necessary in minor operations. But its use in the surgical world brought about a desire for it by subjects, and today it is one of the great menaces of the world."

"Cocaine is generally used by its devotees in the nature of a snuff. It has the property of exhilaration, a terrific stimulant. And users of morphine or opium, both of which tend to produce sleep, use it to counteract the effect of the sedatives. The combined use cannot be stood long and brings about a general breakdown, both physical and mental."

The last word in drugs is heroin, according to Dr. Digges. "It is concentrated," he said, "it is absolutely the apotheosis of everything that is evil in the world of drugs. It has all of the is concerned, or the internal revenue men, when opium smuggling or manufacture comes to light."

"That Hop alley is a wonderful place," said one of Uncle Sam's men when discussing the cases of Lee Mow Linn and Lee Bing. "You can search the place with a fine-tooth comb and not uncover a trace of opium. And I firmly believe that if we would take those buildings apart, piece by piece, we would find tons of it."

"When we arrested the Chinese a year ago there was an innocent-looking hole in the wall. There did not seem to be anything in it. One of the men had a pocket mirror and a flashlight. He placed the mirror at the bottom of the hole, the light above, and uncovered a hundred pounds of opium suspended above."

Ever since the Geary exclusion act was passed by Congress, half a century ago, the matter of keeping out the undesirable Chinese coolie from the United States has caused the Immigration Department and its various ramifications about as much trouble as any great national question. They will get in through underground channels,

The doling out of Chinese dishes is the favorite commercial pursuit of the Chinese throughout the United States, and there are several palatial resorts of this character in St. Louis. A notable downtown place is that at 510 Market street, where Lee Bing has his habitat and dictates the lives of the Chinese in the lower business section of the city.

This place is ornate in an Oriental way, with inlaid tables and chinaware which rivals the famous wares of Sevres. Its decorations are in green and gold. It is here that Lee Chin Chung reigns as ostensible proprietor. And should Lee Bing and Lee Mow Linn be sent to prison, he is the logical successor as head of the Chinese of St. Louis and its tributary country.

In these chop suey places, as they are popularly termed, original Chinese dishes are served. The popular dish is that which gives its name to the establishment. Chop suey might well be called a Chinese hush. The cook seemingly throws everything into it that happens to come to hand, and then, like a skilled Parisian chef,

"It is just the cake of the pipe," he said, "just like the cake which forms in your meerschaum. It is more concentrated than the raw drug and is most commonly eaten. It produces the same effect as the pipe, but it is more immediate and lasting. It is about 15 per cent pure morphine. Among the lower classes it is 'shot' hypodermically, after having been dissolved in hot water. The use of it brings terrible abscesses upon the body, as it is not readily assimilated in the blood."

Digges said that the use of all narcotics was gaining all over the country.

"Not content with the use of smoking opium," he said, "the people must have something more concentrated, something that would have a more immediate and forceful attack. This was furnished in the first place by morphine, the drug of Thomas De Quincey, than whom no greater master of English ever penned a page, the man who wrote the immortal 'Confessions of an Opium Eater.' The use of this narcotic is generally hypodermic, injections through the wrists, until they become hardened, when other VICES and few of the virtues of other narcotics. However, it is expensive, and its use is largely confined to the higher classes of society, the wealthy who have acquired the taste for drugs."

Lee Mow Linn is reputed to be the head of a Chinese "tong," or secret society, of St. Louis none other than the famous Hip Sing Tong. But the Hip Sings, as all other Chinese societies, are hatchetmen. One enemy is a common enemy, and there has been many an Oriental person non grata who has dropped out of sight and never been accounted for.

The Hip Sing Tong in St. Louis has a clear field. It is all powerful and the tong wars which have characterized San Francisco particularly have been wanting in this city. Lee Mow Linn is the power that is, and what he says goes all the way along the line.

In Hop alley, at certain times, there are sessions held in secret places, when the law is laid down, and all of the slant-eyed inhabitants must obey them. The doing of the tong is without the ken of the secret service men, who bother little except in case an American citizen and Uncle Sam's dominion is the Mecca of all Chinese.

For years past they have been coming into the United States principally through Canada and Mexico. And once they are safely landed they acquire forged identification papers, and it is seldom that any of them are ever deported. From Vancouver, B. C., they come in on dark nights to Seattle and Tacoma. From the west coast of Mexico they are smuggled across the border with the connivance of Mexican officials. For neither British Columbia nor Mexico bar the Chinese. And they pay large sums for their transportation and protection.

disguises it all with a sauce the composition of which no Occidental has ever been able to discover. There are many grades of it, however, but to enjoy chop suey one must acquire a taste for it.

"Yakamen," or noodles, comes next in general favor. This dish is very much the same as the German noodle, with the exception that it is made without eggs. It is served in a bowl with meat trimmings, usually of pork or chicken. And with it is always the Chinese sauce, imported from the Orient, which has obtained a strong hold upon the appetites of the Americans who patronize the chop suey cafes.

WITH the fear in their souls that their king and his premier may be taken away by "the foreign devils" and locked up in an awful place called Leavenworth, the Chinese of the Middle West are nightly burning their joss sticks in a massive endeavor to exorcise the evil spirits and preserve to them their human patron saints.

FRESHEN UP YOUR FADED ROOMS---COST IS SMALL

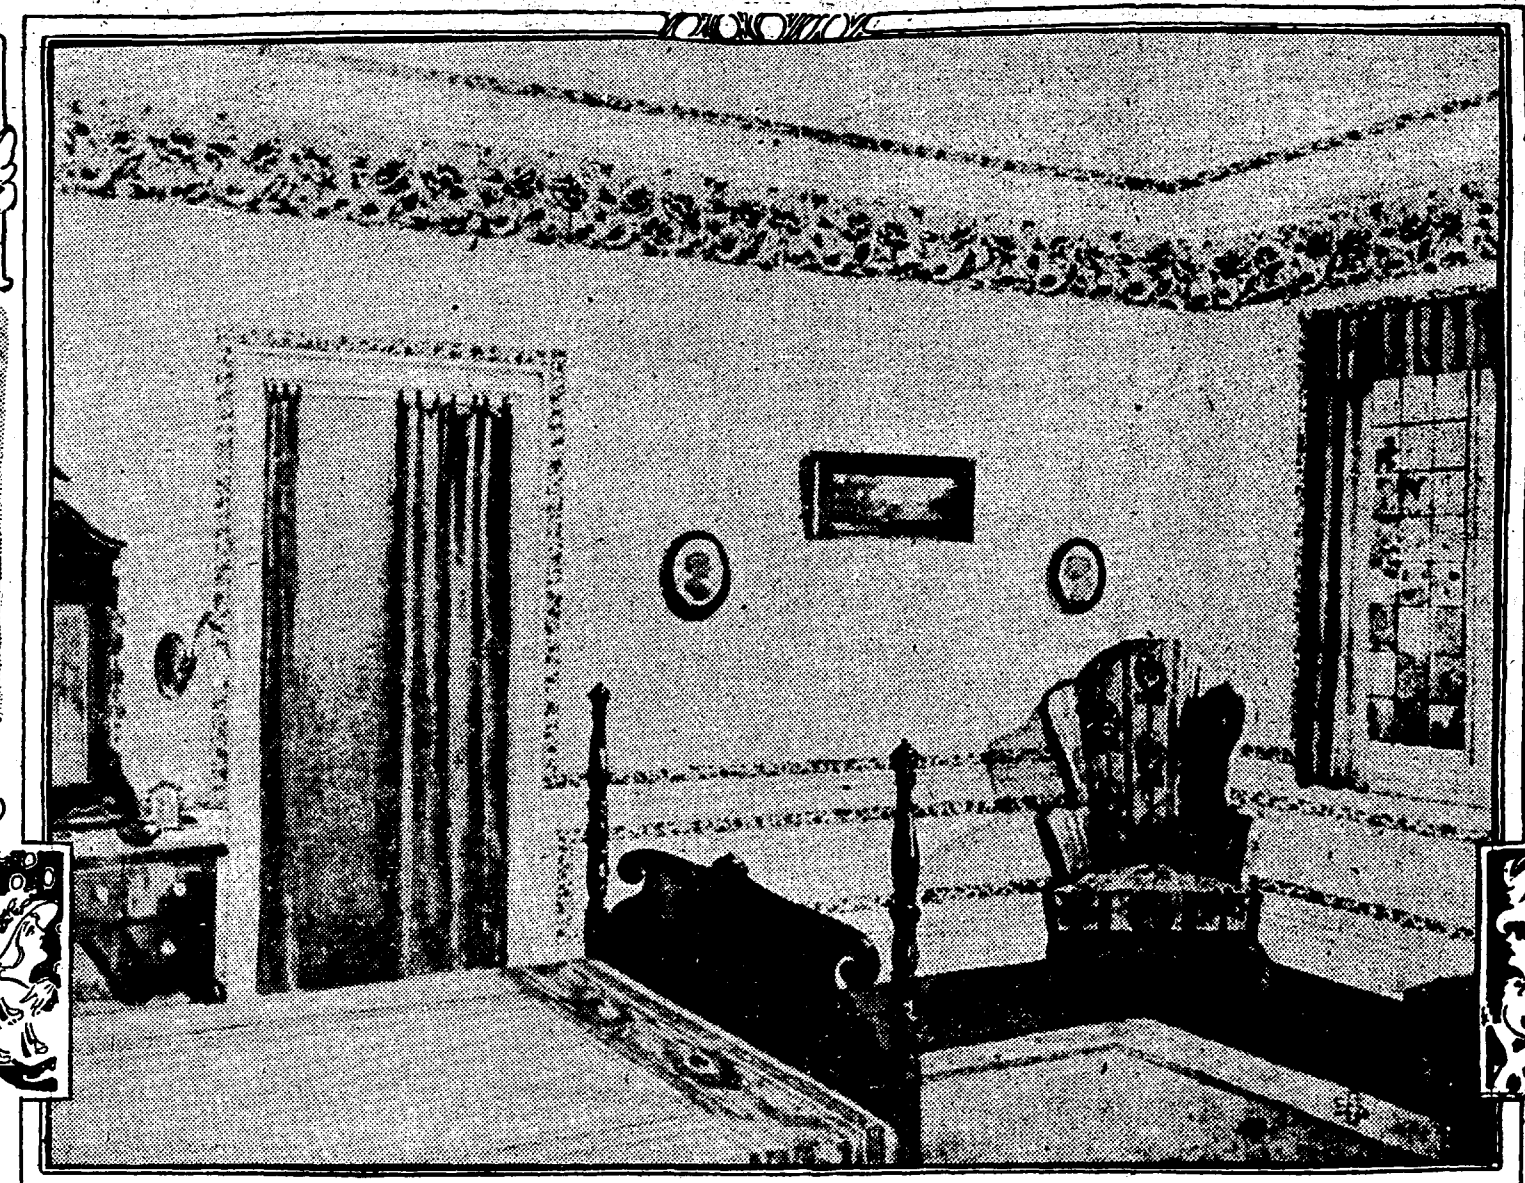

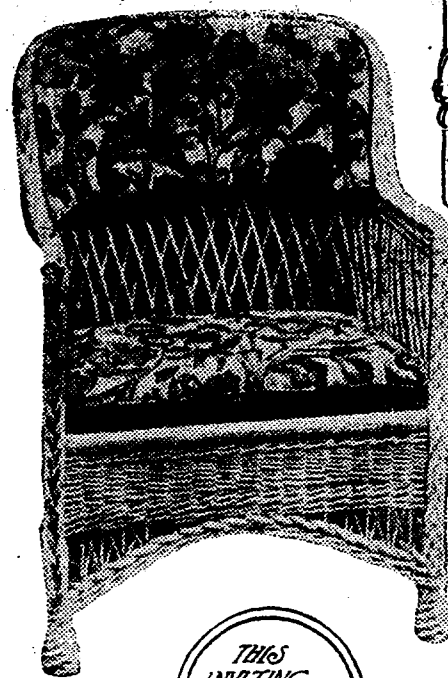

HOME LAUNDRY

BY EDNA EGAN.

IN arranging the laundry the first thing to consider is the fine work we intend to keep in our own hands. The water should be clean and soft. Hard water will prevent soap from lathering, and this can be overcome by the addition (small quantities) of ammonia, borax or soda.

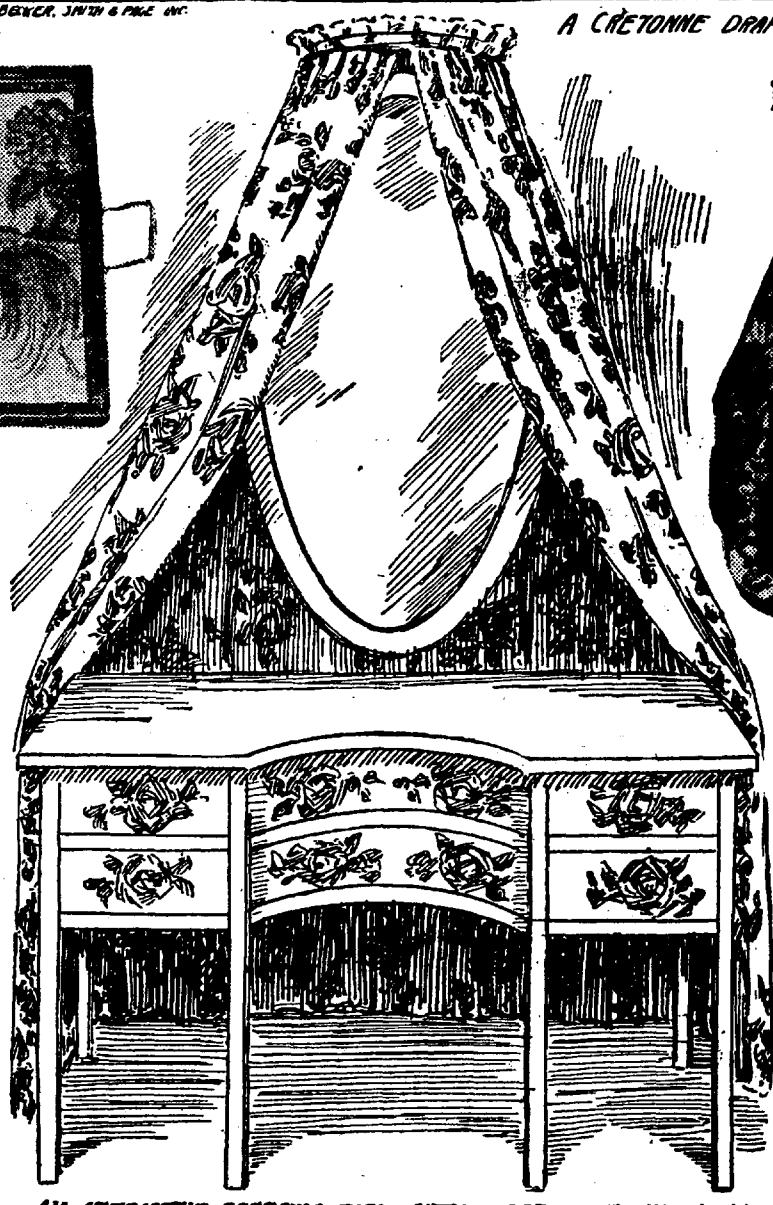

Here is a crepe de chine blouse of which we are especially fond. We want it to be clear, with a fresh white, not the yellow tinge which so often comes after the first washing. Make a good suds with soap, softened by a bit of borax and tinted with aniline blue. Never rub the soap on the fabric, simply squeeze through the suds and rinse in tepid water twice. Dry by pressing in a Turkish towel, hang in the air for a few minutes, then press with a warm iron, finishing with a hotter one.

Our very best lace centerpiece must be made ready for the dinner party we are to give next week. Prepare a good suds and dip the lace piece up and down briskly. If you want it clear white add a little bluing to the tepid rinsing water; if ivory white omit the bluing, and if the rich cream of old lace add a few teaspoonfuls of clear coffee. Roll up in Turkish towels and pat until almost dry; then pin on the clean-covered ironing board, or bosom board, or even in the pillows in the spare bedroom if no other place is available, and pull and pick carefully into shape, until each pearl and loop lie in place and each mesh is the proper shape. If the piece has a linen center, after the lace is all picked out dampen the linen carefully and press from the center toward the edges.

SURPRISE DISHES

SURPRISE the family now and then with a new dish and set them guessing as to what it consists of. Those who taste vegetable sausages for the first time are sure to be puzzled. These are made by soaking one and one-half cups of lima beans over night and cooking in salted water until tender. Then they are put through a potato ricer, and two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste, a dash of tabasco, or any very hot sauce, and a pinch of thyme is beaten into the pulp. If too stiff, moisten with beaten egg. Form the mixture into small sausage shapes, dip in beaten egg and flour and fry until a nice brown on all sides. Another unusual dish is made from one cupful each of any cold flaked fish and rice. These are put into a double boiler to get very hot. Then one tablespoonful of butter, one egg and seasoning of salt and pepper are added. Stir well until the whole is well blended, then serve.

A CRETONNE WORK BAG

CARE OF THE REFRIGERATOR

BY MRS. McCUNE.

HOT or even warm food should never be put into the refrigerator. It will raise the temperature, and with it the ice bill.

Every time the ice chamber is to be filled the remaining piece of ice should be removed and the compartment wiped out, then the ice replaced. The new ice should be in one place and should be washed before putting into the refrigerator. Where ice is put in from the outside it is particularly important to have clean ice. Artificial ice is much cleaner to use, but it is not always possible to procure it. A set of white enamel dishes and plates is a great aid to cleanliness. Bowls and oval dishes of this ware can be turned upside down and used as covers. Cut glass and fine china should never be put there, as the danger of chipping or even breaking is great.

The use of cracked or chipped dishes for food is greatly to be deplored. The rough surface left by the cracks or chips is an excellent place for bacterial growth.

Uncooked meat should be kept in a covered enamel dish. Food should never be covered with paper of any kind, with the possible exception of oiled paper, used only once.

Milk bottles should be washed before being put in the refrigerator. Eggs with barnyard soil should not be put in the refrigerator. Eggs should be kept in a rack or dish with one layer, so they may be used in the order in which they were bought.

The contents of the refrigerator should be examined daily, and no stale food left there. If anything is spilled it should be cleaned up at once. The shelves and floor of the refrigerator should be cleaned thoroughly at least once a week.

In this weekly cleaning all food must be removed. The racks should be removed and washed in hot soapy water or soda solution, scalded, and then dried, and if possible sunned. The inside of the refrigerator should be thoroughly washed.

THE busy housemother may depend, even more than formerly, on her sewing machine, for there has been invented a darning to use on a double-thread machine. And it does good darning, too. There are no loose threads to be in the way, there are no torn edges where the darning thread did not catch, and best of all, there can be no lumps. All that is necessary is to put the frame under the presser foot, arrange the stocking on a frame and the work is practically done.

ALL the precious founces, veils and edgings that are being kept as heirlooms, made of various laces, such as Chantilly, blond and Brussels, and net applique, can be blended ideally with taffetas and tulle in the production of rarely graceful gowns for the home. It should be remembered that lace needs air. It is bad economy to lay it by in lavender indefinitely, and therefore when the opportunity for making use of it is encouraged by fashion it is a pleasant duty to answer the call.

SMART looking lamp shades of water color paper are now being decorated most attractively in black and colors. Women who can paint use this form of decoration, while those who are not so gifted cut designs from other paper and paste them on. Black is used effectively on all these shades, but while there are still many persons who cling to the black and white idea, the majority of women have given up the plain black and white decorations for those resembling the black and colored chintzes. These painted shades are used both for candles and lamps and they are considered especially desirable for bedrooms.

AVERY artistic slumber robe may be made from the unworn strips of silk garments cut not over two inches wide. Cut a large quantity of different colors and then sew the ends together like rag carpets. Usually there are more blacks than colors, and this can be used to advantage about every third strip. When you have enough for a large ball take a bone, crochet hook and crochet a chain the length of the width of the runner size you wish to make. Crochet back and forth in plain double crochet until you have the desired length. This work may also be used for runners, pillow tops, etc., and will be found very effective.

SUPPOSING one is the possessor of a gown made with a guimpe of tucked net and feels the latter is too transparent for street wear, let her bring it into practical use by running a one-inch band of satin ribbon (the color of the net), edging with narrow Valenciennes lace, also same shade, slightly frilled as it is sewed on the upper portion of the sleeve and then down to the wrist. This adds rather than detracts from the beauty of the sleeve and, of course, gives a more substantial appearance than the plainly tucked sleeve. The yoke will require no changing. It will probably be quite small, anyway.

AGOOD way to get the rain water that you use for your face quite free from grit and smut is as follows: Take a piece of blotting paper and fold it in half and then again squareways. Draw one corner back as far as it will go without unfolding, and the hollow formed makes an excellent home manufactured filter that can be used over and over again.

LAUGHTER is a good, healthy, muscle-making, lung-developing exercise, and it is as good for girls as boys. A humor can be cultivated, a girl's mind can be cultivated, a girl's character can be cultivated, and a girl's strength can be cultivated.

and modesty and charms of her womanhood. Not the unpleasant and constant frivolity evidenced in "smart" speech or quickness of repartee, but the humor that looks at the world with a twinkle in the eye and sees its absurdities, its smallness and its fun, says a writer. It should be part of every woman's mental equipment, for women are called upon to bear so many of life's small worries as well as its greater ones. The bringing up of children, the care of servants, and the many social duties that become a burden, are all made easy and possible to put up with by the woman with an unflinching sense of humor and of the bright side of life.

WHEN not in use a tablecloth should be kept in folded creases and when brought out to be spread should be laid on the table and unfolded its entire length the width being doubled with the center crease along the center of the table. Then the half breadth that is folded should be turned back and the cloth will hang even. Careless servants often gather up a cloth "anyhow" without taking the trouble to fold it up again in its own creases and thus fresh ones are made. A tablecloth will keep fresh-looking as long again if it is always folded up in its own folds and put away until the next meal. The French have a way of making even an inferior quality of table linen look well without the aid of starch. When the napkins are washed and ready to be ironed they are dipped into boiling water and partially wrung out between cloths. They are then rapidly ironed with as hot a flatiron as possible without burning them.

PETTICOATS

THE smartness that is only skirt-deep has no attraction at all for the woman whose knowledge of, and fondness for, dress is a deep-rooted, and not merely an acquired taste. Under the "hobble" tyranny, it is true, opportunities for much variety were a double sense, limited, and the narrow proportions of the tube skirt excluded anything in the nature of "fussy" underwear. But the rout of the petticoat and the suppression of the full notwithstanding, no woman has regarded the question of lingerie as a secondary consideration, and hardly had the wide skirt come into being than the petticoat resumed its rustling sway once more. Further, it openly declares its presence, ignoring the ancient, if unwritten, law that a petticoat, though it may be heard, should never be seen.

Those who criticize the generous display of ankle which fashion has sanctioned of late, and called for longer skirts, find that in the new models their wishes have been met, though not, perhaps, quite in the way they desired or expected. Beneath the hem of some of the latest fashions, plainly visible, sometimes to the depth of three or four inches, a succession of tiny frills placed on an unpromising foundation of nylon or some similar substance. Thus has fashion avenged itself on critics, and thus does the underskirt give tangible proof of its existence.

But this ethereal petticoat, which is, after all, only an apology for that once more essential garment, and is really a lining in disguise, is not sufficient to perform the whole duty of a jupon which, in the absence of hoop or whalebone, is to lend support to the skirt under which it is worn. For that the services of the new foundation petticoat are enlisted, a garment of which the breadth and stiffness might be embarrassing were it not for the restraint which characterizes its length. It is fashioned of girlish silk and reinforced with hundreds of minute tucks and ruffles, and the "fussy" character of the garment is a direct result of the strain.

MILADY'S BEAUTY

IO successfully manure the nails yourself, soak the tips of the fingers in a bowl of warm borax water. You can at the same time put borax under the nails, which tends to bleach them. File the nails smoothly with sandpaper boards that are purchased for the use and remove all stains with ammonia. A nail polish too often applied has a tendency to make the nails more brittle. The professional manicurist advises polishing the nails with paste polish three days in succession, then not again for two weeks, though the nails must be smoothed and rubbed with chamois each day.

WHEN one has a resting time forced upon her is the psychological moment to get busy with the hair. Every woman knows the benefits of tonic treatments, but every woman knows equally well what a sight she is during the process. Therefore, instead of bemoaning when the baby gets the measles or Ruth or Bob comes down with chicken pox, shutting one in the house, improve the opportunity to strengthen your locks. You can even resort to crude petroleum without afflicting callers. Separate the hair into strands and apply tonics nightly without fear of flattening; rub in vaseline often, and let the hair hang for ventilation.

AS a rule hair is much better stained by a professional. Otherwise the artifice is sure to show. Walnut stain, however, can be put on carefully at home, either by a friend or by oneself, if sitting before a triple mirror. Apply the stain to the long hair only, using a narrow toothbrush for the purpose. Keep a cloth in the hand to wash off the least particle of the coloring that gets on the scalp. If wiped off at once it does not stain; otherwise the scalp coloring is a sorry giveaway, though the hair looks of nature's own dye.

THERE are many people who are bothered with scars left by hard, ugly pimples. The best way to clean the skin and restore it to a clear condition is to steam it. The face should be carefully steamed every night until the skin is quite clear and then it need not be done so often. Make a cone of paper and fit one end of it to the face and the other to the outside of a pitcher or a tin pail or kettle. Pour a quart of boiling water into the pail and place the face in the cone. Let the face remain over the steam until it ceases to be given off, which will probably be about ten to twelve minutes. After the steaming pat the face dry, rubbing it gently, and apply some cold cream. The face should be massaged after the effects of steaming have passed away—not directly after it. When massaging the face gently pinch the spots where the scars or marks of the pimples still remain.

THE woman who finds it difficult to do her household tasks in gloves, yet who values unstained nails, should get in the habit of digging her fingers into a cake of white soap before beginning to work. The soap fills up the nails, prevents other substances from getting under, and is at once removed as soon as the hands are washed. If it is not convenient to use white soap, a pure kitchen variety will answer, but it often irritates sensitive skins. Filling the finger nails with soap is also to be recommended for women gardeners. Always keep a half of lemon on the kitchen sink and rub the tips of the fingers in it as soon as the hands are washed after rough work. This is an excellent way to remove fruit stains, an important consideration in summer.

OUTSTANDING ears are far from beautiful and are usually the cause of careless dressing in babyhood. A thoughtless nurse will put the child's bonnet on without pausing to see if the ears are perfectly flat against the sides of the head and unless care is taken in this respect the ears get all doubled up and protrude in an ugly manner, which becomes quite a disfigurement as the child grows older. If the ears of a young child have a wayward tendency to protrude a bandage should be tied round the head at night, not too tightly, but just to prevent the ears from doubling over when the little one is laid to sleep.

IF the busy housewife can spare an hour or so each day in the exercise necessary to retain her youth and beauty, all well can be utilized to improve some part of the body. Dashing cold water, followed by hard rubbing, tones up the skin and prevents colds, improves the circulation and takes no more time than a languid rub with a wash cloth. Even dressing can be made useful in this respect when the housewife stands up to button her shoes. The knees should be kept rigid and the bending should be entirely at the waist. Instead of sitting to dress the hair, hang the mirror at a convenient height and as you put in the pins, rise and fall slowly on the toes, keeping the chest well up. This strengthens the back and ankles to a great extent.

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT

Many New and Novel Ideas in Coat Suits and Other Feminine Requisites.

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

WHEN it is heard that a gown is of corded faille silk, that it is purple velvet, jacket and velvet ribbon on the skirt, and that a high pleating of white tulle stands around the neck and runs down the front of the figure to the waist, it sounds as though one were talking of another day than ours, doesn't it?

Yet this is a description of one of the Frenches of French gowns that is to be worn by smart women. This gown of prune-colored silk and velvet also points to another fashion which will gain many adherents when the spring arrives. It is the fashion of wearing a jacket which is really a blouse, and which does not necessitate a third garment to complete the suit.

One of the most interesting features of this frock is the V-shaped opening, which is filled in by the extra high pleat of white tulle, a touch which is repeated at the hem of the bell-shaped elbow sleeves. There have been many intimations that this old-fashioned neckwear will be revived for the spring of 1916.

Women have already taken up the idea of wearing coats without blouses, filling in the opening in front, if there is one, with a vest of organdy or white satin, which extends into a collar. They do not remove the coat; it is success after success with clothes have taken up this stitching for their suits with enthusiasm. There is both a fancy about this stitching; it is also a plain simple one by machine.

on short, rippling jackets, another house comes out with one that reaches the knees. Instead of the barrel skirt or godet skirt, it advocates the moderately narrow walking skirt, its fullness gained by pleats at the side. There is a plain panel in front, which is a change from the usual method of the house of placing pleats in front and joining them to circular sides.

The material is biscuit colored cloth, and the treatment of lines over the shoulders and arms belongs so distinctly to this house that those who know the individualities of the different dressmaking houses would not have to look inside the belt for the label. The small armhole and the long, fitted sleeve, the slender line across the chest, the V-shaped front and the large, flat collar have been adhered to for several seasons.

An interesting feature in this new coat is that it has the appearance of a long and short coat at the same time. The way it is cut above the belt and then held in at the waist across the sides makes the top part look like an Elton jacket. One would think the pleated poplin were a tunic on the skirt if it were not for the long, straight lines of the front of the coat that extend from shoulder to hem, dropping loosely over the waist line.

The idea of using colored stitching as trimming will be followed widely this season. Those who have had success after success with clothes have taken up this stitching for their suits with enthusiasm. There is both a fancy about this stitching; it is also a plain simple one by machine.

STOP, LOOK & LISSEN!

Last Sunday morning about 10 a. m., whilst the most respectable folks of Bingville was on their way to church to attend deevine worship, there was a big old he-ottymobeel with seven men in it from the co. seat or somers' else, bizzed through Bingville at the rate of 100 miles per hour more or less, but the general opinyun is more.

It rusht rite through the Main st. of the town like a streak of greased lightnin, makin more noise than a thrashin masheen, and tootin its horn at evry jump. Almost afore a person who seen it comin could say, "Here it comes!" some-buddy else would holler, "There it goes!"

It like to of run over five hens and one Plymouth Rock rooster belonging to the Widow Skinner who was out in the middle of the road scratchin around & scairt em outen seven yrs. growth—the rooster aint crowd sint and not one of the five hens has laid a egg, so the widow says.

Not only that, but it jest missed runnin over Hank Dewberry's hound dog by the skin of his tail & Hank aint seen his dog sint—Hank says he kalkulates he never will, neither, judgin by the way the dog was running when he last seen him he guesses he is runnin yet.

Malachi Watkins who is as deaf as a post had even a narrer escape than the hound or the chickens. Malachi happened to be crossin the street in front of the church when the ottymobeel was comin for him full tilt. The feller runnin it blowd his horn, but Malachi didnt hear nothink of course. Mel Sampson was standin on the sidewalk in front of Malachi wavin his hands in horror & hollerin as loud as he could holler for him to git outen the way unless he desired to be rund over! Malachi seen Mel makin moshions and to make matters worse stopt rite in the middle of the road & put his hand to his ear and hollers back, "You'll haft to speak a leetle mite louder, Mel."

Jest at that instant the ottymobeel whizz past Malachi so clost that it ackshually grazed his coat-tails. By the time Malachi realised what a narrer escape he had from instant deth the ottymobeel was five miles further on.

his front piazzer readin when he seen the ottymobeel whizz past rusht into the house for his revolver, and pind his badge on his vest and polisht it up and run outen the house and run haft a mile after the ottymobeel until he was all outen breath, but Seth was too late, being as by this time the masheen must of had 15 miles start on him, so Seth returned home exosted & in disgust.

Monday evg. Cy Hoskins chairman of our board of selectmen consisting of hisself, also Arrie Hillyer & Alonzo Skillings, cald a mtg of the board in the back of Hen Weathersbys store to take steps to prevent ottymobeels from passin through our midst too dog-goned fast.

As a result of this mtg. two signs has been put up at each end of the town bearing the follering words:

WARNING!!
OTTYMOBEELISTS WHO GOES THROUGH THIS VILLAGE FASTER 3 MILES A HOUR DOES SO AT THEIR OWN PERIL & WILL BE PERSECUTED TO THE FULL EXTENT OF THE LAW WHATEVER THAT IS! GUV-VERN YOURSELFS ACCORDING OR TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES!

Lem swore very vilent for a few minits and was so mad he throwd the hammer through the kitchen window & now he has another job on his hands.

Disappointment!

Ben Doolittle one of the most respected citizens of Calamitty Corners (or that's what we have allus' thort up to now) dropped into the Bugle office one day last wk. and without no warning to perpare us for what was comin planked down a $10 bill on our desk and said for us to give him credit to that amount on back subscription.

We wasnt feelin enny too well enyhow when Ben cald and the shock & surprise of gittin so much unexpected wealth all in a lump like to of tuk us offen out feet and made us swign away. After we had recovered sufficient we thanked Ben very profuse for the $10 and give him a rescat for same boostin his subscription up to Jan. 1, 1911.

After Ben had went we hurried home and told our wife what a terrible blow of good fortune had befell us after which we went down to Hen Weathersby's store to lay in a supply of groceries & other necessities of life.

We bought $3.32 cts. worth at Hen's and when we coolly handed him the $10 note to take his pay out of Hen was almost as flabbergasted as we was until he put on his specks and tuk it to the light and examind it, and then told us it was a Confederate bill and wasent worth the paper it was writ on after which he tuk the groceries outen the basket and put em back on his shelves.

To think that Ben Doolittle would play sitch a mean trick makes our blood boil in the extrem and unless he makes this matter right with a real $10 bill we'll take a couple of somethink about it.

lers without no questionis askt we are willing to drop the matter but not oth-erwise.

Hen Made a Mistake

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, weighed out a lb. of sugar for Snide Petersby tother evg. Jest about dusk before he had lit up in the store and it was dark and Snide paid for it with great cheer and departed.

On his way home Snide stopped several folks and showd em the sugar and said he never got so much sugar for a lb. before in his life. Well, after Snide had went and Hen lit the lamps he discovered that the 2-pound weight was on the scale which he didnt notis when he weighed out the sugar for Snide. Then Hen knowd Snide had got the best of him being as he had give him 3 lbs. of sugar & only got paid for 1 lb.

Next time Snide come into the store Hen explaind the matter to him and asked Snide to pay for the extry 2 lbs. but Snide refused & said that he only askt for 1 lb. and if Hen give him three lbs. that was his look out & not hisin. Hen got mad and said he would charge it up to Snide on the books. Snide told Hen to charge it and shoot it, but he'd never pay it. Snide also told Hen rite to his face that for 1 lb. of overweight in sugar or ennythink else which he ever give to a customer he kalkulated Hen was the gainer by 15 lbs. of underweight. Hen got madder madder & said he'd make Snide prove them words. Then Snide whipt his 2-foot rule outen his pocket & meassured the yardstick which Hen measures all his goods with & it meassured only 32 inches. After this Hen kind of cooled off and told Snide to let bygones be bygones & say no more about the sugar.

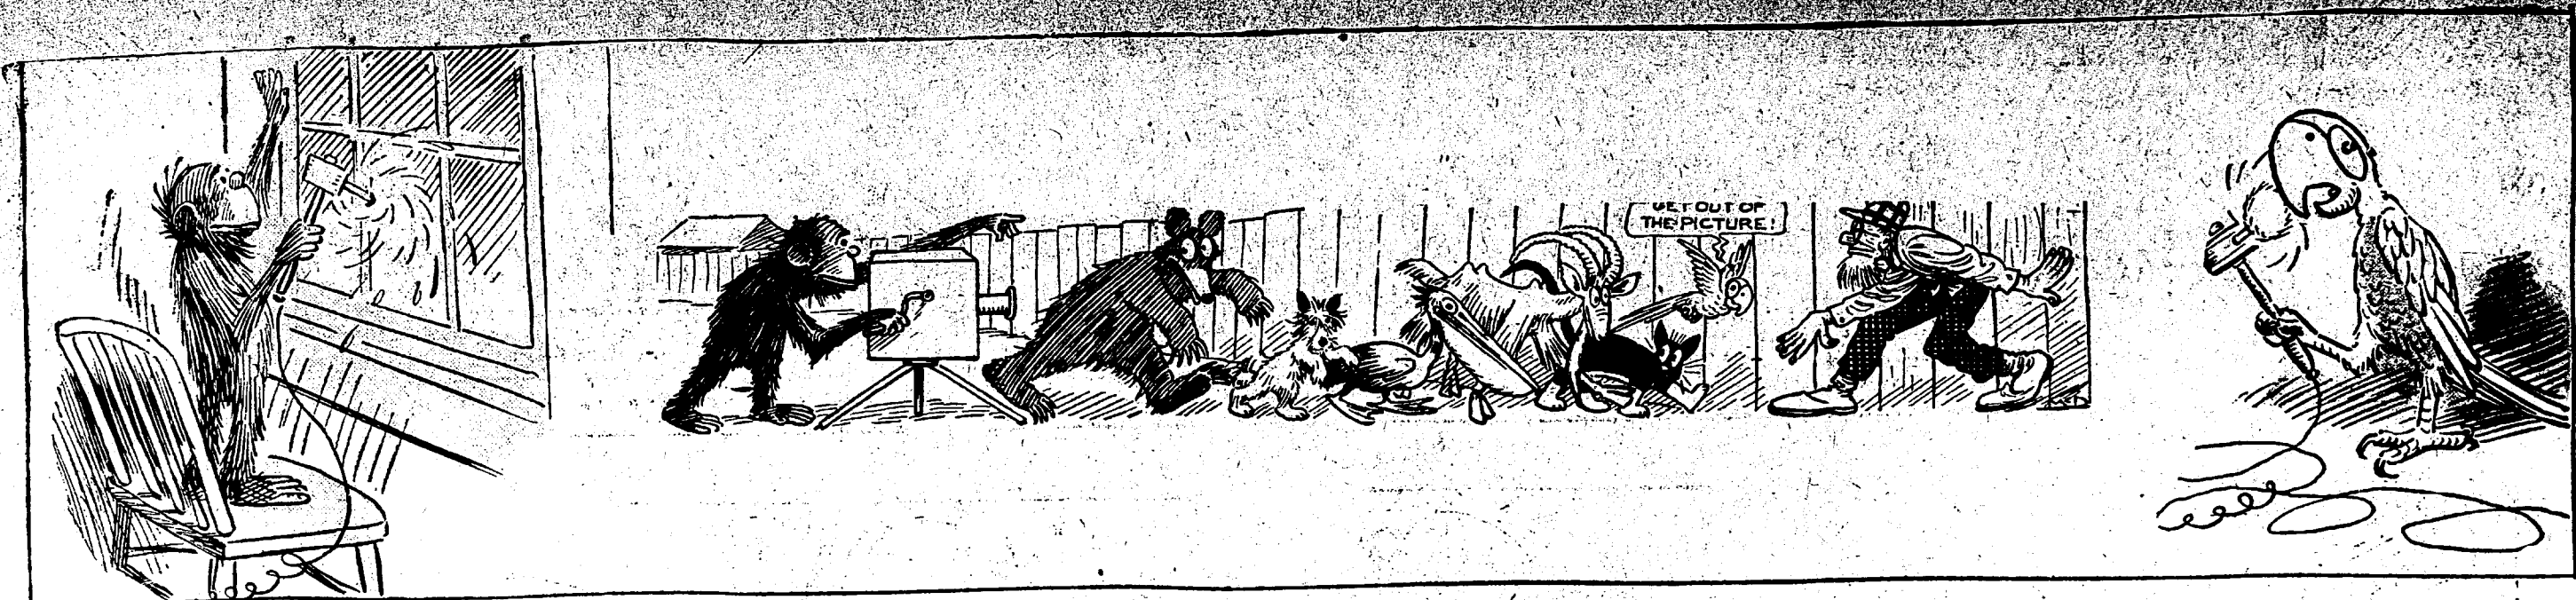

CLEERANCE SALE OF WOOD BOXES!

As prop of the Bingville General Store with new goods arrivin evry wk or two I find that the seller of my store is all cluttered up with wood boxes of every description which goods has been shipd in & which boxes aint no use to me whatever being as they are only fit the way and as they didnt cost me a cent I am a going to get sitch of them regardless of cost.

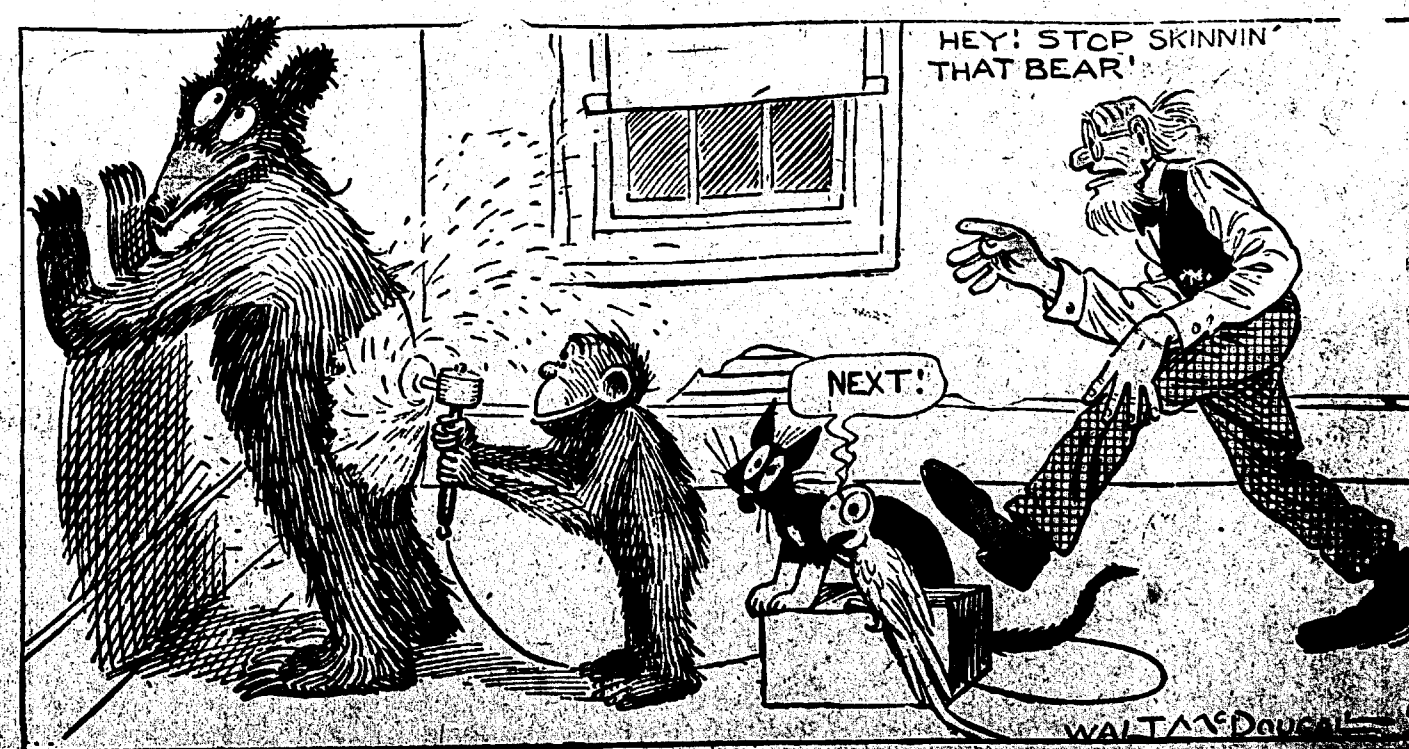

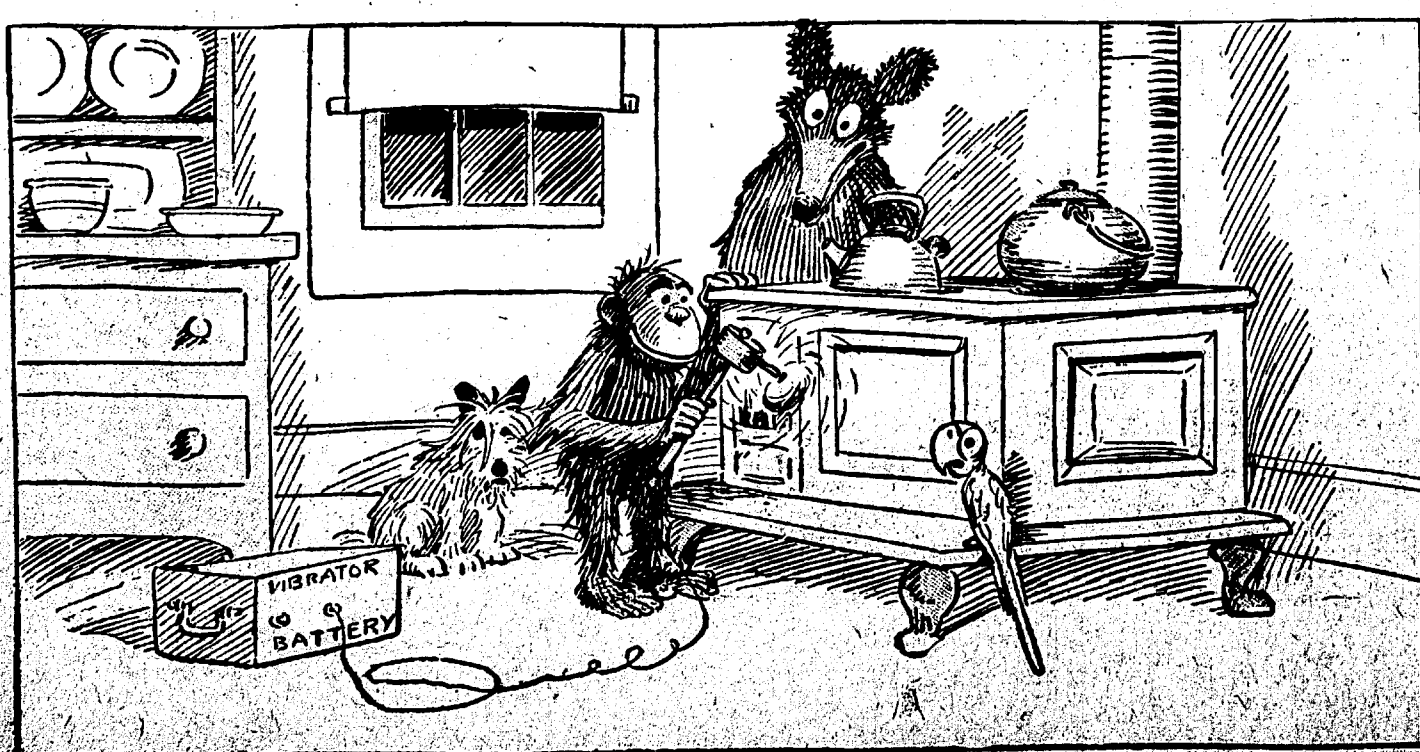

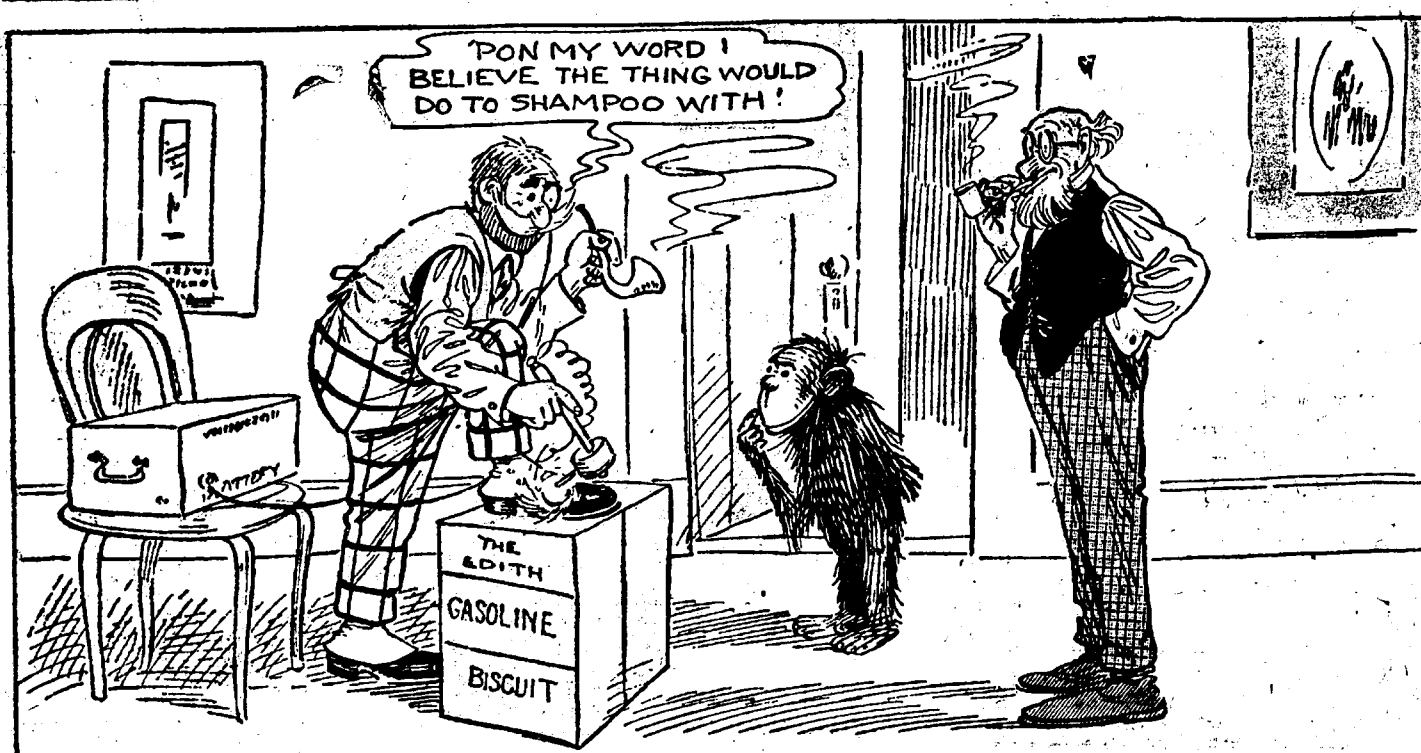

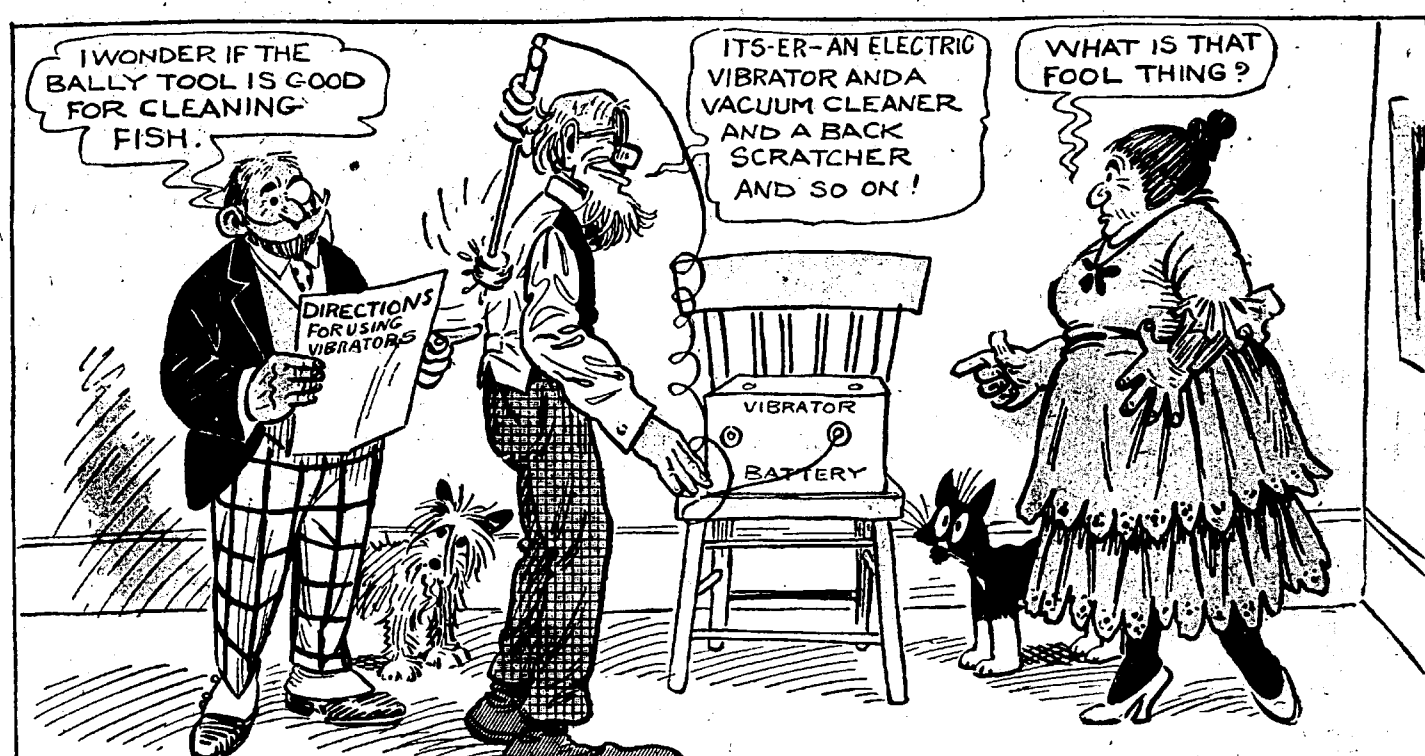

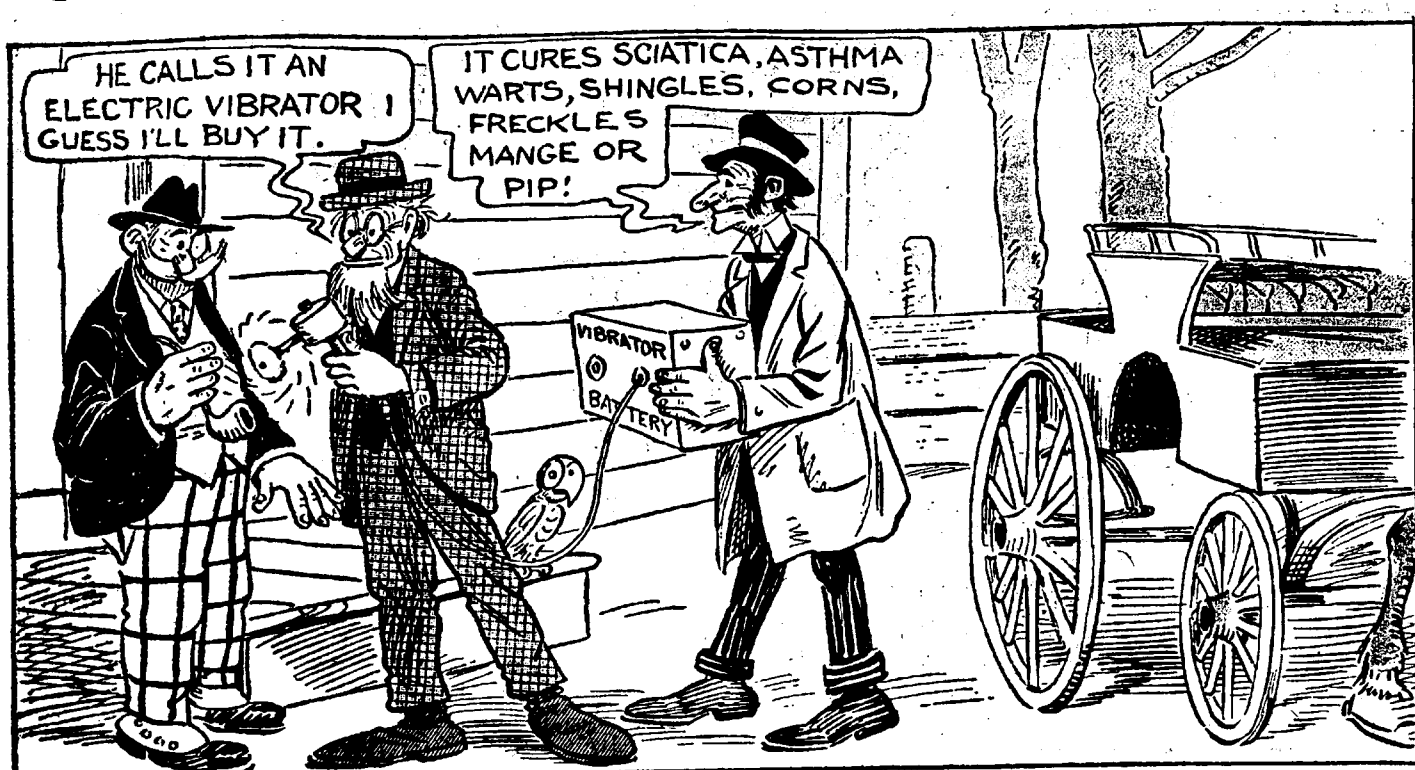

Therefore beginning next Monday morning and lastin several days or until these boxes is all sold off I will hold a mammoth cleerance sale of Wood Boxes. Do you desire a wood box to put wood in or for ennythink else includin odds and ends of every description? In that case attend this sale. What is handier than a wood box when you want one for somethink else and cant git one nowhere? Then when you realise what a terrible boon a wood box is to humanity. Buy one of these boxes now even if you dont need it becuz it will come handy in case of a emergency.

Some of these boxes is big and some is small and others is betwix & between includin all sizes too numerous to mention. I charge according to size, but if you tuk a dozen boxes offer my hands I will make you a special rate. If you cant use these boxes for nothink else you can burn em up for kindlings. They burn fine. I know becuz I have ben blidin fires with em in my store evry mornin all winter. Yours for boxes

Army Base at Columbus is Kept in Readiness for Instant Action.

STILL WITHOUT A REPORT ON PARRAL

Lansing Says Mexican Situation is Unchanged in Any Respect.

Columbus, N. M., April 15.—Gravest concern for the safety of the American line of communication was manifested in military quarters here today. Every preparation has been made at the base here to keep the line intact. Motor trucks lined up and filled with rations stood in front of military headquarters awaiting orders and the telegraph station here was ordered to be kept open throughout the night.

No reason was offered at military headquarters for the unusual activity, but unofficial reports gave assurance that it was based upon reports made by Captain U. S. Grant, in command of a small detachment of Americans guarding the line at Ascension, sixty miles south of the border.

It is known that with diplomatic relations between the United States and Carranza pending, close watch is being made for a trace of 4,000 men under Gen. Gomez, who were reported to be moving from Sonora into Chihuahua in such a way as to prevent possible menace to the American line of communication. However, reports from military sources indicate that the force today could not be located in southwestern Chihuahua.

UNCHANGED, SAYS LANSING

Reports Give No Status to the Chase for Villa.

Washington, April 15.—Secretary Lansing pronounced the Mexican situation unchanged today in any aspect. Unless official reports to General Funston disclose a more grave situation at Parral, where American troops were fired upon, than is now believed to exist, there was nothing to indicate that a change might be expected in the near future.

Secretary Baker said General Funston had not heard from General Pershing directly for three days. That caused no uneasiness at the war department, however, as General Pershing has reported only when he had definite and important information.

Gave No New Status.

Reports from other commanders in the field gave no new status to the pursuit of Villa and his bandits. As time passes without official information of the Parral fighting from American sources officials are inclined to doubt that the clash was as serious as described in early Mexican advices. It was considered unlikely that the American force was in any serious plight since the commander might have sent back messengers to the supporting column. Some army officers thought it probable that when a report was received it would show the detachment had passed in or around Parral since the disorder and was proceeding about its business of pursuing Villa, headed for its original destination beyond the town.

Sheds Light on Tangle.

Publication in Mexico City of the terms the Carranza government seeks to impose limiting any reciprocal troop movements across the international boundary shed much light on the diplomatic tangle which preceded General Carranza's suggestion that the American troops be recalled from Mexico. Secretary Lansing declined to discuss the matter.

Telegrams from the Mexican capital indicated that Carranza was prepared to insist that any armed expedition of the United States which enters Mexican territory in the guise of a punitive effort must be limited to one thousand men of one service alone—cavalry.

Rumors of Second Fight.

State department dispatches from El Paso today referred to unconfirmed reports of a second fight with American troops at Parral.

Gen. Funston today telegraphed the war department that he had not heard from Gen. Pershing for three days. Secretary Baker said that Gen. Funston was urging Gen. Pershing to rush a report on the Parral incident.

Gen. Funston's message was taken to indicate that the silence of Gen. Pershing probably was due to inability to get information rather than to interruption of communication. Gen. Funston has been in close touch with the authorities in the expedition, but had asked Gen. Pershing to report often if possible to keep the war department advised.

Secretary Baker said he still was waiting for a report on the conference between Gen. Pershing and Generals Herrera and Guiterrez.

Discussion With Carranza.

State department officials today were

Vocational Pedagogues in Session at High School Building.

Vocational school teachers from Adams, Wells, Huntington, Noble, DeKalb, Whitley, Allen, Lagrange and Steuben counties were in attendance Saturday at the conference for teachers of practical arts subjects held in the assembly room of the high school building under the direction of the vocational division of the state department of public instruction, assisted by the extension divisions of Indiana university, Purdue university and the Indiana State Normal school.

Z. M. Smith, of the state department of public instruction, was the leader of the agricultural section; Adelaide Steele Baylor, of the state department, and Mabel T. Wellman, of Indiana university, leaders in the domestic science section, and J. J. Ritter, of Fort Wayne, in the industrial arts section.

Address by W. E. Gordon.

One of the features of the morning session was an address by W. E. Gordon, director of the Fort Wayne vocational school. Among other things Mr. Gordon said:

"Let us work together and conserve our youth and teach them ideals, give them the physical training, training for leisure, for literacy, for citizenship and for vocation and let us not forget that the vocation is very likely to determine the others. We have far too much waste in this fair land of ours. Other than vocational school work we need a Y. M. C. A., social centers in the schoolhouses rather than in saloons, educational movies rather than the trash of the show, more wholesome amusements in the home, more parks to be enjoyed. Give us psychological experts in the attendance department and give us business men who will not exploit the innocent and ignorant children. The schools cannot do it all; the whole community, the whole city, must realize the rights and the worth of the children. Let all our great institutions, home, church, school, state, industry and amusements work together to conserve rather than blunt or destroy."

Mr. Gordon said that the vocational school is the greatest educational opportunity that this commonwealth offers to all the people.

MILITARY COMPANY AT HIGH SCHOOL

War Department Agrees to Furnish Necessary Equipment.

Word was received Saturday from the war department at Washington, D. C., that will insure the organization of a military company consisting of 175 boys of the high school. The war department has agreed to furnish the necessary equipment and Captain George Byrads has agreed to act as drill master. Permission to organize was granted by the school trustees some days ago.

The equipment to be furnished by the war department will consist of rifles, bolts, appendages and 120 rounds of ammunition for each cadet. Captain Byrads will devote the remaining weeks of school to drilling the boys without the government equipment, which will not be forwarded until the opening of school next fall. The war department requires that before the rifles and ammunition can be used the school must have facilities for range practice, which the school board will provide. In the event of war the equipment must be returned.

The first meeting of the new company will be held some time next week at which time Captain Byrads will talk to the boys and explain what he expects of them.

WHITE SLAVE CASE IN FEDERAL COURT

Charged with violation of the white slave act, Tony Bassias, alias Tony Mitchell and Ella Chiros, alias Eva Shoc-maker, alias Eva Mitchell, 28 years old, were arrested Saturday morning in their apartments in the old "flat" district by Deputy United States Marshal William Haggarty and City Detective William F. Pappert. They were taken before United States Commissioner T. J. Logan and in default of $5,000 bonds were taken to the county jail. Their hearing has been set for April 25.

According to the affidavit filed by Richard B. Spencer, special agent for the department of justice, Bassias is charged with transporting Ella Chiros from Chicago to Fort Wayne on January 1, 1916, for immoral purposes. The woman was arrested for being a party to the alleged conspiracy to violate the federal act. Both entered pleas of not guilty.

TROUSERS WIN DAY BY HEAVY MAJORITY

American Women's League
to Wear 'Em.

New York, April 15.—American women will wear trousers as part of their uniform if they follow the example set by the 200 members of the American Women's League for Self-Defense. These women have been attending weekly drills here throughout the winter. The style of uniform came up for vote last night and was the cause of an animated discussion in which Mrs. J. Hungerford Millbank asserted that the suits worn by the women need not necessarily be uniform. She objected to trousers on the ground that such a uniform would be used by husbands.

Others denounced dresses as a "curse and burden" to women and advised the women soldiers to get rid of them. "When your husbands go to the front," said one speaker, "you will have to guard your home against marauders: it will be a man's war and you cannot do it in dresses."

The vote for trousers was carried by an overwhelming majority.

DR. G. S. BLISS ON SOUTH BEND PROGRAM

South Bend, Ind., April 15.—The social welfare conference will open in South Bend tomorrow and continue two days. About thirty speakers, many of them of state-wide and national reputation, will appear before the body to discuss important topics. Although the conference is primarily for St. Joseph county, the attendance will be augmented by delegations from northern Indiana cities and towns, making the conference the largest of its kind ever held in this part of the state.

Among the speakers who will appear are Miss Grace Osborne, of Indianapolis; Judge Willis C. McMahon, Hammond; Dr. Cecil C. North, Greencastle, Ind.; Judge T. E. Howard, South Bend; Mrs. S. B. Stinson, Terre Haute; Rev. J. C. McGinn, Notre Dame university; Dr. George S. Bliss, Fort Wayne, and Dr. C. A. Lippincott, South Bend.

DEATH WILL DECIDE TODAY.

Goshen Man Must Make Up His Mind Regarding Appointment.

Goshen, Ind., April 15.—Anthony Deat, of Goshen, will today accept or decline the appointment offered him by Gov. Samuel M. Ralston as a member of the public service commission. According to a statement issued this morning he is under obligation to the governor to make his decision before tonight.

FIGHTING NOW HAND-TO-HAND

Waves of French Infantry
Hurled Against Germans
Before Verdun.

MEET VERY HEAVY LOSSES IN CHARGE

French Offensive Movement
Results in Disaster,
Berlin Reports.

London, April 15.—The German war office announcement of today contains the statement that the French have advanced to the attack before Verdun. The positions held by the Germans on Deadman's hill and near that point were assaulted by waves of French infantry, the report states, but the French charges broke down with heavy losses, those who reached the German trenches being killed in hand-to-hand fighting.

No mention of this battle was made in the official French reports of today or last night which gave the impression that only artillery fighting was under way.

On the Galician Front.

Increased activity on the Galician front is indicated by a statement from the Austrian war office. Along the lower strip there were several brisk engagements for possession of advanced positions. Russian artillery is bombarding portions of this front heavily.

In the Austro-Italian campaign repeated attacks were made on each side. Austrian troops captured an Italian position at Malibich, beating back several counter attacks with heavy losses for the Italians. Near Spornice the Italians gained the advantage. The Austrians abandoned a defensive position and fell back to the next line.

The British steamship Shenandoah, 2,856 tons, has been sunk by a mine. The captain and part of the crew were landed. Two men are missing.

Germany Would Avoid Break.

A news agency dispatch from The Hague says the German foreign office is perturbed on account of the dissatisfaction expressed in the United States at the German note in regard to the Sussex. Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg is reported to have had several conferences with Ambassador Gerard and Count von Buriar, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, and to have sent lengthy instructions to Ambassador von Bernstorff at Washington. According to these advices, German officials pay seem willing to do everything possible to avoid a rupture with the United States.

FIRST REHEARSAL FOR CENTENNIAL IS ON

Volunteers Are Being Tried
Out at Saengerbund
Hall Today.

BULLETIN.

A meeting of the committee on decorating and illumination will be held tonight at Centennial headquarters.

The Homecoming committee will meet Wednesday evening, April 19. The Centennial cabinet will meet Tuesday evening, April 18.

The Homecoming committee urges everybody who has friends in other cities to send or telephone (No. 3940) the names and addresses of such friends, so the committee may send them formal invitations to attend the Centennial on homecoming day.

The first assemblage of men who have been willing to take part in the big pageant of June 6, 7 and 8 is on this afternoon at the former Shriners' hall, Saengerbund building, corner of West Main street and Maiden lane. While it is probable that few, if any, parts will be given out, it is certain that Pageant Master Donald Robertson will select some of the leading men of the sixty who will be given speaking parts in the play.

Frank E. Stouffer, chairman of the pageant committee, is still in need of applications for a large number of parts in the play. It appears that in some quarters the appeal for volunteers has been considered in a more or less frivolous way—as if the thing were of small importance—but now, with the knowledge that scores of the city's best known business and professional men are today gathered to give their serious attention to the production of the play which will make Fort Wayne and its history remembered down through the coming years.

All who wish to participate should send their applications to Centennial headquarters, in the Commercial club, without delay.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

WOMAN ATTEMPTS LIFE OF GERMAN SOCIALIST.

London, April 15.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that travelers arriving at The Hague from Berlin report that a woman fired two shots from a revolver at Dr. Karl Liebknecht while the socialist member of the reichstag was walking in the street. Both shots missed. The woman was arrested.

SCORES BOTH WILSON AND GEN. CARRANZA.

Washington, April 15.—Representative Rodenberg, republican, of Illinois, today introduced a resolution prohibiting shipment of arms and munitions of war into Mexico. It was not discussed and Mr. Rodenberg later issued a statement criticizing the Wilson administration and saying that Gen. Carranza has given abundant evidence of his "treacherous character."

Anti-Typhoid Serum for Fort Wayne Militiamen

Nearly thirty members of company J, First Separate company, Indiana National guard, of Fort Wayne, gathered in the armory on West Berry street, Saturday afternoon and submitted to a hypodermic injection of typhoid serum. Dr. Charles R. Dancer, company physician, was in charge of the vaccination.

Each member, in order to become immune from the typhoid germ, must submit to three treatments, which will be given ten days apart. The serum, when properly administered, insures a person against the deadly typhoid germ for a period of three years.

Captain J. E. Miller, in charge of the local company, explained to the men at the regular Friday evening drill meeting that there was nothing painful about the treatment and that everyone was expected to take it. He also made the statement that the treatment might prove very beneficial to every member of the company, especially if a call should happen to be sounded for Mexico, which he thought might come soon.

A new system was inaugurated regarding the drilling of the men at the practice Friday evening. Each corporal will drill the same squad each week and he is expected to report to the first sergeant all the absent members. The corporal is also asked to pay strict attention to the efficiency of his men and any member who is not up to the standard will be given private instructions.

RURAL CARRIER

GUY HART WINS

Is Chosen Postmaster for Kendallville in Popular Election Arranged by Congressman Cline.

Kendallville, Ind., April 15.—Guy C. Hart, 28, a rural mail carrier, was selected postmaster of Kendallville by a popular vote, held yesterday, the result of which was announced late last night. There was a field of eighteen candidates, for whom a total of 1,520 votes were cast.

Every patron of the office, regardless of politics, was permitted to vote under a plan devised by Representative Cyrus Cline. The congressman had failed to determine upon a successor to J. T. Stahl, who died recently, before he could assume the office to which he had been appointed.

In a total of 1,520 votes cast Hart obtained 406. There were eighteen candidates. Representative Cline has promised to nominate the winner of the election and there is no appeal from the decision of the election committee. The salary of the office is $2,800.

In the big field of candidates William H. Reinbolt ran second, with 291 votes. Nelson J. Shook was third with 181 votes and J. W. McKellar was fourth with 177 votes. M. S. Lyman and H. M. Boszor ran a dead heat for the tail-end honors with eight votes apiece. Other candidates were Bert Meyer, William H. Gappinger, E. F. Wadsworth, Oscar E. Michaels, A. G. Hill, Willis E. Sawyer, Abraham Matzinger, Francis N. Varnan, A. J. Strauss, William H. Weil, William J. Fisher and Capt. John R. Smith, who was postmaster here during the first Cleveland administration thirty years ago.

KOSCIUSKO MAN A SUICIDE

Bartlett B. Pullins Ends Life With Bullet and Rope.

Warsaw, Ind., April 15.—Hanging from the limb of a tree and with a bullet hole in the head, the lifeless body of Bart Pullins, 25, was found Friday near his home south of Warsaw. A small target rifle was on the ground near the dead man's dangling feet. It is supposed that he adjusted the rope, shot himself and then jumped. For some time Pullins had been despondent and had refused to enter into a conversation with his sister, Minnie, with whom he made his home. It is believed that his despondency was brought on by the death of his parents several years ago, as since that time he is said to have acted in a very peculiar manner. Thursday he and his sister had arranged to make garden on their farm and Pullins had left the home intending to go to a neighbor and borrow a horse. When he failed to appear late in the evening the sister became worried and telephoned to all the neighbors but no one could be found who had seen the man.

EX-SHERIFF OF NOBLE DIES

Kendallville, Ind., April 15.—Christopher C. Simon, aged 70, ex-sheriff of Noble county, and a veteran of the civil war, died at his home Friday. Death came following an illness of two and one-half years. His last illness was brought on two weeks ago, when he was stricken with paralysis and rendered practically helpless. Christopher Simon was born in DeKalb county, March 15, 1860. Reared on a farm he engaged in agricultural pursuits until 18 years old, when he enlisted in Company K, Forty-fourth Indiana volunteer infantry. On September 14, 1865, he was given an honorable discharge. Politically Mr. Simon was a staunch republican and in 1894 was elected sheriff of Noble county—a position which he filled for two terms.

WILL TRY BIG CASE AGAIN

Auburn, Ind., April 15.—The case of Sanford F. Ort and Elmer E. Gandy vs. William F. McGandy, executor of the will of the late Valorous Brown, for collection of two notes of $10,000 each, will be re-tried in Auburn in the DeKalb circuit court, beginning Monday, May 22, before Judge Dan M. Link.

Early in January the case was tried in the same court and resulted in a "hung" jury that stood about an even. The case occupied several days' time and several expert legal arguments were obtained from New York, Chicago, Columbus, Ohio, and other points, by both sides, to testify as to the genuineness of the originality of the figures. The contention of the defense is that the notes were raised. That there are three $10,000 notes, in favor of the above plaintiffs outstanding against the estate and that two of these notes have been raised to $10,000.

BASEBALL FOR PAULING

Paulding, Ohio, April 15.—Paulding baseball enthusiasts and backers and promoters of the great national game at a meeting held last week here, which assumed an active, effective independent team for the season soon to open. Arrangements for the settlement of the annual rental of the Barnes field, which was used for the ball park last season, were concluded. John Sawcreek was re-elected manager, and authorized to proceed to engage and organize a team of players. It was arranged to use the bleacher seats on the south side of the park which were built for the Cincinnati game late last season, permanently.

SPELLING CHAMPS PICKED

Van Wert, Ohio, April 15.—Selection of pupils of the public schools who will represent them in the county spelling contest which will be held in the high school auditorium April 22, have been announced by Supt. Sharkey. The contestants were picked from those who stood highest in the elimination test which has been held the past few weeks. Those who are to represent the schools are: High school, Ward (Chad), Chas. Morris, Verba Collins, Geraldine Albright, Hazel Ramsey and H. Thingle; South school, L. A. Strawn, Chas. Walter and Roland Gamble; Third ward, Margaret Marlin, Martha Caldwell, Charlotte Stadel, Amber Clay, Edie Green and Bernice Diaz; Second ward building, Effdred Hanby; First ward building, Hazel Holt.

GARRETT BOY IN MEXICO

Garrett, Ind., April 15.—Walter Schomberg, the only Garrett soldier who is taking part in the United States army activities on the Mexican front, is in a hospital at Fort Bliss, Texas, recovering from an injury to his back. The soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schomberg, have received a letter from their son telling of his misfortune. He said that he had been given a horse not thoroughly trained and had crossed the Mexican border when the horse threw him, hurting his back severely, although not seriously. He was removed to the hospital at Fort Bliss. Schomberg is a member of Troop D, Fifth cavalry, and was stationed at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, until the chase for Villa started.

BIG DEALS IN REALTY

Huntington, Ind., April 15.—Two big real estate deals were closed by J. R. Day and A. G. Soames. They announced that Louis Schenker traded his fruit farm north of Huntington to Fred Lindley, for the Opera block in Bluffton. The valuation of the farm was $25,000 and that of the Opera block was $35,000. Mr. Schenker and Mr. Lindley will take possession of their properties May 1. Mr. Schenker will sell the stock on his farm before that date. Mr. Cotton, tenant of the farm, will remain there until March, 1917. The other big deal was transacted by Melvin Anderson, who traded his business block in Huntington for a 240 acre farm near Centerville, Mich. The valuation of the business property being $7,000, and that of the farm $15,000.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ELECTS

Paulding, Ind., April 15.—At the regular meeting of the Paulding Commercial club, an election of officers occurred, at which all the old officers were unanimously re-elected. This includes M. C. Case, president; C. A. Woods, secretary, and H. G. Remage, treasurer, and a vice president and board of directors. The entertainment committee was instructed to make arrangements for holding a social affair, with refreshments, to be participated in by the ladies of the members at an early date. The time was not set.

HAD TO KILL TWO HORSES.

Bluffton, Ind., April 15.—Charles Kaufman, living northeast of Ossian, lost two horses valued at about $450 several days ago. He had three horses hitched to a disc and was driving a field close by the road, when along came a horse belonging to Mr. Rapp. The Misses Edie and Jennie Rapp were in pursuit of the animal and Mr. Kaufman came to their assistance in stopping the horse. He left his three horses in the field and they started on a run. Two of the horses were lacerated in such a horrible manner that they had to be killed.

HUNTINGTON MAN KILLED.

Huntington, Ind., April 15.—Henry Krommiller, Erie conductor, who resided in this city, was pinched between two cars and instantly killed Friday in the yards at Kenton, Ohio. He was between the cars at the time the engine coupled on the train. Mr. Krommiller spent a great part of his life in Huntington. He was born in Huntington July 13, 1883. William Krommiller, who lost his life on the traction line at Homestead about one year ago, when a pole fell on him, was a brother of Henry Krommiller, killed Friday on the Erie railroad at Kenton.

FIGHTS STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

Auburn, Ind., April 15.—Jeff N. Boyle, a well known citizen of the city of Butler, is the plaintiff in a case commenced in the DeKalb circuit court Friday against W. E. Longley, fire marshal of the state of Indiana. Mr. Boyle in his complaint sets forth that he is the owner of a building on the corner of Oak street and Broadway in the city of Butler. On March 20, 1916, the deputy fire marshal served him with an order to remove said building and all rubbish and debris resulting from such removal.

DIED AT AGE OF 86 YEARS.

Bluffton, Ind., April 15.—A message received in this city Friday conveyed the news of the death of Josiah Poffenberger, aged 86, for many years a resident of Bluffton. He passed away at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Abram Shanes, at Fairmont, Ind., where he had made his home with his daughter since she moved to that city about three years ago. Mr. Poffenberger came here originally from Maryland and for many years he was actively engaged in various pursuits here, and was in business for a number of years.

AVILLA COMMENCEMENT MAY 10

Avilla, Ind., April 15.—The members of the 1916 senior class of the Avilla high school will hold their exercises at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, May 16. The baccalaureate address will be given at the Evangelical church, Sunday evening, May 14. The class is composed of the following popular young people: Misses Lois Dolan, Bertha A. Phillips, M. Antonette Meyer and Lucile M. Fairbanks; Messrs. Harry E. Smith, Clifford P. Engle, Wallace C. Hersh and Rollis H. Crothers.

QUITS PEDAGOGY FOR FINANCE.

Columbia City, Ind., April 15.—One of the biggest surprises to occur in the business circles of this city in recent years, became known when Julius C. Sanders, who has been at the head of the Columbia City public schools for the last 13 years, six years as principal of high school and seven years as superintendent, was elected as a director and vice president of the Provident Trust Co. at their 18th annual meeting, at which meeting the number of directors was increased from seven to ten. The names of W. T. Bender and Hugo Logan and J. C. Sanders were added.

FIREMEN BUY THEIR OWN ENGINE

Andrews, Ind., April 15.—The Andrews fire department has purchased, through their own efforts, and with the help of the members of the town board, a chemical engine which will be demonstrated in Andrews for a few days. They request that as many persons as possible witness the demonstrations. The Volunteer department extends their thanks to all residents of Huntington and Andrews who donated so liberally in behalf of a better equipped fire fighting equipment.

VAN WERT ELKS TO SHOW

Van Wert, Ohio, April 15.—"The Passing Show" will be presented by the local lodge of Elks and other home actors in the auditorium Tuesday evening, May 2. John Dearthoff, of Jamestown, N. Y., has been engaged by the local lodge to stage the performance. The show will be given in place of the minstrel show which has been given by the local Elks for the past several years. Besides the show there will be vaudeville and musical comedy features.

RECEIVER HAS REDKEY STORE

Portland, Ind., April 15.—Mark A. Wilson has been chosen receiver for the store of jewelry owned by Walter W. Holmes at Redkey, pending the trial of a suit on note brought by the Farmers' State Bank against Holmes and John W. Atkinson. The note was originally given to Atkinson. Judgment for $300 is asked. Holmes executed a chattel mortgage on his stock of jewelry to secure the payment of the obligation.

BLUFFTON TEACHER TO LEAVE

Bluffton, Ind., April 15.—Miss Sadie Newlon, teacher of mathematics in the Bluffton high school, announced this morning that she has accepted a similar position in the Muncie high school, at a nice increase in salary over that received here. Miss Newlon has taught in Bluffton three years, and has been one of the most capable and popular teachers ever in the Bluffton high school.

Young people need clear complexions

If you find yourself "left out" because of a poor skin, and want a clear, fresh complexion, use at least once a day. Wash thoroughly with a warm, creamy lather of it, then rinse the face with plenty of cold water.

It does not often take many days of such regular care with Resinol Soap to show an improvement, because the Resinol medication soothes and refreshes the skin, while the perfectly pure soap is cleansing it.

In severe or stubborn cases, Resinol Soap should be aided by a little Resinol Ointment. All druggists sell them.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, which is sold by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and acts in the blood. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Beware of cheap imitations.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Luke 12:19-33.

19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

22 And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind.

30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.

31 But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you.

32 For no, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.

33 Sell that ye have, and give alms; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not.

The Fort Wayne Exposition.

The plans of the centennial celebration promoters in Fort Wayne to present in connection with the observance of the state's one hundredth anniversary of statehood in June an individual Fort Wayne exposition will be received with uncommon interest and with unqualified approval. The gorgeous historical pageantry will portray the advance of the state and the part Fort Wayne has played in it, to be sure, but the committee argues well in contending that but half the story will have been told when that is done.

There is another impressive fact that needs emphasis—a visible demonstration of what Fort Wayne has become in size and in commercial, industrial and civic achievement. Even we at home lack somewhat in adequate comprehension of just how big, how diversified, and how great along many lines Fort Wayne has really become. It is natural to assume, as well, that uncounted thousands of guests who will come to Fort Wayne for the centennial occasion have even less information upon this subject, and they as well as we will be both gratified and benefited in learning more about the real Fort Wayne of today. We may legitimately supply this information, too, without laying ourselves open to the charge of cheap exploitation from merely mercenary motives.

Doubtless in no other way can this lesson be impressed more effectively than by the big exposition it is proposed to hold in connection with the centennial. We are quite confident the committee in charge has the proper conception of what it should be and will be able to carry out its plans in handsome fashion. It will be in no sense a cheap, tawdry, catch-penny enterprise. Rather it will be a most valuable education both to the home folk and to the visitors to Fort Wayne, and the centennial celebration will be infinitely more valuable and purposeful by reason of the Fort Wayne exposition.

It will be noted that while General Carranza is protesting against the presence of United States troops in Mexico and negotiating with Washington for their early removal, General Pershing is pushing steadily ahead in his search for Villa. His early success in that endeavor would, of course, be the most happy outcome of the new phase of the situation for as a matter of fact the United States is as reluctant to have its troopers in Mexico as is the head of the de facto government there. The responsibility of General Pershing and his men have been tremendously increased by the new turn in affairs, but there is every reason to believe they will measure up to it full and that, too, as soon as reasonable expectation can demand of them.

Governor Ralston broke into the movies on Friday, enacting the stellar role in a film taken at the soldiers' monument at Indianapolis for the Indiana Historical commission to be used in connection with the centennial movement. It is said, too, that the governor rose handsomely to the occasion and bowed as enthusiastically to his imaginary audience as though acclaiming thousands were before him. Local interest in the new movie production is going to be considerably augmented, also, when the fact leaks out that Samuel M. Foster, of Fort Wayne, also enacted a part in the film triumph in which the governor "starred."

That President Wilson is maintaining firmly his place in popular favor is clearly indicated in many places where recent voting provides any sort of straw to show which way the breeze is blowing. In Chicago, for instance, the vote may be called especially striking. In the presidential primary Mr. Wilson received 79,398 votes, with no contest and no especial effort to get out the vote. In the same primary the combined vote for Sherman, Roosevelt, Hughes, Root and Thompson was but 76,593.

In the newspaper accounts of the Indiana Woman's Franchise league convention which has just adjourned at Indianapolis, we read that the forces of one faction went down in defeat before another faction. There is no longer any doubt but that in their efforts to secure equal suffrage the Indiana ladies are playing the political game true to traditional form and with painstaking regard for the accepted rules of war.

Regents of the University of Michigan are said to be determined to take a fall out of a number of members of the university faculty who have recently given utterance to statements of unneutral character bearing upon the conflict in Europe. There is no justification, either, in the fact that a lot of other thoughtless folk in addition to professors sometimes talk too much.

ASSASSINATION OF LINCOLN RECALLED

Paid at Meeting of S.
W. Stirk Circle.

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln was recalled Friday evening at the meeting of S. W. Stirk circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., it being the fifty-first anniversary of the shooting of Lincoln in Ford's theater at Washington, D. C., which occurred on April 14, 1865. Commander D. L. Heuser, Ambrose Kintz, S. S. Kelker, Frank Gibson and other visiting comrades paid tribute to the great emancipator. Mrs. Gibson, the president, also spoke and Mrs. Cora Wining gave a reading and several patriotic selections.

The annual rubber social of Stirk circle will be given on Tuesday, April 25, at home of Mrs. Fannie Gibson, 117 Wallace street. A supper also will be served.

Lodge Notes.
Six new members were taken into Wayne circle, No. 43, Ladies of the G. A. R., Friday evening.

At the meeting of the Woman's Relief corps of Stirk circle, G. A. R., Friday afternoon, it was decided to perfect a roster of the W. R. C. for publication. The roster will contain the names and addresses of the eighty-nine members in good standing and also the roll of honor of the dead. A large delegation will attend the state convention of the W. R. C., in connection with the G. A. R. encampment at Evansville, May 9-11.

Preliminary arrangements were made Friday evening at a meeting of the joint committees from Zollinger and Henry W. Lawton camps, United Spanish War

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Hon and Mrs. J. B. White are at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Dr. Luella M. Derbyshire, of Andrews, is in the city.

Paul Mossman and Herbert Rowe are at home here from Ann Arbor university spending a brief vacation.

E. H. Bookwalter has gone to Winchester to inspect the camp of Sons of Veterans at that point.

Charles L. Olds has invented a shade for electric arc lights and through Worden & Morris, the attorneys, is applying for a patent.

Wing & Mahuria are drawing plans for the remodeling of John W. White's West Berry street residence. The house was formerly occupied by Councilman George W. Ely.

Health Officer Metcalf declared today that he was going to enter prosecutions against persons who do not keep clean the alleys on which their premises abut.

Col Phil Dickinson, nominated by the republicans for city clerk, has declined to permit the use of his name on the ticket and the city central committee will have to choose some one who will accept the nomination.

Bids for the construction of an office building for the Centlivre brewery were opened today at the offices of Architects Tolan & Riedel and the contract was awarded to Henry Franke. The building will cost $4,000.

Last night the city council annexed to the city the territory included in the pretty new suburb of Lakeside. But it was a great shock to the people of the addition to learn that when they voted for annexation only the addition was included and not the adjacent territory they supposed would also be brought in.

The approach to the Columbia street bridge is in terrible condition. Yesterday team after team stalled in the roadway until there was a blockade of vehicles and horses had to be relieved of their loads before a passage could be cleared. The mud is hub deep on the fill approaching the bridge.

This Catholic diocese yesterday religiously observed the nineteenth anniversary of the consecration of Rt. Rev. Joseph Dwenger to the bishopric of Fort Wayne. Special services were held in the Cathedral and during the day the clergy of the city and from the outside gathered to pay respects to their bishop.

Body of Dean Rucker, Who Was Killed in Richmond, Identified.

Anderson, Ind., April 15.—John F. Carr, a factory employe of Anderson, reported that he had positively identified the body of Dean Rucker as a medical college in Indianapolis, and that he had claimed the body in behalf of relatives. Rucker, who was about thirty years old and unmarried, fell or jumped from the vestibule of a Pennsylvania passenger train near Richmond about two weeks ago. The body was held at Richmond until early this week, and, being unclaimed and unidentified, was sent to Indianapolis, according to Mr. Carr, who was at Richmond Wednesday afternoon. The body will be taken to Valhalla, Ind. where a sister, Mrs. James Burcham, lives. Another sister, Mrs. Mattie Coffey, lives at Salem.

Rucker was employed at the file works here two years ago and left here to take a position as salesman with a tire company at Akron, O. He was on his way home by way of Indianapolis when he was killed.

GOVERNOR AS MOVIE ACTOR.

Indianapolis, April 15.—Governor Ralston was a movie actor yesterday. He was the "leading man" of a "drama" staged on the steps of the soldiers' and sailors' monument. The pictures were taken for the Indiana historical commission and will be shown in more than 200 Indiana cities and towns during the course of the centennial celebration. A throng congregated while the governor was being filmed. Members of the commission also were taken. They posed in various positions.

Four Generations of Kepler Family Meet and Celebrate.

Four generations met at the home of Mrs. Melvin Lackey, 2807 Oliver street Saturday. The youngest was Gloria Virginia Kinkade, seven weeks old, and her mother, Mrs. Alex Kinkade, aged 25, the grandmother, Mrs. Melvin Lackey, 50, and the great grandmother, Mrs. Louis Kepler, 75. Mrs. Kepler lived here forty-seven years, but a year ago moved to Grand Rapids, and the other three live in Fort Wayne.

Socially, the coming of the week preceding Easter is always a quiet one, for people who do not observe the Lenten season at all, are usually considerate of their friends who do. However, when one of your best girl friends is to be married Easter week, how in the world can one help entertaining during holy week as long as there wasn't a moment left free before that time. Therefore the coming week will bring to pass several more parties for Miss Dorothy White, who has been quite busy for ten days accepting honors from her many friends. The Misses Caldwell, of West Creighton avenue, are issuing invitations to a tea they will give next Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss White. Mrs. Roger L. Fisher and Mrs. Herbert Miller are both planning for the same bride-elect though invitations are not out.

Miss Mary Evans, of West Berry street, gave an informal sewing party this afternoon complimentary to Miss McIntosh, of Indianapolis, and to Miss White, a coming bride. There were twenty girls who visited and sewed and admired the spring flowers Miss Evans used to add beauty to the rooms. Refreshing things to eat and drink were served on one large and several small tables, while pink hooded candles lent further beauty to the room and tables. Miss White received a bouquet of pink roses and sweetpeas. The guests found lovely hand painted baskets of candy at their places. Miss Kelsey, of Huntington, was a visiting guest.

Announcement!

Miss Sadie M. Marie Burns, teacher of piano, harmony and technique, formally of Harrisonville, Ill., will organize a music class in Fort Wayne and will be ready to meet parents of prospective pupils all day Saturday, April 22, at Packard music sales room.

Miss Burns has been teaching for fifteen years in Marion, Sangamon and Christian counties, Ill., and has specialized in teaching children and beginners. Her pupils on entering the conservatory have been highly praised as to their thoroughness in mastering the rudiments of music the most essential point in its study. In teaching she uses the most approved and modern methods and has been very successful. Her pupils show thorough and able training. A correct scientific training is of the greatest importance, especially to children. This fact is nearly always overlooked by parents and the result is that beginners are too often entrusted to the teaching care of faulty instructors. Pupils will receive a thorough grounding in all that is best and lasting instead of forcing them into displaying an insincere and show superficiality which too often passes for genuine accomplishment.

Miss Burns' home address is: Woodburn, Ind., R. F. D. Any one wishing to write her regarding her work will be promptly taken care of.

which she entertained eleven young girls, Miss White being the guest of honor. The table presented a beautiful and artistic appearance. In the center was a mound of flowers which later evolved into corsage bouquets of pink roses, sweetpeas, snapdragons and swan-onia blossoms tied with a tiny shower of narrow pink satin ribbon. Four large pink candles in crystal holders with pink shades and tiny individual pink tapers at each place were used. The large candlesticks were partially wreathed in smilax and the honor guest was presented with a white wicker basket with tall handle that was filled with flowers similar to those in the corsage bouquets. The handle was tied with a bow of tulle ribbons. Accompanying the basket was a gift of something to wear from the hostess. Pink and white sweetpea design place cards lent just the right finishing touch.

Invitations to one hundred and twenty-five young people were sent out to the dancing party that Miss Irma Poole gave last evening at the Country club to do pre-nuptial honor to Miss White and Charles J. Worden. Music for the dancing was furnished by piano and traps players and refreshments were served by the club. A number of married people asked to chaperone the company, who enjoyed a delightful time, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Heit, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Worden and Judge and Mrs. O. N. Heaton. The guests also included a number of young married people. Miss Poole had expected to have as her guest this time Miss Ethelyn Smith, of Muncie, who was detained at home the last month. Visiting guests were Miss Dorothy McIntosh, of Indianapolis; Miss Marion Mason, of New Haven, Conn., and a number of college students here for the spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, of West Sutherland street, are to entertain a dozen married people this evening in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Don McNamara, of Indianapolis, who came today to remain over the week-end.

An announcement party of the week that interests many young friends as well as family friends was that of Miss Evelyn Roberts, a daughter of Mrs. Joan Roberts, of Kinnaird avenue, to Bailey Crankshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Crankshaw, of Fairfield avenue. Miss Roberts invited twelve of her daughter's young friends to dinner. Sunburst roses in profusion formed a beautiful decoration for the dinner table. Favors of tiny Easter rabbits had a card hung on their necks and these cards bore the initial letters of the names of the young couple who are to wed some time in the future. Miss Roberts is exceedingly attractive and in every way a charming young girl. Mr. Crankshaw was graduated from Tri-State college and is now doing agricultural work with Monroe Nursery, Monroe, Mich.

Miss Mary Fry is in Chicago for a few days' visit with friends.

Ralph Lane, of Indianapolis, is a visitor in the city for two or three days.

Miss Agnes Klopferstein has gone to Decatur to remain over Sunday with friends.

Miss Edith Harman, of Crescent avenue, will entertain the J. E. club on Friday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Sullow, of Chicago, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Potter, of the Hoeland, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kinnell, of Chicago, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Reed, of 112 Monroe street.

Miss Georgia Weaver returned to Warsaw on Friday after a visit with Mrs. C. C. Gandy, of Wildwood avenue.

Miss Leona Wilkinson, of 1312 Washington boulevard west, is to entertain the So-Car-Rea club on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Charlotte Sites, who is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Sites, returns next Monday to her studies in Michigan university.

Mrs. L. E. Rose, of Lake avenue, is to leave on Sunday for Newark, N. J., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. C. H. Billing, for some time.

Mrs. Jack Kuhn, of Fairfield avenue, has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Linton Fough, Jr., and family.

There will be a meeting of the Children's Ward association on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Leland Johnson, 2504 Webster street.

Mrs. J. F. Bennett, of Cottage avenue, and Mrs. S. D. Melshimer, of East Wayne street, left Saturday for Sandusky City to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pfeiffer.

Mrs. Mason Long has gone to Chicago to meet her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Strayer and little child, who are coming from Los Angeles for a visit of several weeks in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Melching and Mrs. William Baade will go to Peru Saturday evening, where they will attend the confirmation services in the Lutheran church of that city Sunday. Miss Paula Stoepelworth, for whom they were sponsors, will be confirmed.

Miss Virginia Olds, who left a week ago for Pittsburgh and New York city, has extended her visit in the former city where she is the guest of Miss Alice McClellan, because of several opportunities to dance at social affairs, including one today at the Panvood club. Miss Olds is to start on Tuesday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bash, Sr., and Mrs. C. S. Bash, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schreck and Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Easter, Jr., are going to Lima, Ohio, next week to hear the performance of "Princess Pat," in which musical comedy Miss Lucy Bash, another daughter of the family, is appearing in an act. Miss Bash also took the principal role for two weeks recently when the prima donna of the company was compelled to be absent.

Fort Wayne will be represented in the cast of "The Shoemaker's Holiday," a quaint old English comedy, which will be given by the senior class of Western College for Women at Oxford, N. Y. Tuesday, May 17, by Miss Doris J. Shirey, 1705 Illinois street. So far as known, this is the first presentation of Thomas Dekker's rollicking comedy in the United States. Dekker was a younger contemporary of Shakespeare, who published "The Shoemaker's Holiday" in 1600. The play contains sixteen characters, all of which will, of course, be impersonated by young women.

A surprise party was given on Mrs. William Smith, of 1808 Lombard street, on Thursday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Smith's daughter Clara planned the party. Mrs. B. Steward, Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. H. Sherman won prizes in guessing contests. Miss Clara Smith won the prize in a spelling match which was the occasion for a lot of fun. Participating in this good time were Mesdames J. Garrison, C. Noble, F. Hackman, B. Pepper, F. Graau, B. Smith, L. Smith, B. Sukowski, H. Sherman, F. Myer, B. Steward, H. Hackman, A. Bennett, C. Niemeier, Erma Lepke, Clara Smith, B. Washington, A. Crismon, W. Washburn, G. Valoff, G. Tiesman, F. Scheffenecker, L. Fredericks, Ho Smith, Jenn and Helen Bennett, Roger Hackman, Kathryn Pepper and Wilson Smith.

Cots Needed at Relief Union.

The workers for the Relief union at 1118 Hanna street, have a pressing need just now that they are unable to meet in a financial way, but which friends, in looking through their attics at house-cleaning time may be able to remedy somewhat in replenishing the union's need, which is for cots. Cots for children especially are needed and the need is immediate. Naturally, the union will not refuse new cots if anyone is inclined to give them.

Lakeside School P-T Club.

The parent-teacher club of the Lakeside school held a meeting on Friday evening and decided to drop their agitation for a new school building and instead ask for improvements on the present building to provide for kindergarten and seventh and eighth grade departments. Herman Traxler was named chairman of the committee to draw up a petition to be presented to the board of city school trustees.

Hoff-Drill.

Mr. Charles D. Hoff, who has been employed at the F. Schurz studio for ten years, was married on Wednesday in Union City to Miss Helen Drill, of that city. The bride and groom have returned here and have gone to housekeeping in Savilla avenue.

Koons-Stout.

Miss Bernice Stout, of Bluffton, and Mr. Harry Koons, of this city, were married in Lansing, Mich., this week, according to a report received from Bluffton. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Stout, of Bluffton, and her relatives knew nothing about the wedding until Friday.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

The Shakespeare club will meet on Monday with Miss Ellen McKeag. Mrs. Sam R. Taylor will read "Kindling," the play by Charles Kenyon.

The General Culture club will meet on Thursday with Mrs. J. Grosjean. "The Bible in Literature" is to be the subject of the day's program. Stories of bible women will be related.

The first annual spring luncheon of the Twentieth Century club will be held on Thursday. The subject of the meeting is Indiana. Mrs. Meigs will be toastmistress.

The College club members met with Mrs. O. N. Guldin on Friday afternoon. The program consisted principally of an educational and interesting talk by Rev. A. J. Folsom on the subject of "Scientific Socialism." Mr. Folsom explained the true meaning of socialism and of its evolution as a matter of progress, and of the distinction between socialism or sociology and anarchy. Mrs. Redding will address the club at its next meeting, at the home of Mrs. Guldin, on "The Workingman's Compensation Law."

The Equal Franchise league met on Friday evening at the Y. W. C. A. and members listened to a talk by Mrs. Fred McCulloch on the question of whether or no suffrage is a success in California. Mrs. McCulloch declared with conviction in the affirmative and then proceeded to give numerous facts and reasons concerning what suffrage has accomplished in that state, to support her contention. The next meeting of the league will be held at the home of Mrs. O. N. Guldin, in response to an invitation extended at the meeting yesterday afternoon. The date will be April 25.

The Mothers' club will meet next Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., at which an address will be given by Judge O'Neill, who "fathered" the mothers' pension bill.

Next Monday is Easter Potato Loaf Day.

What Do Flowers at Easter Say? It All Depends: Are They For Wife or Mother, or For Sister or Sweetheart?

The Easter "flowergram" is no longer merely the conventional lily. The blossom gifts must now be given according to an etiquette all their own.

And he who gives his mother the kind of flowers his sweetheart ought to have or his sweetheart the sort of posies he should have given his mother, will show himself up as ignorant of the language of flowers—which is a very sad state indeed.

For instance, what could be more terribly embarrassing for a young lady than to receive on Easter morning a large azalea plant? Horrors! What atrocious taste!

Azaleas are never sent to anyone less than 40 years of age. They are a sweet gift for one's mother, but for one's sweetheart—never!

But if the Most Wonderful Girl in the World awakes Easter morning to find a basket of roses on her doorstep, there will be smiles for some young man when he saunters up to that same step, wearing his shiny tie and his outway coat, along about church time.

And then as life progresses and the Most Wonderful Girl becomes the moderately wonderful wife of the young man who sent the roses—or some other young man—the etiquette of flowers must again be observed.

For the wife sweetpeas are the thing, according to the most fashionable florists. And if there should be a very little girl, a dainty cluster of daisies are her Easter portion, along with the rabbit and the Easter eggs.

And the lily—well, the lily is now only appropriate as a gift for the whole family.

Everybody in Line for Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week Which Starts in Fort Wayne Next Monday

Starting Monday clean-up and paint-up week will be observed in Fort Wayne, during which time every citizen is expected to clean-up, clean out and clean off. And also paint-up wherever paint is needed.

By April 23 all disease producing garbage, tin cans, ashes and trash that have accumulated about the premises should be entirely cleared away.

On Monday, Mrs. Josephine L. Neebitt, of North Hampton, Ohio, will start a back-yard clean-up campaign, which is to be conducted during the next few weeks under the auspices of the city board of health, real estate exchange and various civic organizations. Clean-up week will afford a splendid opportunity for all citizens to co-operate in this worthy movement. The suggestion has also been made by the board of health that screens should be put up during the week in order to keep out the early flies, and that every effort be made to keep the flies away from garbage cans, manure piles and bins and all other places where there may be any danger of contamination or disease. As a matter of fact, cleanliness is not only goodliness, but it also insures health and happiness.

To clean-up is also a commercial proposition. Ideal home surroundings greatly increase the value of property as any real estate man will testify. So from a commercial point of view every citizen should aid in the clean-up campaign next week.

MONUMENT PLACED IN LUTHERAN HOSPITAL GROUNDS.

The monument, "Christ the Great Physician," erected by Dr. Herman Duemling, and the work of Herman Schurer, was placed in position in the grounds of the Lutheran hospital Friday, and is a wonderful bit of stone carving. It stands about twelve feet high and makes an impressive appearance.

BIG CAMPAIGN
OPENS MAY 16

requirement of a modern Y. M. C. A. The amount to be raised will be determined later, but it is certain that it will not be less than $250,000.

Mr. Mogge does not know the meaning of the word "fail" and in his efforts here he will have the active and earnest co-operation of the citizens of Fort Wayne.

Generals Are Named.

At a meeting of the executive committee Friday afternoon at the Anthony hotel, Mr. Mogge explained in detail the plans which have been successfully used in other cities. There is to be a business men's committee of two hundred, selected from three hundred names, the two hundred to be selected by a committee composed of William N. Ballou, Lee J. Nide and Ed G. Hoffman. After the two hundred active, progressive and wide-awake business men are selected they will be classified into two divisions of one hundred each, with Arthur F. Hall general over one division and Lee J. Nide lieutenant general, and S. B. Bechtel, general over the other division and Ed G. Hoffman lieutenant general.

Each division will be divided into ten teams consisting of nine men and a captain. The captains will be selected April 18. Each captain will be given the names of fifteen persons from which to select nine men. In this manner the teams will be of equal strength and it will be possible to keep up the interest and enthusiasm that is certain to result from the rivalry that will be engendered among the various teams. Of course, each team will try and secure larger subscriptions than the others.

Will Work in Pairs.

The members of the various teams will work in pairs and each day will be given the names of persons they are to see, these names to be taken from a list of 8,000, which is now being compiled. Members of the teams are expected to see only those whose names have been given to them during the first eight days. In this way one man will not be "bested" and more rapid progress can be made and more territory covered. The whole proposition is to be worked out in a systematic and business-like manner.

The last two days of the campaign the members of the teams will be privileged to see whomsoever they please, for by that time the field will have been pretty well covered. There is little danger of anyone being overlooked. The small contribution from the man of little means will be equally as much appreciated as the big contribution from the man of wealth. In the matter of contributing there will absolutely be no discrimination. Everybody will be solicited and asked to give something.

Other Divisions.

Besides the twenty teams there will be a ladies' division, boys' division, country division and perhaps other divisions that will be put to work about the middle of the campaign.

The plans will be explained in full from the pulpits of the city and on May 15 the campaign will be formally launched with a citizens' dinner, perhaps at the Anthony hotel or at the headquarters, if large enough. All persons interested will be asked to attend.

C. H. Worden and George Evans have been appointed to look after the selecting of a desirable and adequate place for the headquarters, which are to be centrally located. Until the permanent headquarters are opened the temporary headquarters will be in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. building on West Wayne street.

Director Mogge will meet the members of the Ministerial association next Monday afternoon to explain the campaign. During the week of the campaign a clock sixteen feet high will be erected in a conspicuous place in the downtown section of the city, which will keep the public informed as to the amount subscribed each day.

Officers Named.

Those who will direct the campaign are: A. H. Perfect, chairman; B. Paul Mossman, vice chairman; A. J. Cash, secretary; Theodore Wentz, treasurer.

The other members of this committee are S. B. Bechtel, W. N. Ballou, S. F. Bower, H. J. Bowerford, Dr. L. P. Dray, George P. Evans, August Fresno, C. Foster, J. B. Frank, S. W. Green, D.

WABASH ROAD SUE
FOR $4,000 DAMAGESTheodore Brinker Says He Was Permanently Hurt
by a Fall.

Theodore Brinker has begun action in the superior court against the Wabash railroad for $4,000 damages, alleging personal injuries of a permanent character. He says that July 10, 1915, while he was in the employ of the defendant wheeling freight on a two-wheeled truck it was necessary to pass by means of bridges connecting various freight cars on the sidetracks in order to reach the car he was loading and that other employees of the defendant had carelessly and negligently failed to properly secure one of these bridges. In consequence he got a fall that broke both bones of his right leg and injured his left arm. Thomas & Townsend appear for the plaintiff.

Vain Fleet to Girls' School.

In the juvenile court, Saturday, Vain Fleet, the 15-year-old girl whose waywardness is tragically associated with the suicide of Herbert H. Austin and is in a measure responsible for the arrest of Edward Davis on a grave criminal charge, was adjudged incorrigible and it was ordered that she be committed to the Indiana Girls' school until she is 20 years old. The young miss has been going a fast pace. It will be remembered that Austin ended his life by hanging himself in his skating rink, Main and Webster streets, Wednesday night, a short time after he had procured bond for his release on a charge of having criminally assaulted the girl. Davis was arrested on the same charge Wednesday evening.

Negro Tiger Keeper Fined.

Walter Wedlaw, a negro who conducts a restaurant for colored people on Lafayette street, was found guilty on a blind tiger charge in the circuit court, Saturday, and was fined $50 and costs. Judge John W. Eggenman added a jail sentence of thirty days, but suspended it during good behavior. Wedlaw was fined in the city court and given a jail sentence that Judge H. Waveland Kerr refused to suspend and the negro took an appeal.

Mrs. Smaltz Wants a Divorce.

Aileen Smaltz has commenced suit in the superior court for divorce from Charles Smaltz. She alleges that he treated her with cruelty, did not provide and finally deserted her, leaving her two children and has provided nothing since. They were married December 24, 1908, and he left her in June, 1912. The defendant is said to be now in Chicago. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich appear for the plaintiff.

Disposes of Estate in Few Words.

One of the shortest wills ever probated in the circuit court has just been admitted by Judge Eggenman in the testament of the late John A. Koch, who required but twenty-five words to devise to his wife, Dora C. Koch, his entire estate, both real and personal. Philip J. Getty and Mary M. Getty witnessed the testament, which was written on half a sheet of note paper.

Kirklands Again Divorced.

The superior court has just granted for the second time in less than a year a decree of divorce to Ida J. Kirkland from Bruce E. Kirkland. The first decree was granted last August and a short time later a reconciliation was effected, the divorced couple resolving to try again to get along, and they were remarried. In her second complaint Mrs. Kirkland said her husband would persist in discussing the troubles that caused their earlier estrangement and she could not stand it. The couple are well to do and well known in Fort Wayne.

Can Execute the Judgment.

Attorney Harry W. Mueller, for Mrs. Minnie Spear, has for the first time caused it to be established in Indiana that an award made by the state industrial board against an employer for the injury or death of an employee can be enforced by execution of supplementary judgment obtained in the civil courts of the regular judiciary. Mrs. Spear sued for judgment on award given by the board in the case of the Day-Life Gas company, in whose plant here her husband was killed last December. The state board's award of $600 a week had not been paid and suit was brought. The case is of vast importance in the state. The judgment was obtained in the Allen superior courts.

Notes of the Courts.

The will of the late Catherine Dammeier, just probated, leaves bequests of $25 each to a son and four grandchildren and divides the residue of the estate equally among her three children. Charles F. Pfeiffer is named executor.

Final report has been filed in the superior court by Daniel Sprang, receiver for the Sprang Clay Products company, of Sheldon, defendant in a suit brought by the Fort Wayne Oil & Supply company, and he was discharged.

A jury in the circuit court awarded Horace Mariotti a verdict for $20 in a suit against the Nickel Plate railroad, tried in the superior court. The demand was for $50 and the jury took but twenty minutes to agree to the finding.

In the suit of E. W. Cook, administrator of the estate of the late Martin Steele, vs. the Indiana Lighting company the superior court has given judgment to the plaintiff for $800.

Mary K. Freiburger has brought suit in the superior court against William J. Van Schuyler and others to quiet title to real estate. C. W. Kuhne appeared for the plaintiff.

The superior court has dismissed the divorce action brought by Lucile Rohm against Charles C. Rohm.

Mary J. Fabian has sued Herschel Grats and the Pennsylvania railroad in the circuit court to foreclose a boarding-house keeper's lien for the collection of $25 alleged to be due from Grats. The Pennsylvania is made a party by reason of employing Grats. Harry W. Mueller is attorney for the plaintiff.

George F. Root has sued Abraham and Isaac Weil, doing business as Weil Brothers & Co., to collect $1,000 on account. The plaintiff's attorneys, Thomas & Townsend, filed the case in the superior court.

The case of the state vs. Ralph F. Diegens, charged with driving his automobile past a standing street car, has been dismissed from the circuit court.

George Killen was arraigned in the circuit court Saturday afternoon on a charge of child neglect and the case was set for trial April 27 before a jury. The April term of the circuit court will begin Monday and at the same time the grand jury will be convened.

HIGH PRAISE FOR ROADS HERE.

Prof. George E. Martin, of Purdue university's highway engineering department, who with Prof. T. R. Agg, head of a similar department in Iowa university, and Prof. T. H. McDonald, chief engineer of the Iowa highway commission, made an extensive inspection of Allen county's improved highway Friday, joined in high praise of the roads they drove over with County Commissioners Schiewe, Black and Wetzel. Prof. Martin declares Allen county's roads the best in the state and he brought the other highway experts here to see them.

LICENSED TO WED.

Martin Oberle, salesman, and Clara K. Smith. James L. Williams, machinist, and Madonna M. Pattee. Harry R. Shirk, electrician, and Susan E. Ross. Norman E. King, harnessmaker, and Martha Gerrard.

Early Conclusion on Rudisill.

City Attorney Guy Colerick expected to go to Auburn late Saturday afternoon to ask that judgment be rendered on the findings for the city made by Judge Dan M. Link, of the DeKalb circuit court, in the case of Wiebke et al. vs. the city of Fort Wayne to restrain the city by injunction from proceeding with the work of paving Rudisill boulevard. All of the findings were in favor of the city.

WILL HURRY SUBWAY DRAINAGE.

With the New York Central railway people clamoring for a chance to get in and commence the building of a bridge for the subway at the Lake Shore tracks and Osage street, the board of works, accompanied by Mayor W. J. Husey, planned a trip of inspection to the scene of the proposed grade separation to view the status of the sewer that will drain the subway. The Moellering Construction company has the contract for the construction of the drain. The board will hasten operations as much as possible. H. B. Reinsgen, principal assistant engineer of the New York Central lines, has written the board that its steel for the bridge is purchased and that it is ready to begin the bridge work as soon as the sewer is completed.

EIGHTH GRADE EXAMS

Five hundred or more pupils in the schools of Allen county spent Saturday taking the annual eighth grade examinations and all who secure passing grades will be permitted to participate in the county commencement exercises to be held in Fort Wayne some time the latter part of June. The hundred and fifty pupils were given the examination at the Lincoln Life building. Examinations were held at fifteen other places as follows: El River Center, Huntstown, Leo, Harlan, Arcola, Milan Center, Woodburn, New Haven, Jefferson Center, Jackson Center, Lafayette Center, Sheldon, Poe, Madison Center, Monroeville.

THE DEATHS.

LOEBEL.

Moritz R. Loebel, aged 64 years, a knitter employed at the Wayne Knitting Mills, died very suddenly at the family home, 1645 High street, Friday afternoon. He was stricken with apoplexy at 11 o'clock Friday morning while at work. He was removed to his home, but he never regained consciousness.

The deceased was born in Saxony, Germany, but came to Fort Wayne eight years ago. He was a member of the Saxonia Singing society and Turnverein Vorwaerts. The following children survive him: Mrs. Charles Lepper and Mrs. Reinhold Mertz, of this city; and Miss Jennie and John Loebel, of Milwaukee.

PENCE.

John W. Pence, a well known farmer of El River township, died Friday at St. Joseph hospital at the age of 63 years. He was taken to the hospital a few days ago, where he underwent an operation for relief from obstruction of the bowels. The widow and four sons survive him—Elmer, at home; Vernon, of Columbia City; Homer, of Chicago, and Meri, of Detroit.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Blue River Methodist church, Rev. S. Matthews, of Union City, officiating; interment in the church cemetery.

BURK.

Mrs. Ella Burk, wife of Abrose T. Burk, a well known employe of Bowers', died at midnight Friday at the Lutheran hospital after an illness of six weeks due to a colic. She had been a patient at the hospital but one week.

The deceased had been a resident of Fort Wayne for ten years and besides the husband is survived by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dick, and two brothers and two sisters, all residing in Ohio.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Smith—Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah J. Smith will be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the residence, 1629 Walton avenue, and at 10 o'clock at the Marian Lutheran church. Interment at the Marian cemetery.

prepared to set in motion diplomatic machinery for a discussion with Gen. Carranza on his proposal for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico. The hunt for Francisco Villa will continue. Secretary Lansing has given no indication as to when a reply to the Carranza note proposing the withdrawal of the troops might be sent. Several days may elapse before such a communication can be completed. The secretary is known to have many details to consider.

Report Still Awaited.

Meanwhile a report from the commander of the American cavalry attacked by Mexicans is awaited. It is expected to throw light on the fate of the little force and to clear up the conflict of information regarding the attack. The Carranza version is that his troops did everything to stop the firing upon the Americans. Conflicting advice, however, assert that Carranza soldiers participated in the attack. Apparently the immediate withdrawal of the American forces in Mexico is not contemplated.

Says Americans Were Unarmed.

An unconfirmed version of the Par-

ral fighting current in Chihuahua which has been received from General Funston is to the effect that the Americans on whom the Mexicans at Parral fired were unarmed.

According to this story, forty of the troops entered Parral, presumably to purchase supplies, and were fired upon. Two were killed and the remainder retreated to the main body of troops encamped outside the city.

The attacking force pursued them and were met by a fire from the Americans, who were using a machine gun, killing forty Mexicans.

According to this story the attacking party comprised Carranza soldiers and civilians.

CREAMO BREAD AT YOUR GROCER'S

"STACKS OF SMACKS" IS NEW NAME GIVEN BY WIDOW TO MAJOR'S KISSES.

MAJOR GEORGE D. SHERMAN AND MRS. LORETTA MONTANYE

Elgin, Ill., April 15.—Mrs. Loretta Montanye, 53, and a widow, planted flowers in her "garden of love." They have blossomed into a breach of promise suit with a $25,000 tag on the "love bouquet," which she hopes Major George D. Sherman will be gallant enough to pay.

The widow's little "love garden" at Elgin was planted way back in 1908, when her widow's weeds were fresh. Major Sherman, a neighbor, civil war veteran and club man, came a-courting to Mrs. Montanye, "gathering rosebuds" while he might. He was almost 70 years old.

The major's widow, said Mrs. Montanye in her testimony, was worthy of a gallant soldier. With the major and the widow, she said, a kiss was not merely a kiss—it was a "stack of smacks" and smothered her so she couldn't speak.

When she returned from California, she alleges, the major "took me in his arms and said the kisses were stacking up and falling over."

A widow of 53 has to tell a lot to collect $25,000 in heart-balm. Widow Montanye's testimony turned the x-rays on a five-year courtship she said she had with the gallant major. She told of ardent love making, a proposal and their first quarrel.

She told of a second invasion of her "love garden" and of "making up." Then, she said, the major changed his mind and decided to remain single.

Widow Montanye's "love garden" was said to be the "garden of love," she would be satisfied with gold. Hence the $25,000 breach of promise suit.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the toxic, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, gas, stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic, remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Advertisement.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 15.—Improved weather conditions, especially in the northwest, had a bearish effect today on wheat. Opening prices, which ranged from 5 1/2c to 1 1/2c, declined to 1 1/2c and July to 1 1/4c to 1 1/2c, were followed by a slight general upturn and then a decided setback all around.
The close was unsettled, 1/2c to 3/4c net lower, with May at 1 1/2c and July at 1 1/4c@1 1/2c.
Corn turned down grade with wheat. After opening 1/2c off to 1/4c up, the market underwent a moderate ease.
The close was firm at 5 1/2c to 5 3/4c net advance.
Oats had no independent action. Weakness developed in provisions after a little firmness at the start.

Political Brevities.

Calvin H. Brown, democratic county chairman, has announced that the congressional and county campaign will be started by the democrats soon after the national convention in June.

The Allen county democrats will go to Indianapolis to attend the state convention in special cars over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line.

Louis W. Fairfield, of Angola, republican nominee for congress, spoke at the regular monthly meeting of the Traveling men's Republican club at the Hotel Anthony Saturday afternoon. A large attendance was present and the congressional candidate made a most favorable impression.

The republicans will open their campaign soon after the national convention in June.

Sig. W. Kamm, of Lagouier, democratic candidate for state statistician, was a visitor in Fort Wayne, Friday.

PAY DAY, YOU KNOW.

"What art you digging for?" asked by the bystander.
The workman looked up.
"Money," he replied.
"Money?" ejaculated the amazed wayfarer. "And when do you expect to strike it?"
"Saturday," replied the workman, and resumed digging.

WILL DIRECT TRAINS ON D. B. C. & W.

W. J. Montieth Gets Good Position and is Moving to Bay City.

W. J. Montieth, for a number of years employed as a telegraph operator and later as a dispatcher on the G. R. & I., has taken a position as a train dispatcher on the Detroit, Bay City and Western road, and was here yesterday assisting the family in packing up the household goods preparatory to moving to Bay City, which will be their home as long as Mr. Montieth holds his present position. The D. B. C. & W. is a little coal road, seventy-one miles long, and does a good business in the freight line. It is also a well patronized passenger line in the summer time. Mr. Montieth left the G. R. & I. service when the telephone system of handling the train dispatching department was inaugurated, reducing the work of dispatchers, and took employment with the Nickel Plate. For awhile he was employed as telegraph operator and station agent at Peabody. During his short stay in the city this week, Mr. Montieth made it a point to call upon a number of his friends and former railroad associates.

PUSHING THE WORK ALONG.

Wells Brothers Have Over 100 Men at Work on Wall Street.

The progress made in building the forms and putting in the footings for the columns and side walls of the big live-story factory building on Wall street indicates ability in the hustling line on the part of the contractors. All of the equipment is on the ground and the building material is rapidly piling up there. A large part is already on hand. The last of the structural steel is en route here and much of it is now on the ground. Pouring concrete for the column footings commenced Thursday and a few days will see this part of the work finished. Wells Brothers have 100 men at work at present, most of them being carpenters.

NO. 18 TO BE HOSTESS.

Will Entertain at Cards and Dance May 2.

Friendship division, No. 18, Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will be hostess at a dance, social and card party at the Elks' temple, Tuesday evening, May 2. The entertainment committee is extending invitations to all members of the B. L. E. and their families and friends, promising them a good, old-fashioned time. As an entertainer Friendship division stands in the front ranks and the people who enjoy dances, cards and social times know it and always show up when the auxiliary has anything doing.

HIPS PAINFULLY HURT.

John David Pinched Between Two Pig-iron Trucks.

John David, a laborer in the yards at the Bass foundry, was caught between two trucks loaded with pig-iron at 8 o'clock this morning and painfully injured about the hips. He was attended by the company's surgeon, who had him sent to Hope hospital. No bones were broken.

LEO ACKER IS DEAD.

Machinist Joseph Schallenger, of the Pennsylvania, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Stephen Schallenger, left last night for Pittsburgh, on receipt of news of the death of Leo Ackers, a relative. R. A. Morton and P. E. Markey, clerks in the Pennsylvania freight house, will leave tonight for Pittsburgh to attend the funeral, which will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The details of the death of Leo were not received here and the news came as a shocking surprise to the friends. Ten years ago Harry Ackers, the father of Leo, was foreman of the Pennsylvania freight house, a position now held by Chris Kees. He was here only about a year, when he received a more important position at Pittsburgh, where he is still in the employ of the company. During the residence of the family here, Leo attended the Cathedral school.

TRANSFERRED AND PROMOTED.

Two transfers which were in the nature of promotions for the men affected were made at the General Electric works yesterday. K. G. Zink, a tester in the small motor department, was given a clerical position in the production department, with desk room in the storeroom in the new building. A. R. Hall was transferred from the small motor stockroom to the small motor production department.

TOO BUSY TO FISH.

"No laying off to go fishing goes at present," was the word given out by the callers at the Nickel Plate yards this morning. "A half dozen or more conductors and brakemen have requested absence on this account," he said, "and all were turned down." The Nickel Plate is handling an immense lot of high class eastbound freight at present and is too busy to let men off for pleasure.

ATTEND EXPRESS MEN'S MEETING.

George E. Becker, agent at Fort Wayne for the Adams Express company, went to Grand Rapids last night and today attended a meeting of the employees of the company from northern Indiana and southern and central Michigan territory. The business session of the gathering will be followed by a banquet. Mr. Becker will return home tonight.

R. W. FERGUSON IS PROMOTED.

R. W. Ferguson, of the transformer department of the General Electric works, has been advanced to inspection of the Entz-Owen transmission, one of the important outputs of the big plant. The change is a nice and deserved promotion for Mr. Ferguson, who has been employed at the plant for about nine years.

CALIFORNIA TICKET FOR $18.40.

Speaking about the west and his trips to California, Dr. N. R. Wenger said that thirty years ago he made his first trip there on a one way ticket which cost him just $18.40. Today the one way fare is $53. Dr. Wenger has made four trips to California since he took up a residence in Fort Wayne.

ANOTHER CREW IN SERVICE.

To meet the demands of the increasing freight business on the road the Nickel Plate has added another engine crew to the pool of the Fort Wayne division. The appointment has fallen upon Engineer Andy Shoda and Fireman R. L. Mills.

BUMPED WITH WAGON TONGUE.

While helping to move a loaded truck in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop yesterday H. West sustained painful bruises in the chest when the tongue of the vehicle was thrown violently against him. He is off duty pending treatment.

HAS JOINED THE AUTO GANG.

Machinist Oswald Kamm, of the Pennsylvania tool room, has purchased a Herff-Brooks five passenger motor car and will be seen on the streets with it tomorrow. Mr. Kamm is as proud as a peacock over his new turnout.

MOVES INTO NEW HOME.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Nickel Plate Fireman John T. Hood is sick and off duty.

T. E. English, of the Pennsy, will spend the week-end in Chicago.

H. C. Walde, a painter at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick.

William P. Scherer, tinner at the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty on account of the death of a relative.

Harry Grav, of the Pennsylvania visagang, went to Chicago this morning to visit over Sunday.

TWO BOY BURGLARS ARE PINCHED HERE

Youngsters With Loot from Montpelier, Ohio, Job, Got by Police.

John Hiteshow and Sam Frey, a pair of boy burglars who pulled a job at Montpelier, Ohio, early Friday morning, and headed for Fort Wayne, ran into bad luck here. Both were arrested by the Fort Wayne police and are held to the city court as fugitives under $1,000 each pending the arrival of officers from the Ohio town. Hiteshow was arrested in the vicinity of the Wabash yards at Fairfield avenue by Officers Walter Patten and John Hill, about 9 o'clock, Friday night, and he was taking a Winchester magazine rifle, that was a part of the loot, with as much sang froid as a man going to hunt Villa. Later Officer Patten found concealed near the Wabash freight house another magazine rifle that had been stolen along with shoes, clothing, safety razors, cutlery, electric flashlights and other chattels. Frey was taken into custody at the Wabash roundhouse at 4 o'clock Saturday morning by Night Sergeants Dave Blum and William Zwick, who were summoned to the place by Wabash employees after Frey had been cornered. The lads are about 19 years old. Hiteshow says his home is in Peru, Ind., and Frey claims Reading, Pa., as his native heath, but says he really has no home. The young bandits came in Friday evening on the Wabash local from the east.

Blind Tiger Case, Blows Up.

Eleanor Gillen, a negress, residing on North Calhoun street, in the old red light district, was found not guilty in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of keeping a blind tiger. She was tried on her second arrest, no affidavit having been filed following her first apprehension. Deputy United States Marshal W. H. Haggerty and a man named McDonald testified that they purchased beer of the woman, but the beer they bought and took away with them was not introduced as evidence and McDonald's identification of the wench was hazy. Judge H. Weyland Kerr held a private session of court at which only himself, Prosecuting Attorney John C. Hoffman, Witnesses Haggerty and McDonald, the defendant and her attorneys, S. A. Callahan and W. C. Ryan, were present. This was because the dusky lady had nervous twitchings and jerking, spasmodic snifflings and other signs and tokens that were considered pregnant with a threat of hysterics—held in common by all authorities to be improper for a public exhibition in a court room, even under that aegis of Anglo-Saxon liberty which, through the centuries, has mandated hearings in open court. Under the more merciful ordeal of a hearing in camera the lady made shift to control her emotions and nothing was torn up but the state's case.

Lepper Held for Atson.

Fred Lepper, charged with arson, had been altogether too frank in discussing his Iowa affairs and in confessing his pique at being thrown over. His untoward admissions had been during a heart to heart unbecoming process with Chief of Police Charles Lenz following his arrest on suspicion of having set fire to the home of his erstwhile lady love, Mrs. Lulu F. Dyseret, a widow residing at 1712 Calhoun street. Beyond his confession no testimony was introduced against Lepper. What he had said to Detective Sergeant M. A. Rundell, who unraveled the mystery of the Dyseret fire and arrested Lepper, and to Chief Lenz following the arrest, made up what Judge Kerr considered to be a case of probable guilt. Mrs. Dyseret was not in court. Lepper was bound over to the circuit court under $500 bond. He is said to have started two fires in Mrs. Dyseret's home the night of March 29, while she was away, but while her sister, occupying the upper apartments of the residence, was entertaining near a score of ladies.

Other City Court Cases.

Upon representations by Attorney S. A. Callahan that his client is seriously ill in the Lutheran hospital, the case against John Haggerty, a well-known contractor residing at 1404 Fletcher avenue, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was continued until the 25th inst. Bond was fixed at $100. Haggerty's motor truck collided with a jitney bus at Washington and Clinton streets and a lady passenger in the jitney suffered a broken leg.

Minnie Cannon, who does her own loading and does it often, was in again on a drunk charge and drew $1 and costs. It was her fourth appearance since last June.

John Ray, a soue, was tagged $5 and costs and went to jail.

Tim Kelly, a boozier and a roughneck who has been in before, drew fifteen days on a drunk charge. He was arrested after he had been caught stealing milk from doorsteps on West Superior street and had made a filthy exhibition of himself.

Henry Franke, charged with disorderly conduct in his home, went free, the prosecutor dismissing the case.

Dick Brennan, who has not been long returned from a sojourn at the state farm, was loaded that way with a conviction for drunkenness that got him fifteen days in jail.

Reginald Wodard, the youth who came here from Tri-State college in Angola and stole a bicycle belonging to Bud Thomas, of the Citizens' Trust company, to get money to help him to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he is signed up to play baseball, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and got $10 and costs and fifteen days. A letter to Prosecutor John C. Hoffman, from Bristol, Conn., the lad's home, shows he is of good family, and the Poughkeepsie baseball management has wired that he will be sent a ticket to come on when he completes his engagement here.

Ernest Hanes, charged with petit larceny, was continued under $250 bond until Monday.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to extend our thanks to the many friends and neighbors for the sympathy shown us during the illness and at the death of our husband and father, and to Rev. Olmstead for his comforting words.

MANY PROMINENT FIGURES IN LIST

Presence is Assured at Anti-Saloon League Convention.

Westerville, O., April 15.—Acceptances have been received by the committee in charge of arranging the program for the seventeenth convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, from many prominent men. The convention will be held in Indianapolis, June 26 to 29, with promise of an exceedingly large attendance.

Governor Moses Alexander, of Idaho, has accepted an invitation to address the convention. He holds the distinction of being the only member of the Jewish race to occupy a governor's chair in the United States. He is the most ardent and successful leader of the dry forces in Idaho. In a letter to the secretary of the program committee, Governor Alexander writes:

"After a few months of enforcement of the prohibitory law, Idaho is delighted and rejoicing. Many who were victims of drink have had the shackles fall from them and are looking to the future with renewed hopes and ambitions. They are being rejuvenated and put on the plane of equality with their fellowmen. Whether or not I ever make another temperance speech cuts no figure, for state-wide prohibition is a practical illustration of the result of temperance and I feel proud of having the honor of signing the law which placed Idaho in the column of temperance. After two months' operation, the law is looked upon as an absolute success, even by those who opposed it."

In the battle line of temperance forces, no more critical position is anywhere held than that maintained by Ohio. James A. White, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Ohio, is scheduled for an address on "Ohio's Program for Victory." Mr. White has a magnificent and comprehensive program and declares that if he can put boots on it and blood into it, Ohio will swing into the list of dry states the next time a fight is on.

Frederick Landis, of Indiana, a former congressman and known everywhere as a master of wit, sarcasm and word painting, will deliver an address Tuesday afternoon, June 27.

Judge Samuel D. Weakley, of Birmingham, Ala., will speak on "One Year of Co-operative Prohibition in Alabama." Judge Weakley has been gathering statistics. He is in possession of facts and figures not obtainable in any other prohibition state, with which he will completely refute the lies in the color book of the National Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' associations.

No more venerable or distinguished figure is to be found anywhere in the ranks of temperance leaders than that of Jonathan K. Taylor, of Baltimore. Mr. Taylor was an important man at the Atlantic City convention last year. He not only gives largely of his means, but also of his time and thought to the temperance cause. He will preside at the closing session of this convention and make an appropriate address.

Trained in the ranks of Catholic temperance leaders is Rev. Father J. J. Curran, of Westerville, Pa. Father Curran will preside at one of the sessions and bring a message of hope concerning the victorious conclusion of this great fight when all Christian forces unite on a program for national prohibition.

TOURING THE VILLA WAR ZONE AS GUEST OF CARRANZA'S GOVERNMENT

Correspondent Tells How Rich Military Governor Becomes Poor Helping Countryman—Takes War Orphans by Carloads to School He Opens for Them.

(This is the first of a series of articles by Leon Starmont, our special correspondent who is now touring Sonora, Mexico, as guest of the Mexican government! This arrangement is permitting him to get a remarkably clear insight into conditions among the common people of Villa's country and first-hand information regarding their feeling toward America, as well as our punitive expedition.—Editor.)

BY LEON STARMONT
Sentinel Correspondent, touring Sonora as guest of the Mexican government.

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, April 15.—I am riding through Mexico on a special train as the guest of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, military governor of Sonora and virtual dictator of northwestern Mexico.

Gen. Calles is taking 300 war orphans to Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, where they are to be placed in a school he has founded to be educated at Gen. Calles' expense.

Two carloads of them left Naco, Sonora, with us. The train also bore a kitchen-car, formerly a caboose, and a dining-car, also a converted caboose, in which meals were prepared and served to Gen. Calles and his party.

And there were several carloads of horses and box cars full of hay—the mounts of Gen. Calles' bodyguard, the flower of the army in Sonora.

A swarthy man of striking appearance is Gen. Calles—a rich man he was, but a poor man now. For most of his fortune has gone toward the revolution in the cause of government in the interests of the people.

Just last week he announced he would seize the Cananea mines and operate them himself if the American corporation that owns them carried out its threat to suspend operations until after the international crisis had subsided. By that decree Calles saved 3,500 men their jobs.

Just now he's placing 300 children in school at his own expense—and he's having a hard time doing it. For many Mexicans of the poor class imagine that these tiny boys and girls—many of them mere babies—are being recruited for the army!

This picture shows the type of Mexican peon children Gen. Calles is gathering from equalized homes in all parts of Mexico to be educated at his expense in his "books and land for everybody" campaign.

was a doleful face, that of a boy of 8 or 10, who imagined he was being led to war.

In our party, besides Gen. Calles, were Ives G. Lelievre, Mexican consul at Douglas, Ariz.; Miguel S. Vivero, financial inspector of the state of Sonora, at Hermosillo; E. Ocaranza Llano, superintendent of the Nacoziari railroad; Col. J. A. Campbell of the Mexican army, who speaks no English despite his angle name; Lieut.-Col. Angel Camargo, Maj. J. Calderon and some 25 prominent Mexicans of Agua Prieta, Nacoziari and Naco.

We left Agua Prieta in automobiles—four of them—for Naco, where the children and the special train were waiting.

In one car 130 children, taken aboard at Naco, raced up and down the aisles, leaned out the windows, shouted and sang in Mexican, and munched candy and peanuts.

In the dusk we pulled into Cananea. To the hotel Sonora trooped the orphan army, piloted by Gen. Calles and mothers of Cananea orphans who were to join the party here.

The entire hotel had been reserved for the Calles party—and the fatherless troop of juveniles wandered to sleep amid surroundings such as all their childish dreams had never shown them.

After two weeks, when the fears of the peon mothers are allayed, Gen. Calles will retrace his route and gather up more children—those who were kept from the first party by the fears of peasant sonoras that their fatherless darlings were wanted for cannon fodder.

These children all are sons and daughters of soldiers killed in the revolutions that have all but devastated Mexico in the past six years.

Cientifico or constitutionalist—Gen. Calles asked no questions. "They are all Mexicans," says he. And through this experiment in whole "Land and books for everybody."—sale education he hopes to make effective his motto for Mexico:

"Green"-Picking Time is Here and High Cost of Living Gets Body Blow

In these days when even the Ford owner cringes before the grewsome visage of the high cost of living, the merry springtime brings with it more than balmy breezes and cessation of cold. For trotting along, hand in hand with April showers, baseball practice and pussy willows, comes the toothsome taraxacum, known in floridism as "greens."

Early in the week dandelions began to put in their appearance in such numbers and quantities as to make the watchful housewife sharpen up a nine inch Bowie and seek the open places. The parks probably attracted the greatest number, for any afternoon this week there could be found hundreds of women and children digging in the sod.

The accompanying pictures were made in Swinney park on Wednesday afternoon, and it was interesting to note that in some parts of the grounds, park workmen were striving to exterminate the weeds, while in others women were digging a "mess for supper."

The inquisitive person with a camera stopped half a dozen of them and asked concerning the ways and means of preparing the greens for human consumption, and got as many answers as he put questions.

It seems that the women who depend on dandelions for springtime vegetables have methods of their own, handed from grandmother and mother to daughter, none of which ever possessed literary merit enough to find its way between the covers of a cook book.

All these digger-cooks knew how to prepare the vegetable, they all said it was mighty good when cooked right, but each seemed to be rather hazy as to the methods employed. One thing they agreed upon, the greens were to be thoroughly washed before they were cooked. And another point upon which they all laid stress, was the fact that dandelions (like coffee, mayhap) need long and unceasing boiling to bring them to the state in which the green-finds them most palatable.

The Lowly Dandelion. The dandelion ranks pretty close to the juniper as a habitat of all the climes and continents. The botany calls it a member of the family taraxacum. It is a native of Asia, say the scientists, and has spread over Europe and across the American continent.

In the earliest medical parchments reference is made to the dandelion and its medicinal qualities. Even now in rural districts a tea is brewed from the roots and leaves of the weed, and is prescribed by all the grandmothers and maiden aunts for a variety of ailments. The leaves have been used as food in rural communities of Europe for centuries, and among the earliest food-stuffs mentioned in the history of the colonies is the dandelion.

In Old Fort Wayne. In the early days of Fort Wayne there were in the city a host of families in poverty or moderate circumstances, and to them the dandelion was a godsend when spring brought it to the fields. Although history does not mention the green as a staple article of diet for Anthony Wayne and his brave and true, there is little doubt that the garrisons here fed upon the dandelion often in the olden days. But in the memory of the oldest inhabitants Fort Wayne men and women went out to the Hamilton fields south of the railroad, where dandelions were as profuse as diplomatic notes.

Wayns and Means. There are a variety of ways of preparing the dandelion for the table. Although there are those who take the young shoots and prepare them simply by washing them and serving them as lettuce with a dressing, this can be done only when the greens are very young and tender.

However, the majority of cooks, after giving the "mess" a thorough washing, to get rid of sand particles, for the leaves are always full of sand and grit, pour scalding water over them. After a scalding the greens are boiled hard and long, and are prepared in many ways. Some cooks use cheese in preparing them, some prefer bacon. Water cress and celery are put into it at times, and there are so many other ways of preparing it that they are hard to recount.

The H. C. of L. But at that, the dandelion deals a body blow to the much discussed high cost of living. A person with a taste for dandelions can eat them three or four times a week and relish them in season, and the head of the family surely feels the tension of the grocery pull lessen.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., April 14.—Mrs. William Beatty, of Bluffton, is in Ossian this week visiting in the home of her son, Harry Beatty, and family, and with other members of her own family.

George G. Glass, celebrated his tenth birthday anniversary on Thursday, April 13, and his mother gave a dinner in honor of the occasion and entertained all the Daniel Boys, of whom Avery is one. The boys, accompanied by their teacher in Sunday school, Miss Phoebe Summers, spent the entire day at the Glass farm and had a jolly time playing games out doors. Those entertained were Russell Hanna, Harry Niblick, Alfred Mills, William Beatty, Remington Johnston, Edwin Dyer, Forest Crummitt, Curtis Bunn, Dwight Crowl, Brie Wilson, Adrian Hoopengardner, Shirrell Ferguson and Kenneth Stirling as a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Park Summers, Glee Summers and Doyle Plummer were in Fort Wayne Wednesday attending the funeral of Kenneth Sprang, a nephew of Mr. Summers.

Mrs. Will Gibson was hostess for the Whiteaway club Thursday evening. Current events were discussed with interest, and afterwards the ladies enjoyed a social hour with their needlework. The hostess then served a delicious two-course lunch. Those present were Mesdames Will Hoopengardner, Frank Zehrung, Orin McMullen, Meredith Aldred, D. C. Wybourn, C. E. Goshorn, Fred Mills, J. W. Crummitt, A. F. Roe, Frank Foughty and Clyde Wagner. The next meeting will be Friday evening, April 21, at the home of Mrs. Will Hoopengardner.

Mrs. Albert Melching was in Bluffton yesterday to see her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Dustman, and to attend the funeral of Mrs. George Albright.

A number of girls who had been students in the room at school this winter (taught by Miss Beth Chalfant) went to her country home on Wednesday to spend the day with their teacher. They were motored out by A. A. Melching and brought home by Willis Melching. Those in the party were Misses Dorothy Melching, Vera Bickley, Maxine Gibson, Fay Melching, Elizabeth Kendrick, Mildred Ferguson, Pearl Wilson and Marguerite Turner. Miss Chalfant is preparing to leave on the 25th for Angola to take special work at Tri-State Normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Swaim and James Swaim spent Wednesday in Sheldon visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Loni T. Swaim.

Mrs. Geo. Ford, of Fort Wayne, visited with Ossian friends Thursday and attended to business matters. The Sargeant club was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. E. D. Poffenberger. A social hour followed the program when the hostess served delicious refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and candy. Those present were Mesdames Aaron Deibel, W. W. Fryback, S. L. Gorrell, W. W. Hoopengardner, E. H. Roe, F. M. Rector, R. P. Springer, Charles L. Weirich, L. V. Wilson, D. C. Wybourn and Miss Nan Johnston. On Tuesday evening, April 18, the club will meet with Mrs. Wybourn for a social meeting.

Mrs. Frank K. Baker spent Thursday visiting with friends in Fort Wayne. Mrs. W. A. Woodward is home from Fort Wayne, where she spent a few days visiting with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Woodward, and in the home of her cousin, Dr. Morris Herrod.

Mrs. Joseph Elroy was called to Decatur Thursday morning on account of the serious illness of her mother, who had suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. Grace Powell and son, John Franklin, left Thursday for their home in Greentown, after a week's visit with Mrs. Powell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee F. Chalfant.

Mrs. Carl Wilson entertained most delightfully the members of the Pleasant Word Circle. The evening was of a social nature and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Hazel Mahonensmith, president; Mrs. Hazel Melching, vice-president; Mrs. Maude Seibert, secretary; Mrs. Ida Henline, treasurer; Mesdames Deese Swaim, Ida Miller and Bessie Cotton, flower committee; Mesdames Golda Rector, Gay Hall and Myrtle Crabb, social committee; Mesdames Margaret Kolberg, Edie Roe and Lillian Heuline, devotional committee; Mesdames Hazel Wilson, Emma Vananda and Hazel Klein-knight, lookout committee. The hostess then served very nice refreshments to all.

Mrs. John McMullen and daughter Mary are spending this week in London, O., visiting with Mrs. McMullen's daughter, Mrs. Vera Epply.

Mrs. John M. Beck, of near Pae, spent Friday visiting with her daughter, Mrs. M. E. Spencer.

Mrs. Dora Hoover spent Thursday visiting in Fort Wayne with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. C. Hoover.

Mrs. Will Woodward and Miss Glen Tyler will spend the week-end in Fort Wayne. The former will visit in the home of her son, C. O. Woodward.

The April Birthday Social of the Presbyterian church ladies will be held next Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room of the church.

Mrs. W. W. Fryback is taking the school census of Jefferson township this week for her husband who is the township trustee.

The Needlecraft club enjoyed a pleasant evening with Mrs. Frank Gray. The ladies spent their time visiting with their fancy work and the hostess served delicious ice cream and cake. Those present were Mesdames A. S. Elzey, Alex White, Will Woodward, R. A. Sparks, T. V. Rector, J. W. Metta, Will Woodward. Mrs. Will T. Hood was a guest. The club will meet next time with Mrs. Will Woodward.

A reception was given Thursday evening at the M. E. church in honor of Rev. J. Orr Powell and Rev. Garfield Davis and was very largely attended. A nice program had been arranged to welcome the return of Rev. Powell to the Ossian church for another year and to greet the pastor of the new circuit established here. A social time followed and the ladies served ice cream and water.

CONVOY NEWS.

Convey, O., April 15.—Mrs. Andrew Beggs went to Mountville Thursday to spend the day with Mrs. W. G. Dressel. Mrs. Ray S. Stuckey and daughter Alice spent Wednesday in Van Wert the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Butler, and family.

Mary, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Hoover, is quite sick.

A number of girls and boys were entertained at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baylent Wednesday evening.

Mrs. C. H. Hoelle, of Van Wert, spent Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Riley.

The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church will hold an Easter market in the basement of the church April 22. E. M. Leslie was a Van Wert business caller Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kilgore, of Fort Wayne, were week-end guests of Mr. Kilgore's parents, north of town.

Mrs. Ed Moore is visiting friends in Greentown.

Miss Cleo Young pleasantly entertained a number of her friends at her home on North Main street Monday evening in honor of her birth anniversary. A dainty three-course lunch was served, after which the evening was spent in games and music. Those present were Mesdames Maranilla Koogle, Josephine Palmer of Van Wert, Mary Baker of Harrison township, Lela Mentzer, Edna Mollenkopf, Ida Dressel, Vera Slook, Laura Hinkel, Bernice and Florence Deice.

Mrs. Arthur Mathys and daughter, of Van Wert, are visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Webb.

INDICTED FOR BROTHER'S DEATH.

Anderson Grand Jury Returns Finding Against Chauncey Stanley.

Anderson, Ind., April 15.—The Madison county grand jury returned an indictment late yesterday against Chauncey Stanley, 27, of Summitville, charging him with second degree murder for killing his brother, Frank Stanley, 25. Stanley is held in jail without bond. The indictment follows an investigation of the death of Frank Stanley, who succumbed to meningitis resulting from a fracture of the skull caused by a rock alleged to have been thrown by Chauncey Stanley. The trouble between the two brothers occurred in front of their home near Summitville, on Saturday night, April 1.

Excluding private plants, it has been estimated that electric railway, lighting and power plants in this country have absorbed a total of about 50,000 tons of copper.

The common skunk is fond of yellow jackets. It catches these insects by smearing its tail with a sticky saliva which makes the bushy tail serve as fly paper.

Carranza Boy Soldiers Laugh at Death, Declares Starmont

By Leon Starmont.

Santa Cruz, Sonora, Mexico, April 14.—The more you see of Mexican soldiers the more they impress you! Their stoicism becomes bravery; their fatalism becomes real daring!

When Gavira's troops entrained out of Juarez some of them went to sleep in hammocks—rope hammocks—suspended under the cars. And some of the ropes were frayed. But that didn't disturb the slumbers of the young boy soldiers, some of them scarcely 14, who rested soundly as their fragile beds dipped and tipped only a few inches above the roadbed and a few feet from the whirling wheels.

Women and children go along when the troops entrain—for a Mexican soldier's home is the field of battle, and "a woman's place is the home."

At Naco, where Gen. Calles delayed his special train so pictures could be taken of the troops, there was a string of box cars on the siding, those had been converted into movable barracks.

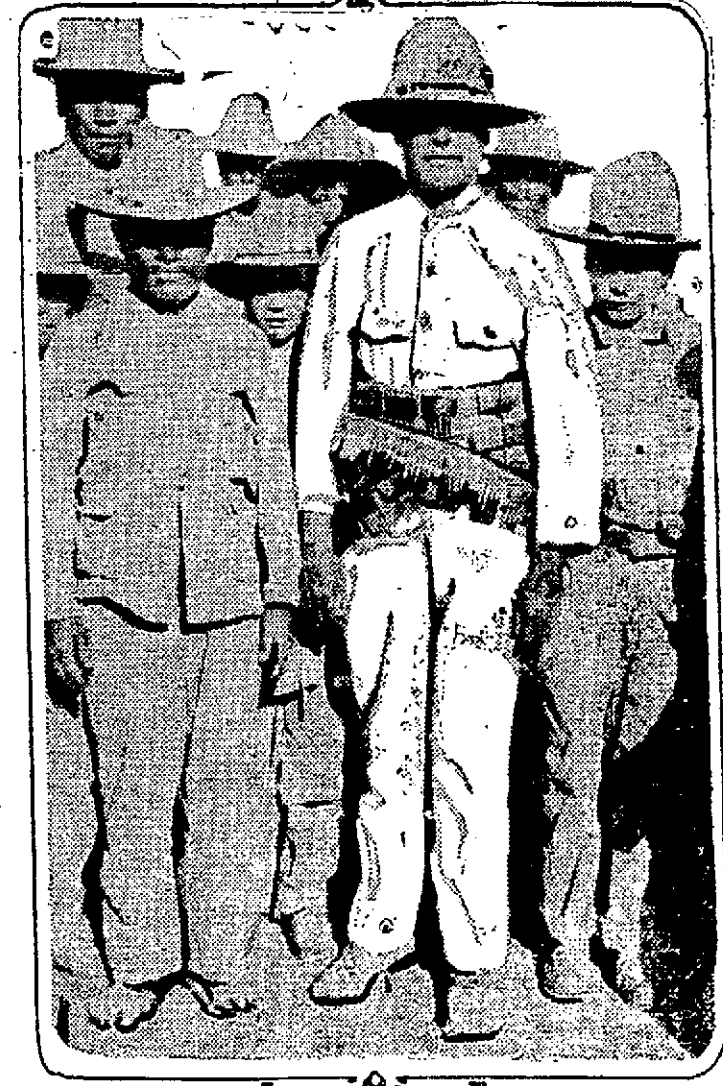

On the ground across from the station women were cooking frijoles in spiders over coals set in shallow holes. Children were running about, some of them carrying their daddies' knives or pistols. Boys with their breasts covered by cartridges in belts ran for their rifles so they could get the weapons in the picture, too.

On top of the box cars were more women, cooking. And little babies of three or four toddled about the tops of the cars in seemingly great danger of falling off.

Probably they never fall, or their mothers wouldn't let them use the roofs of cars for playgrounds.

Gen. Calles' bodyguard, which traveled with us in the special train, was composed of older, more seasoned soldiers than the majority of those at Naco. These were some of the men with whom Calles, commanding 1,050 soldiers at Agua Prieta, fought off a force five times its size under Gen. Maytorena.

They tell some interesting tales of this battle. In order to impress the Maytorena regiments with the defense's strength, the Agua Prieta garrison bought 1,000 straw hats. With these hats on 1,000 soldiers moved through the trenches, the hats showing over the top.

As soon as they reached a spot where the trenches were out of Maytorena's sight, the soldiers doubled back to the starting point, creeping low and carrying the hats in their hands.

Thus the 1,000 hats passed Maytorena's sight three times, in a solid line, and the attacking force was so impressed with the strength of the Agua

Prieta garrison the attack was not pressed.

There are 16,000 trained soldiers in Sonora, they assert. These include the famous Yaqui fighters like those at Naco. There also are a number of Pimas in the Mexican army in this state.

And seeing their fatalism, from childhood to warrior days—the little babies playing on roofs of box cars, the soldiers dozing in hammocks under moving trains—you begin to understand why the Mexicans do not fear death.

Getting Up Steam For Sentinel Horseshoe Pitching Contest

Difficulty in arranging the schedule for the Sentinel horseshoe contest because certain of the contestants have requested afternoon dates and others demand nights, has held up the announcement of the schedule and the exact date of opening play. However, the opening date will be published Monday and the schedule will be made public at the same time.

Scores of practicing pitchers have asked The Sentinel to hold off on the contest another week to assure warmer weather, to make it possible to pitch more accurately. They state that with cold hands they have difficulty in making the shoes go where they ought to and stay put.

It is planned to have fifteen or twenty courts, with that number of games going constantly. By doing this it probably will be possible to play off the series in an afternoon and evening.

Swinney park, Lawton park, and a score of other places are being used daily as practice grounds for the participants, and crowds of from six to twenty gather each afternoon to work out. The pictures of the artists displayed above was made at Swinney park, where a crowd of managers rehearses nearly every day.

It has been years since horseshoe pitching really has interested the city as a whole, and the coming Sentinel contest has stirred up thousands of interested pitchers who do not consider themselves in condition to go into the contest, but who pitch in their own back yards.

HAL STEWART WINS BOUT BY KNOCKOUT

Spills Drouillard for Good in Fourteenth—Mason Beats His Man.

Fort Wayne climbed a notch in the pug world last night when Hal Stewart and Frankie Mason came out victorious in a pair of bouts at Dayton, O. Stewart knocked out Patsy Drouillard, of Windsor, Ont., claimant of the Canadian lightweight title, in the fourteenth round of a scheduled fifteen round battle, and Mason drew a decision from Referee Bud Lally although his bout with Kid Dayton ran the full ten rounds. Both local fighters put up great shows, and both outclassed their opponents all the way round.

The Stewart-Drouillard go was a fast neck and neck affair until the thirteenth, and in the midst of it Stewart floored his man. Patsy was up in a moment, and thrashed into the local pride right and left, none of his blows telling. He started the same tactics in the fourteenth and was badly winded when Stewart smacked him a hot one to the jaw, and Patsy went down for the nine count, climbing to his feet at the last second to lie down for another nine. Once more he got up and once more he went down, and then after a count of nine just got to his feet when Stewart poked him an artistic wallop that ruined the go.

Frankie Mason tried hard for a knockout but had a tough young proposition in Kid Dayton. Dayton handled his mitts with ease and grace in the open places, but Mason had him faded on in-fighting. George Biemer, manager of the two local fighters, went to Dayton with them, and says that Stewart put up the best fight of his career.

The first steel pens were sold for about 40 cents each.

MART CLEARY'S CROWD OPENS SEASON SUNDAY

Sunday, April 13, Defiance, O.
Sunday, April 23, Peru, Ind.
Sunday, April 30, Lafayette, Ind.
Succeeding Sundays to end of season, at home.

Sennett and Diederich will act as the hurling staff for Mart Cleary's Independent Fort Wayne ball club, when the locals go to Defiance, O., to open their season. Hofer and Robinson will catch. The team leaves at 10 o'clock over the Western railroad, and a number of rooters will accompany it.

Mart Cleary today received word that both Peru and Lafayette are willing to meet the locals and has signed up with them. These are two of the strongest independent ball towns in the middle west and some lively play may be expected.

SHOP LEAGUE NOTES.

THE Pennsylvania shop league baseball team blossoms forth with a letter and envelope of crinkly brown paper that would do credit to an art school. And on this paper Harry Hamm writes to The Sentinel sport editor as follows:

The Pennsylvania team will be out in force every Saturday afternoon and Sunday from now on until May 6 at Lawton park for practice. Manager Al Ringle has a stiff proposition on his hands to weed out his team and whip them in shape as there are about fifty applicants for places, among them the old shop league stars, Benoy, Romary, Hamm, Weberuss and Lauer, and some new material that looks equally as good. The team will not be picked until the opening shop league game May 5. The Pennsy will be the best uniformed and equipped team in the league, as Manager Ringle has given Trautman Bros. a contract calling for their highest priced equipment.

The suits will be brownish gray with a wide green stripe, caps and kerchiefs on shirt to match and orange and black socks.

Besides playing shop league ball on Saturday the team will be kept intact for Sunday and holiday out of town games and dates are being daily filled. The opening Sunday game will be played at

HOW MY DAD TAUGHT ME TO PLAY BASEBALL

THE FIRST BASEMAN SHOULD BE THE SUREST CATCHER ON THE TEAM.

Sixth of a Series of Photos, Posed Especially by Joe Tinker, Jr., for The Sentinel, on How to Play Baseball.

FIRST BASE.

The first baseman should be the surest catcher on the team as a large percentage of the balls thrown go to his station. When the bases are empty play well into the field for hits that would otherwise go safe. Make your pitcher cover first base on plays of this nature. Don't make swift overhand throws which are liable to be muffed.

Goshen, Ind., May 11, where preparation is being made for a big time, a parade of the downtown streets, headed by the Goshen band is one of the many features of the program, although the Pennsy suits will make a lot of noise. Any out of town teams wanting games write for date and terms. R. H. Hamm, secretary, 806 Hugh street, Fort Wayne.

Reference, Mart Cleary, manager Fort Wayne city team.

Keep your eyes on the batter if first is occupied. If he bunts toward first, run in and get the ball and peg it to second, taking a chance that it will be returned quickly enough to head off the man who is running to first. Make each peg be accurate.

Before you throw be sure you will head the runner off. Practice handling low balls. A clean pickup invariably retires the batter.

A long reach is a great help to a first baseman. It is sometimes hard to gauge a long throw. Stand with both feet in front of the base so that the position may be easily changed from one side to the other, according to the course of the ball. Watch for the foul flies. Practice spitting. Always be on the alert to grab popups.

Don't wait for the ball to come to you. Go after it!

ERIE IS BACK IN LEAGUE BALL; FORT WAYNE BETTER KEEP ITS EYES OPEN

Erie is the first of the cities dropped from the Central league to get back into organized ball. The Saltfornians simply waited until the Hornell club of the Interstate league got into bad financial condition, then grabbed off the franchise and had it moved to Erie. The town was a pretty good drawer last year, and should make good with the Interstate.

Fort Wayne oughtn't to let any opportunities slip should they present themselves, and there is a chance that the locals may get back into the fold before the end of the season. The officials of the Central league surely miss this city, as is evidenced by the awful brawl emitted just this week by President E. W. Dickerson regarding the local conditions. And by the way, the management of the Fort Wayne Independent team wants it made plain that the present representatives of this city are not and never were in any way connected with the Central league management here. Dickerson's slur against the Cleary crowd has left a feeling of bitter resentment with the boys here and they simply want it repeated that Dickerson either is a badly misinformed man concerning Cleary's league or that he is inclined to give vent to his spite at the expense of the truth.

hands in choosing his catching staff, say reports from Mineral Wells, Tex. Ray Schalk, of course, is sure of his job, and it seems likely that Jack Lapp, because of his great experience, will be retained, but the manager wants only three. This means that Walter Mayer, Ray Shook and Byrd Lynn will have to battle between themselves. Lynn and Shook are youngsters, and have shown a great deal of class at the training camp. The veteran pitchers on the club say that Lynn is almost sure of becoming a regular. Mayer, who has been Schalk's understudy for the past few years, also has shown himself to be a backstop of some class and may deprive the youngsters of their chances of becoming regulars.

DOLLAR BILL MAY BE A CROOKS CLEW

Toledo, April 15.—A one dollar bill pasted upon the back of which was a drug store sticker bearing the skull and cross bones and the name "Dean Crooks" furnished police early this morning with a possible clew to the whereabouts of the alleged Chicago poisoner. The bill was turned over to the police by a taxicab driver to whom it was given by a man he took to the union station shortly after midnight. It was said the former possessor of the money purchased a ticket for the east.

EXPO DURING CENTENNIAL

Amusement and Industrial Show to Be Held in June.

IT WILL OCCUPY FOUR CITY BLOCKS

Merchants and Manufacturers to Join in Big Display.

For several days the Centennial general committee has been just "bustling" to tell the secret which it has been keeping securely locked up during that time.

But it's out now. In addition to the pageant, parades and everything else which will make Fort Wayne the most talked-of city in the middle west this summer, the committee announces that it will hold a vast amusement and industrial exposition for six days and nights, beginning one day earlier than the Centennial celebration, and closing one day later.

E. C. Miller, general chairman of the Centennial celebration, asks The Sentinel to make several points in connection with the exposition plain to everybody, so there can be no confusion or misunderstanding. Mr. Miller says: "This exposition, which will run for six days and nights, June 5 to 10, has one great object to accomplish, and it can do it only with the earnest help of everybody."

"The week of June 6 to 9 would be entirely lost-sided, if we had merely the historic pageant. By this I mean that the pageant will tell our hundreds of thousands of visitors the thrilling story of the years of development of the wilderness into a civilized community. But it stops right there. It cannot, of necessity, show to the world the greatness of Fort Wayne of today. So, in the pageant, we have only one-half of the story told. The other half is the story of the present-day results. And this exposition is designed to tell the story in a most impressive way to the thousands who will attend."

Chairman Miller then went on to show the details of the big undertaking.

"We have secured an exhibition space equal to four city squares," said he, "in which to make this big showing of Fort Wayne of today. The space includes the present base ball park, all of the space at the north of the park to the St. Mary's river, and all of the open space south of the park, extending well toward Superior street. The lease for this big area was closed last evening, and work will begin at once to level off the ground and put it into shape for use in June. We will begin at once the expenditure of probably $15,000 to make the place over into a big attractive exposition ground."

"You will be interested in knowing how this space is to be used. In the first place, the visitor as he goes northward on Calhoun street, will encounter a wide arched entrance nearly opposite the county jail. This will be the only entrance to the grounds. The ticket of admission will be twenty-five cents. Once within the grounds, the visitor will find this large area simply covered with high class exhibits and the best entertainment we can provide. We are endeavoring to arrange for the appearance of Sousa's band during the six days of this exposition. If we fail to secure it, we shall strive to get Creators or the Killies. This suggests to you the quality of the entertainment to be shown. We will then provide a large number of the very best outdoor attractions in America. And when I say this, I mean it. There will be no cheap clattertrap shows or anything of that kind. The word carnival has no place in describing this big attraction for the Centennial. We have engaged a competent man—J. S. Berger—to manage the exposition, under our personal direction, and he has gone at the work as if he knew his business. He has already mapped out the plan of the grounds, showing the location of a large number of well-planned booths of uniform size which will be occupied by the producers and dealers who recognize in the exposition a splendid opportunity to proclaim the greatness of Fort Wayne. I feel that the exposition will prove to be the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in the middle west."

Will Hold the Crowds.

Members of the general committee, who have been working on the preliminaries of the exposition feel that this feature of the Centennial solves one of the real big problems of the week. The parades are scheduled for the afternoons of each day. The pageant will take place for three nights. But between times, the thousands on the street will have to be entertained. The arrangement for the exposition not only provides some of the best of free attractions for the streets, but, for the sum of twenty-five cents the throngs can enjoy the sights of an exposition worth many times the price of admission, as everything is free after one enters the gate.

Not a Money-Making Scheme.

The committee wishes it to be understood that the great object of the exposition is to bring together a great made-in-Fort Wayne exhibit, a large, comprehensive automobile show, a display of goods sold in Fort Wayne, as well as other evidences of modern progress.

The Result of It All.

The undoubted result of the exposition will be to open the eyes of our own people and those of the surrounding territory to the vastness of the manufacturing industries of Fort Wayne. If it accomplishes no more than to make the people acquainted with their own city, it will be a glorious success.

Next Monday is Easter Potato Loaf Day.

E. society will hold its meeting in the evening at 6:30 o'clock. A short preparatory service will be held at 7 o'clock, followed by Easter Communion service in the English language, at 7:30 o'clock. A special offering for home missions will be lifted at the evening service.

Lenten services in the German language, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:45 o'clock.

Preparatory services in the German language Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

First Epworth League.
The Epworth league service Sunday evening will be in charge of the A. C. W., the leader of which will be chosen from the Crescent Avenue Evangelical church. The topic to be used will be, "The Value of Prayer."

Morning watchers keep in mind the morning watch prayer service on Easter morning at 7:30. Miss Jorcz Staley will lead.

Held Eighth Annual Baquet.
The eighth annual baquet which was held by the Young Men's Bible class of the First Evangelical church, Thursday evening, was a complete success. The new class officers who were installed at this function, are: Chester Cuthall, president; "Gude Howard, vice president; Howard Slagle, recording secretary; Harold Lines, corresponding secretary; Walter Flug, treasurer; Norman Kendall, librarian.

Passover Begins Monday.
Pesach, the Feast of the Passover, begins Monday evening, April 17, and special services will be held in the synagogue and temple of this city in commemoration of the biblical narrative which tells how the people of Israel, enslaved in Egypt, were led from bondage to freedom by their leader, Moses.

Reception for Pastor.
The members of the First Evangelical church will give a reception to their pastor, Rev. E. Q. Laudeman, on Monday evening. Rev. Laudeman was returned to the local church for the fourth consecutive year and in commemoration of this event a social time will be held at the church beginning at 8 o'clock.

Held Special Conference.
A special conference of the Fort Wayne Ministerial association will be held Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the First M. E. church with E. L. Megge, of Indianapolis, campaign director for the Young Men's Christian association.

QUEST CLUB NAMES SEVEN DIRECTORS

Several Unique "Stunts" Were "Pulled" at Annual Banquet.

At the annual banquet of the Quest club, Friday evening, at the Anthony hotel, seven directors were named. They will meet with the hold-over directors within the next two weeks for the purpose of electing the officers of the club for the ensuing year.

The directors named were: A. W. Heit, B. Paul Mousman, H. J. Bowerford, C. P. Milliken, George VanArman, S. W. Greenland and W. H. Scheiman.

The evening was delightfully spent, a number of unique "stunts" being "pulled." After the dinner had started a newssie brought into the banquet room a paper called "The Inquest" and written by C. P. Milliken. It contained editorials, cartoons, classified ads and all the departments that are to be found in a metropolitan daily newspaper. Each item, editorial, ad and cartoon referred in a humorous vein to each member of the club. One of the features of the evening was an address on temperance by B. J. Griswold, impersonating an old maid running for governor.

A communication was read from J. B. Franke asking for an appropriation of $500 for a waiting station at the transfer corner. The discussion that followed became somewhat spirited and heated during which a messenger boy rushed in with a telegram from Mr. Franke, dated Battle Creek, stating that he supposed the noise he heard was caused by the Quest club members' argument over the little joke he had sprung regarding the waiting station.

While the dinner was in progress cabaret singers sang parodies on the various members to the tune of "Mr. Dooley."

The out-going president, H. Brooks Sale, was presented with a handsome traveling bag, the presentation speech being made by C. B. Fitch. While he was thanking the members for their generosity and was feelingly expressing his appreciation an officer rushed in and placed him under arrest for a number of misdemeanors he is alleged to have committed during the past year. Not until he had given a $1,000 bond signed by his partner was he released. The indictment which was clothed in legal terms covered the year pretty thoroughly, pointing out in detail every offense the retiring president is alleged to have committed.

The banquet closed the club's season, which has been one of the best and most profitable since its organization.

HEREDITY in MOTION PICTURE WORK

DAVE:
Well, Dave, I want to tell you about that Sunday-school entertainment that I went to because the women wanted me to come so they could have a movie play to run off and the actor in it so they could see what a big movie actor like me looks like, and I could make them

"I got chased all around the house in the rain."

A little speech and tell them how the movies are made.

But I didn't make no speech on account of having such a bad cold, and I wouldn't have went at all but J. J. Murphy said:

"Do you want to make them people sore and disappoint all them girls that want to take a look at you?"

The way I come to get that bad cold was from working in a play with rain stuff in it. We don't make pictures of it raining like you think we do, Dave, because it don't rain when the sun shines and you can't make outside movies when the sun don't shine, and if they had to wait for rain to come along every time they wanted to have a scene of that kind they would just have to wait till it rained.

This picture where I worked in the rain scene is where I go to see a girl that I like and her pa won't let me come in the house and the bulldog won't let me go out of the yard, and I get chased all around the house in the rain, which is made by a rain-making machine that is like a big sprinkler, only there's more water in one of them movie rainstorms than there is in any cloud you ever saw.

After the scene was over I says to J. J. Murphy:

"Hurry with them other scenes, I am getting cold."

He says:

"You poor boob, we ain't going to make them other scenes till tomorrow. Get that wet make-up off of you or you'll have bronchitis or something." And the next day I started to sneezing like a house alive and my nose was red.

That was the day of the entertainment that was to be pulled off that night, and I said:

"Oh, pshaw, I won't let a little thing like a bad cold keep me away and disappoint them women." But when J. J. says that evening,

"Everybody go out and get some cats and come back to the studio while we make them interiors," I told him I couldn't go to no entertainment, because you can't be at two places at once, and he said:

"We only need you in one scene. You can beat it in time to go there, easy."

I said: "Yes, but I'm a awful tired working, and I've got such a bad cold."

He said: "Tom, I didn't think you was afraid of a bunch of women," and I said, "I ain't afraid of no bunch of women," and J. J. says,

"Well, then, go and let 'em gaze on you and make 'em a little speech, otherwise you'll make them sore at the whole moving-picture industry and there's lots of people that go to Sunday school in this broad land of ours. What if all them people quit going to the movies? It would cripple the business, and a lot of actors would lose their jobs."

And that's right, Dave, you got to be careful and not make people mad in this business. While we was making them other scenes of that brakeman picture I got to studying up that speech to make to these people, and I couldn't think of nothing on account of having that cold in my head, and I said to J. J.:

"Why don't you send Densie Steinbush to make the speech and just let me go along for them to look at, and Bessie can tell them about what a fine actor I am."

J. J. said, "What's the matter? Got cold feet again?" I says, "No, I got a cold in my head."

Bessie says, "Good! Then I'll get in on some of that popularity stuff myself, I'd just like to go over there and make 'em a speech. I'll tell 'em about Tom, but I won't forget to tell 'em about little Bessie, and I'll bet I make a hit. All them girls will want to kiss me, I guess."

I said, well, I guessed I could go and make them a little speech by myself, only I wished I didn't have this cold.

Bessie says, "Come with me; I'll fix that so you won't know you ever had a cold." And we went to a place called Jake's Place, and Bessie said, "Jake, shake hands with Mr. Boggs, the celebrated movie actor. He's going out in society, and needs a little bracer."

And Mr. Jake says, "Yes, he looks like one. What he needs is one of my stingers." And we drunk one of them, and it made you feel good, and I said, "How much does them drinks cost?"

Jake says, "Three for a quarter, and he said I told him we didn't want but two, and he said the drink was patented and the inventor had to drink one every time anybody else does, and so I bought a quarter's worth of the stingers, and Bessie says, 'Don't your cold feel better now?' and I said, 'Yes, it is better.'"

A man come up and butted in to us while we was talking, and Jake says to him, "Who sent any messenger boy for you to come and horn in on us this way? I'll tap you with this beer mallet if you don't beat it."

But Bessie says, "Desist, Jacob. The gentleman is attracted by my friend Boggs, who is such a famous actor that people take all kinds of chances to get to talk with him."

The man said he was an admirer of genius, and he was an awful nice man, and he said he had always wanted a chance to talk to a real live movie actor, and I bought some more stingers and give him one, and then I said, "Well, I'll have to go and get this make-up off and go to that Sunday-school entertainment."

And then Bessie Steinbush thought of a good scheme.

"You just go the way you are, Tom," he says, "and get down in the back of the hall. If folks know you they will be bashful about saying nice things about you to your face; but if they don't know you, you can have lots of fun listening to what they say about your acting when theillum is run off."

I thought that was a good scheme, and Jake says, "I did that when I got married. My wife's folks had never saw me, and I went around and didn't tell them who I was, and I said to her old man, 'Did you know your daughter was married?' And the old man said, 'Yes, she married a bum.'"

Then the other man, who thought I was such a good actor says to me, "Have you got change for a dollar?" I said yes, I had change for a dollar and I gave it to him, and he bought more stingers, and I said, "Where is the dollar I give you change for?" And he says, "Oh, I'll hand that to you in the morning." And then Jake says, "Let's have another round." And we did, and my cold was all gone, and I told them all good-by and shook hands with them and a lot more people who were in the place, and told them I would send them all my picture, and then I went to the entertainment.

There was a whole lot of people going in the hall, and there was a great big picture of me and "Strongheart" having that fight in the schoolhouse scene posted up on the outside, and a lot of people was looking at it, and I stood up alongside of the picture so they could see what I look like, but none of them didn't know who I was because I had them brakeman clothes and make-up on, and a man says, "Stand to one side; you are blocking up the picture gallery."

I went into the hall and they charged me a quarter to go in, and I didn't think they ought to have done that, but it was for a good cause and I paid and didn't say nothing. There wasn't hardly any seats but way back in the hall, and I set down behind a lot of girls and their boys who had brought them there.

They started running off that picture of me as the brakewood school-teacher, and I tell you, Dave, if you see yourself up there on the screen acting out a piece, you don't know how funny it feels, and them girls got to talking and one said, "Ain't he splendid?" And one of the men, a little bit of a runt, said: "If that guy is an actor then I'm a pugilist, and I can whip Willard and Moran both at once."

And one of the others says: "He don't act. That's the part of a big rube he's got to play and he's acting natural, that's all."

Photoplay Answers

A. H. G.—The rejection slip you send is the regular form used by the Universal Company. It is a polite rejection, and the kind that is sent to all writers who send in plays that the company cannot use. It means nothing outside of the fact that this particular play has been turned down. The same play might sell at the next place you send it, and it might even be taken by this company after a while.

There are many things that cause a rejection. The play may not be the type the company is making; they may not have players suited to the parts, or they may have made a play along similar lines. The editors of the big companies get hundreds of plays a week. They can do no more than send a printed form of rejection.

Do not allow a rejection slip of any kind to give you any worry. If you think you can write and have confidence in your work, keep right on. When a play comes back send it out again; after it has been out five or six times, read it over; you may see a way of improving it.

S.—True happenings, as a rule, do not make good photoplays. Of course, everything is based on reality; it might have happened, or it could happen, but most professional writers do not base their plays on things that have happened to them. A prolific writer is never at a loss for plots, and the plots that are hatched right out of the brain incubator are the very best kind. Events are so full of things. Take any actual occurrence and analyze it, and you will find that it seldom has any story material in it outside of one bare incident, and stories and plays must be idealized, and you have to take your true story and twist it around to fit these conditions, and you might just as well work on an imaginary plot and be done with it.

It is more elastic and can be molded easier. Do not tell a studio editor that the play you are sending is a true story, or the story of your own life, or of one of your friends. It will not impress him in the least.

One of the girls says: "You boys are just jealous because all the girls are in love with the movie actors," and another man said: "That guy ain't no actor, he's just stalling around, and, besides, nice girls don't fall in love with actors, it's only chickens that do that."

I was going to tell them who I was, but they got to the part of the film where me and Strongheart and them roughneck extras has that big fight, and I forgot all about them, and pretty soon I didn't know what I was doing, but I was waving my arms and going through that scene again right there, and I grabbed a man in front of me and was tussling him around, and he said, "You're crazy." And an usher came up and wanted to know what was wrong, and I kinda come to myself and remembered where I was, and then the man who was running the show made a speech. He said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—We have a treat for you tonight. The actor that just acted in the picture you seen tonight will make an address and tell us some interesting things about the life of a moving picture actor. He was to have been here by now, but he was detained and we have sent an automobile to the studio for him."

An usher came up to me and says, "You come with me, sir," and I had to climb over everybody's feet getting out of there, and there is the ignorantest people out here, Dave. They don't know nothing, sometimes, and nearly all tried to trip me and make me fall, and once I did set down on a woman's lap, and she says:

"When you are rested I hope you will get up and go on," and I told the usher, "My name is Boggs, and I am the movie actor," and he said: "Yes, yes, I know. Just come with me."

I thought he was going to take me up to the front of the hall, so I could make that speech, but he opened a door and we was on the outside, and he says, "Now you beat it or I'll call a policeman."

Well, good-by, Dave; I've kinda got some of that cold left and don't feel any too good yet.

"Now you beat it or I'll call a policeman."

BESSIE BARRISCALE offers an interesting study in inherited talent. This young girl was playing an important part with James A. Herne in Shore Acres at the age of 5 years, and at 15 she was taking the leading part of "Madge" in Old Kentucky. While yet a child she went all the way to London and made the hit of her young life in the part of "Lovey Mary" in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, and all because her father before her was an actor.

Miss Barriscale's father was a well-known English actor, who came to this country with the original Lights of London company. Miss Barriscale, after her return from abroad, was engaged to play the leading part in The Rose of the Rancho, by David Belasco, and it was through this that she got into moving pictures. When Jesse L. Lasky wanted to put this play in films he persuaded Miss Barriscale to take the part, and she liked the work so well that she accepted a long contract offered her by Thomas H. Ince, of the Triangle Corporation.

Miss Barriscale has made splendid success of screen work. Among her best-known films are "The Cup of Life," "The Green Swamp," "Bullets and Brown Eyes," "The Golden Claw," "The Matinee," "The Painted Lady," "The Last Act" and many others.

Children of actors seem to inherit the talent of their parents more than in any other line of work. This is caused mainly by the conditions of actors' lives. The child of the banker or the butcher or lawyer may grow up with little knowledge and no liking at all for the professions their fathers followed.

Not so with the actor's child. The actor, because he is constantly traveling, must take his children along with him, and the little ones acquire the rudiments of the art and a liking for the fascinating work as soon as they learn to think, and as quick as they can toddle out on the stage they are given parts whenever a child is needed in the plays being produced.

Some of the most noted picture stars inherited their talent and love of the work from their parents. Miss Barriscale is but one example. Another is found in the case of Miss Alma Hanlon. This girl represents the fourth generation of actors. Her family were the famous Hanlons, who came to this country years ago with Hanlon's Fantasma.

Mary Pickford, her sister Lottie, and brother Jack, were almost raised on the stage. Their mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, was a well-known actress at one time. Charles Chaplin, the son of English actors. Emily Stevens is the daughter of an actress, and niece of Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Wallace Field's father is Hal Reid, the actor and playwright. Florence Reed is the daughter of Roland Reed, a famous comedian. Dorothy Davenport is the child of the well-known actor, Harry Davenport. The three Barrymores, Lionel, Ethel and Jack, belong to a family who have been actors for generations. Their father, Maurice Barrymore, was a well-known actor in his day, and their mother was a sister of John and Sidney Drew. Sidney Drew himself has a son, S. Ranken Drew, who is making a name for himself on the screen. Olive Fuller Golden is the daughter of George Fuller Golden, a well-known actor, and the founder of the White Rats, the association of theatrical performers.

married. Have heard no rumors to the effect that Bunny's pictures would be showed again. They may be reissued at some future date, however.

C.—Edna Purviance will play with Charles Chaplin in his new comedies for the Mutual Corporation. They are at work now in a studio at Los Angeles, Cal. Just address Chaplin at Los Angeles, he will get your letter.

R.—Helen Holmes will begin work in a new ten-chapter serial soon, which will be made from Frank H. Spearman's novel, "Whispering Smith." J. P. McGowan will be "Whispering Smith," and there will be much lively Western stuff in the serial besides the usual railroad action.

J.—Grace Cunard has appeared in several two and three reel plays since she finished work on the Broken Coin, but she is now working on another serial, Peg o' the Ring. One of the latest releases in which she and Francis Ford appear is Lady Raffles Returns.

V. B.—Mabel Normand has not left the Triangle, as it was rumored, but has entered into a new contract with that corporation whereby she will be given greater scope for her talents, and will be starred in five-reel comedy dramas. She will continue to receive her mail through the Triangle offices at 11 West Twenty-third street, New York.

J. T. R.—This is the cast of Essanay's Faredoor: "Molly Carter," Ruth Stonehouse; "Jim Carter," Edmund F. Cobb; "Chester Cooper," the sheriff, Thurlow Brewster; "The Girl at Heidelberg's," Peggy Sweeney. The actor you ask about was probably a minor character in the play and his name would not be given.

J. O. H.—In writing a photoplay you do not write a story at all, unless you do as some writers, reduce your plot to story form and then make your scenario from that. Your question indicates that you do not understand scenario construction. If this is the case, you will have to get books from the public library that will show you the photoplay form.

Some firms will consider plots in synopsis form, but not many. Writing out the play in the scenario is what develops it and makes it salable, usually. A book and a play for the regular stage are two separate and distinct pieces of literature. A plot in story form might not appeal to a producer of plays, but when it is

ANSWERS TO Motion-Picture FANS

Sign your name, but give title to use in column. Personal replies will be given only when stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. Address all queries to Photoplay Editor, care of this paper.

A. RETTA—Mary Pickford is designated as a blonde, although her hair is more of a light brown than golden, but she is certainly not a brunette. Many film stars do not let the public know whether they are married or not. The two you ask about are in that class.

B.—Romaine Fielding is producing pictures on his own account, and is releasing through Universal. Fritz De Lint is somewhat new in pictures, but he has appeared in several Metro subjects. Address Metro Corp., 1465 Broadway, New York.

J. M.—Marguerite Clark is 23 years old, and it would be rather hard to determine which is the more popular, she or Blanche Sweet. Sorry we cannot tell you who the vampire woman was in Jeanne Dore, as that picture was made in France, and we have no cast of characters, except that Sarah Bernhardt was the star. Belle Bruce was "Alicia" in For a Woman's Fair Name.

M.—If you will send us the name of the play instead of the name of a character in the play, we may be able to give you the information you desire. It is almost impossible to identify a play or player by the name of a character in the film.

R. IALTO—Crane Wilbur is decidedly still working in pictures. He is now working on a play written by himself, which is called The Conscience of John David. His address is David Horsley Studio, Los Angeles, Cal.

J. OSIE—Charles Clark was born in Charleston, Ill., in 1892, and has lately been working in Lasky-Paramount pictures. He was in The Blacklist with Blanche Sweet, and in Tennessee's Partner, with Fanny Ward. He is not married. Have heard no rumors to the effect that Bunny's pictures would be showed again. They may be reissued at some future date, however.

Your plot in synopsis or story form cannot present its best side, while if it is developed and made into a picture play, its possibilities are seen at once. If you have a clever and new plot, you may sell it in any form, but you will stand a better chance if you can complete and offer it as a full-fledged photoplay.

Old Actors' Farewell to Be in the Movies

THE old thespian stars of bygone days, who are now sheltered in the Actors' Home on Staten Island, New York City, are going to make another appearance—for many of them their last farewell. These kindly, meliorating artists will be seen, not on the boards they trod in their heyday, but in the youngest or the arts, the moving pictures.

Their appearance will be part of the Motion Picture Campaign for the Actors' Fund of America, which proposes to raise $500,000 in fifteen weeks as its share of the million-dollar endowment needed to put the work of the fund on a sound financial basis.

Here are the men and women who have given their best to the stage, now on the downward path of life. The films in which the old actors will take part are to be shown, according to the plans of the committee in New York, in every theater in the country at the same time. There will be depicted every phase of life in the Actors' Home in Staten Island.

The chief feature of the reel, however, is to be a film drama, entirely the work of the members of the home. It is written by one of them, and will be rehearsed and acted by the former stars, under the direction of Daniel Frohman.

DIGGES

all circles as "Hop Alley." were the men who were responsible for the distribution of narcotics in various forms among its users.

With infinite pains they worked up the case and did not spring the trap until all was in readiness and, as one of the secret service men said, "the weather conditions were propitious." And then, at the place of Lee Mow Linn, in "Hop Alley," they found opium and its various narcotic derivatives in quantity and various forms, from the crude slurr to "Yen Shee," which is 15 per cent pure morphine, as was testified to in court later.

Lee Mow Linn and Lee Bing were sentenced to five years in Leavenworth for the illicit manufacture of opiates, took an appeal and furnished bonds. It is expected that within a short time the Court of Appeals will hand down a decision in their cases.

Lee Mow Linn has been in St. Louis for many years and has accumulated property through various chop suey restaurants and his business connections in "Hop Alley" reputed to be in the neighborhood of $500,000. He is the banker of the Chinamen of the Middle West.

Lee Bing is his right-hand man, and it is his name which appears over a more or less fashionable chop suey place near Grand and Olive.

The two men have been under suspicion by the internal revenue men for some time, and their arrest and conviction was the result of a carefully prepared campaign.

"Their smiles are childlike and bland," said one of Uncle Sam's men, "but they are about the smoothest individuals on the face of the earth. They are the hardest men in the world to land, and we must have the most conclusive evidence to convict them. For not one of them will ever 'squawk,' and an informer is unknown. They go to their fate stoically, take what is coming to them. Among the Chinese crooks there is such a thing as 'honor among thieves.' Of course, this may be due to the fact that if one of them ever made a betrayal of a comrade he would be hatched at the first opportunity, and they know it."

Frank T. Digges bears the title of deputy internal revenue collector. He is the great authority on narcotics for Uncle Sam in the Middle West, with his headquarters in St. Louis.

"My only province, as far as the use of drugs goes," said the doctor, "is that which is concerned with infection of the federal law. But it is a fact that the use of all sorts of narcotics is growing in the United States. Opium in its various forms, cocaine, heroin, all are used very generally in all walks of society. Among the lower classes the smoking of the pipe is the general form of this dissipation, although the use of morphine and yen shee as hypodermic injections is about as common."

Digges said that the raw opium was imported in bulk form and converted into the various forms in which it is used.

"Opium is a product of the poppy plant," he said. "It is popularly associated in the public mind with the Chinese. But it first became the national vice of the 'Flower Kingdom' through its introduction by the British from India, when the great East India Company had control of the Buddhist nation. Practically all narcotics are products of opium in one form or another."

"The most common form of the drug used, particularly by the lower world, is that of raw opium. It is a putty looking substance and is rolled into small pills. These are heated over a flame and placed into the bowl of a long-stemmed pipe. The smoker reclines and inhales the fumes. The sensation ensuing is of a dreamy unconsciousness, and the visions which come are always rosy. That peculiar attribute of the smoke has made it so tremendously popular. One who desires to forget may drift away into another world with the knowledge that the visions which come will always be pleasant."

In speaking of "Yen Shee" Digges said that it simply was another form of cooked opium.

LEE CHIN CHUNG, of indefinite age, as are all Chinese after they obtain their majority, is the logical successor to the head of the Chinese world of the Middle West should Lee Bing and Lee Mow Linn be sent to prison eventually. He is upstanding and of keen intelligence, takes pride in dressing well, and speaks splendid English. He says that he has been in this country many years. He is the business head of the chop suey cafe at 510 Market street, St. Louis.

UNITED STATES Internal Revenue Agent Frank T. Digges, who has been largely responsible for the clean-up among drug users and violators of the federal oleomargarine laws, was appointed to the government service about a year ago. He conducted a drug business at Glasgow, Howard County, Mo., and was made a member of the St. Louis staff because of his knowledge of narcotic drugs shortly after the Harrison anti-narcotic drug law went into effect.

When Digges showed up at the office of Internal Revenue Agent L. G. Nutt, then in charge of the St. Louis office of the department, he was given an outline of what his work would consist. Nutt then handed Digges a 44-caliber revolver and a gold badge and ordered him to "get busy."

points of the body where arteries are readily accessible are sought.

The great narcotic authority then went on to tell of the discovery of cocaine. "It is one of the strongest of all drugs and was first used, and still is, by surgeons as a local anesthetic. In using the knife, an injection deadens the muscles and tissues, and ether is not necessary in minor operations. But its use in the surgical world brought about a desire for it by subjects, and today it is one of the great menaces of the world."

"Cocaine is generally used by its devotees in the nature of a snuff. It has the property of exhilaration, a terrific stimulant. And users of morphine or opium, both of which tend to produce sleep, use it to counteract the effect of the sedatives. The combined use cannot be stood long and brings about a general breakdown, both physical and mental."

The last word in drugs is heroin, according to Dr. Digges. "It is concentrated," he said. "It is absolutely the apotheosis of everything that is evil in the world of drugs. It has all of the is concerned, or the internal revenue men, when opium smuggling or manufacture comes to light.

"That Hop alley is a wonderful place," said one of Uncle Sam's men when discussing the cases of Lee Mow Linn and Lee Bing. "You can search the place with a fine-tooth comb and not uncover a tail-can of opium. And I firmly believe that if we would take those buildings apart, piece by piece, we would find tons of it."

"When we arrested the Chinese a year ago there was an innocent-looking hole in the wall. There did not seem to be anything in it. One of the men had a pocket mirror and a flashlight. He placed the mirror at the bottom of the hole, the light above, and uncovered a hundred pounds of opium suspended above."

Ever since the Geary exclusion act was passed by Congress, half a century ago, the matter of keeping out the undesirable Chinese coolies from the United States has caused the Immigration Department and its various ramifications about as much trouble as any great national question. They will get in through underground channels,

The doling out of Chinese dishes is the favorite commercial pursuit of the Chinese throughout the United States, and there are several palatial resorts of this character in St. Louis. A notable downtown place is that at 510 Market street, where Lee Bing has his habitat and dictates the lives of the Chinese in the lower business section of the city.

This place is ornate, in an Oriental way, with inlaid tables and chinaware which rivals the famous wares of Sèvres. Its decorations are in green and gold. It is here that Lee Chin Chung reigns as ostensible proprietor. And should Lee Bing and Lee Mow Linn be sent to prison, he is the logical successor as head of the Chinese of St. Louis and its tributary country.

In these chop suey places, as they are popularly termed, original Chinese dishes are served. The popular dish is that which gives its name to the establishment. Chop suey might well be called a Chinese hash. The cook seemingly throws everything into it that happens to come to hand, and then, like a skilled Parisian chef,

"It is just the cake of the pipe," he said, "just like the cake which forms in your meerschaum. It is more concentrated than the raw drug and is most commonly eaten. It produces the same effect as the pipe, but it is more immediate and lasting. It is about 15 per cent pure morphine. Among the lower classes it is 'shot' hypodermically, after having been dissolved in hot water. The use of it brings terrible abscesses upon the body, as it is not readily assimilated in the blood."

Digges said that the use of all narcotics was gaining all over the country.

"Not content with the use of smoking opium," he said, "the people must have something more concentrated, something that would have a more immediate and forceful attack. This was furnished in the first place by morphine, the drug of Thomas De Quincey, then whom no greater master of English ever penned a page, the man who wrote the immortal 'Confessions of an Opium Eater.' The use of this narcotic is generally hypodermic. Injections through the wrists, until they become hardened, when other vices and few of the virtues of other narcotics. However, it is expensive, and its use is largely confined to the higher classes of society, the wealthy who have acquired the taste for drugs."

Lee Mow Linn is reputed to be the head of a Chinese "tong," or secret society, of St. Louis none other than the famous Hip Sing Tong. But the Hip Sings, as all other Chinese societies, are hatchetmen. One enemy is a common enemy, and there has been many an Oriental persona non grata who has dropped out of sight and never been accounted for.

The Hip Sing Tong in St. Louis has a clear field. It is all powerful and the tong wars which have characterized San Francisco particularly have been wanting in this city. Lee Mow Linn is the power that is, and what he says goes all the way along the line.

In Hop alley, at certain times, there are sessions held in secret places, when the law is laid down, and all of the giant-eyed inhabitants must obey them. The doings of the tong are without the ken of the secret service men, who bother little except in case an American citizen and Uncle Sam's dominion is the Mecca of all Chinese.

For years past they have been coming into the United States principally through Canada and Mexico. And once they are safely landed they acquire forged identification papers, and it is seldom that any of them are ever deported. From Vancouver, B. C., they come in on dark nights to Seattle and Tacoma. From the west coast of Mexico they are smuggled across the border with the connivance of Mexican officials. For neither British Columbia nor Mexico has the Chinese. And they pay large sums for their transportation and protection.

disguises it all with a sauce the composition of which no Occidental has ever been able to discover. There are many grades of it, however, but to enjoy chop suey one must acquire a taste for it.

"Yakamen," or noodles, comes next in general favor. This dish is very much the same as the German noodle, with the exception that it is made without eggs. It is served in a bowl with meat trimmings, usually of pork or chicken. And with it is always the Chinese sauce, imported from the Orient, which has obtained a strong hold upon the appetites of the Americans who patronize the chop suey cafes.

ITH the fear in their souls that their king and his premier may be taken away by "the foreign devils" and locked up in an awful place called Leavenworth, the Chinese of the Middle West are nightly burning their joss sticks in a massive endeavor to exorcise the evil spirits and preserve to them their human patron saints.

For it is very shortly that Lee Mow Linn, the John Pierpont Morgan of the St. Louis Orientals, and Lee Bing, his charge d'affaires, will learn from the Court of Appeals whether they will or not spend five years sequestered behind the white man's bars on a charge of preparing opium for their fellow-countrymen and the various followers of the habit in its many forms that obtains and disposing of this product for good American dollars.

It was a year ago that men connected with the internal revenue service got after the big "hop peddlers." They worked on the case for months, and finally decided that Lee Mow Linn and Lee Bing, at 17 South Eighth street, gener-

HOME LAUNDRY

BY EDNA EGAN.

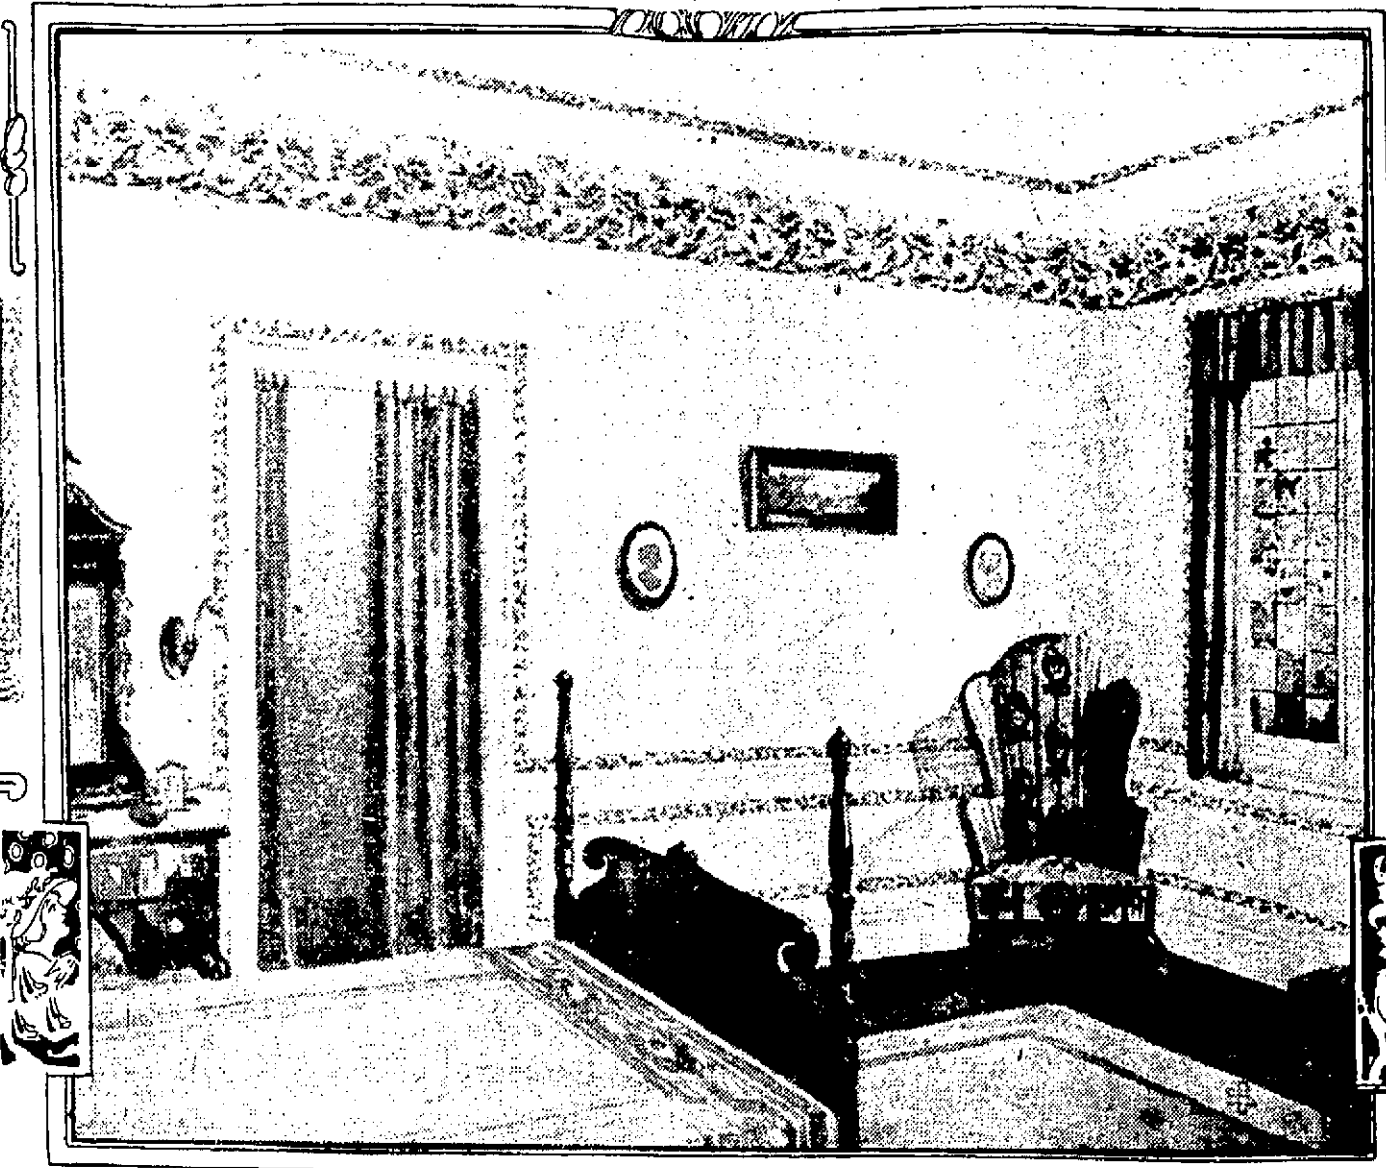

IN arranging the laundry the first thing to consider is the fine work we intend to keep in our own hands. The water should be clean and soft. Hard water will prevent soap from lathering, and this can be overcome by the addition (small quantities) of ammonia, borax or soda.

Here is a crepe de chine blouse of which we are especially fond. We want it to be clear, with a fresh white, not the yellow tinge which so often comes after the first washing. Make a good suds with soap, softened by a bit of borax and tinted with aniline blue. Never rub the soap on the fabric, simply squeeze through the suds, and rinse in tepid waters twice. Dry by pressing in a Turkish towel, hang in the air for a few minutes, then press with a warm iron, finishing with a hotter one.

Our very best lace centerpiece must be made ready for the dinner party we are to give next week. Prepare a good suds and dip the lace piece up and down briskly. If you want it clear white add a little bluing to the tepid rinsing water; if ivory white omit the bluing, and if the rich cream of old lace add a few teaspoonfuls of clear coffee. Roll up in Turkish towels and pat until almost dry; then pin on the clean-covered ironing board, or bosom board, or even in the pillows in the spare bedroom if no other place is available, and pull and pick carefully into shape, until each pearl and loop lie in place and each mesh is the proper shape. If the piece has a linen center, after the lace is all picked out dampen the linen carefully and press from the center toward the edges.

SURPRISE DISHES

SURPRISE the family now and then with a new dish and set them guessing as to what it consists of. Those who taste vegetable sausages for the first time are sure to be puzzled. These are made by soaking one and one-half cups of lima beans over night and cooking in salted water until tender. Then they are put through a potato ricer, and two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste, a dash of tabasco, or any very hot sauce, and a pinch of thyme is beaten into the pulp. If too stiff, moisten with beaten egg. Form the mixture into small sausage shapes, dip in beaten egg and flour and fry until a nice brown on all sides. Another unusual dish is made from one cupful each of any cold baked fish and rice. These are put into a double boiler to get very hot. Then one tablespoonful of butter, one egg and seasoning of salt and pepper are added. Stir well until the whole is well blended, then serve.

ODDS ENDS

THE busy housemother may depend, even more than formerly, on her sewing machine, for there has been invented a darning to use on a double-thread machine. And it does good darning, too. There are no loose threads to be in the way, there are no torn edges where the darning thread did not catch, and, best of all, there can be no lumps. All that is necessary is to put the frame under the presser foot, arrange the stocking on a frame and the work is practically done.

ALL the precious flounces, vells and edgings that are being kept as heirlooms, made of various laces, such as Chantilly, blond and Brussels, and net applique, can be blended ideally with tulle and tulle in the production of rarely graceful gowns for the home. It should be remembered that lace needs air. It is bad economy to lay it by in lavender indefinitely, and therefore when the opportunity for making use of it is encouraged by fashion it is a pleasant duty to answer the call.

and modesty and charms of her womanhood. Not the unpleasant and constant frivolity evidenced in "smart" speech or quickness of repartee, but the humor that looks at the world with a twinkle in the eye and sees its absurdities, its smallness and its fun, says a writer. It should be part of every woman's mental equipment, for women are called upon to bear so many of life's small worries as well as its greater ones. The bringing up of children, the care of servants, and the many social duties that become a burden, are all made easy and possible to put up with by the woman with an unflinching sense of humor and of the bright side of life.

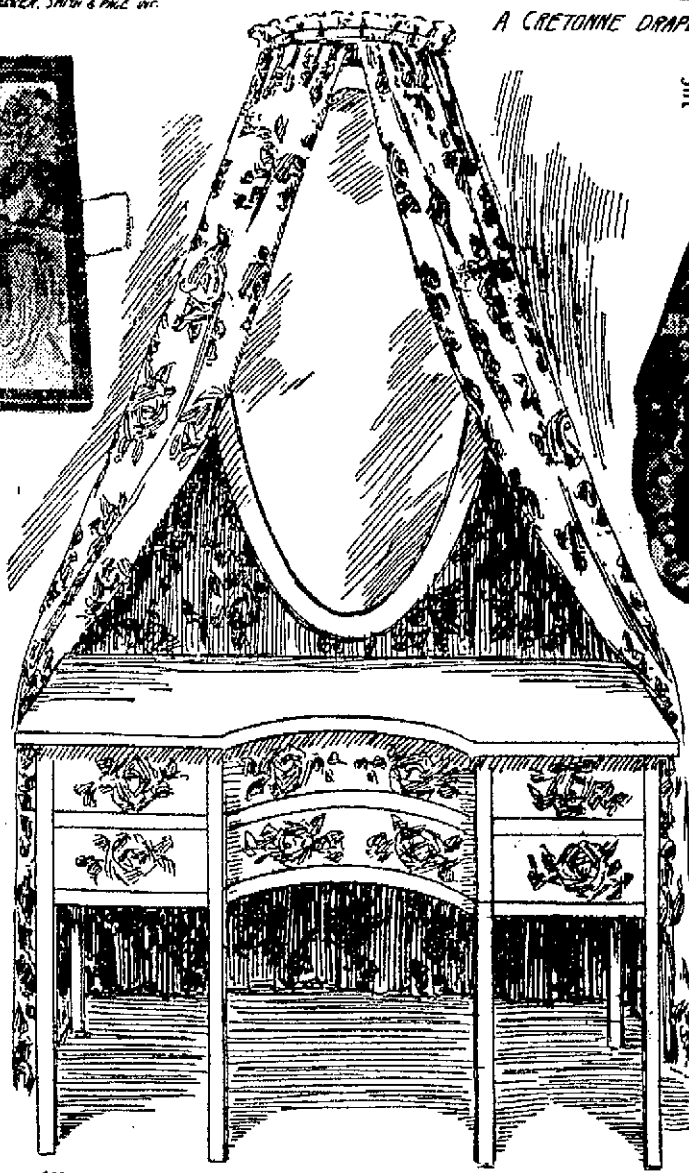

WHEN not in use a tablecloth should be kept in folded creases and when brought out to be spread should be laid on the table and unfolded its entire length the width being doubled up in the center crease along the center of the table. Then the half breadth that is folded should be turned back and the cloth will hang even. Careless servants often gather up a cloth "anyhow" without taking the trouble to fold it up again in its own creases and thus fresh ones are made. A tablecloth will keep fresh-looking as long again if it is always folded up in its own folds and put away until the next meal. The French have a way of making even an inferior quality of table linen look well without the aid of starch. When the napkins are washed and ready to be ironed they are dipped into boiling water and partially wrung out between cloths. They are then rapidly ironed with a hot a flatiron as possible without burning them.

PETTICOATS

THE smartness that is only skirt-deep has no attraction at all for the woman whose knowledge of, and fondness for, dress is a deep-rooted, and not merely an acquired taste. Under the "hobble" tyranny, it is true, opportunities for much variety were, in a double sense, limited, and the narrow proportions of the tube skirt excluded anything in the nature of "fussy" underwear. But the root of the petticoat and the suppression of the full skirt, notwithstanding, no woman has regarded the question of lingerie as a secondary consideration, and as the wide skirt came into being thus the petticoat resumed its rightful sway once more. Further, it openly declares its presence, ignoring the ancient, if unwritten, law that a petticoat, though it may be heard, should never be seen.

Those who criticize the generous display of ankle which fashion has sanctioned of late, and called for longer skirts, find that in the new models their wishes have been met, though not, perhaps, quite in the way they desired or expected. Beneath the hem of some of the latest jupes is plainly visible, sometimes to the depth of three or four inches, a succession of tiny frills placed on an unponderable foundation of nylon or some similar substance. Thus has fashion avenged itself on critics, and thus does the underskirt give tangible proof of its existence.

But this ethereal petticoat, which is, after all, only an apology for that once more essential garment, and is really a lining in disguise, is not alone sufficient to perform the whole duty of a jupon which, in the absence of hoop or whalebone, is to lend support to the skirt under which it is worn. For that the services of the new foundation petticoat are enlisted, a garment of which the breadth and stiffness might be embarrassing were it not for the restraint which characterizes its length. It is fashioned of glaze silk and reinforced with multitudes of minute tucks and frills, and its flaring career ends somewhere about the knees.

A CREPINE WORK BAG

CARE OF THE REFRIGERATOR

BY MRS. MCGUNE.

HOT or even warm food should never be put into the refrigerator. It will raise the temperature, and with it the ice bill.

Every time the ice chamber is to be filled the remaining piece of ice should be removed and the compartment wiped out, then the ice replaced. The new ice should be in one piece and should be washed before putting into the refrigerator. Where ice is put in from the outside it is particularly important to have clean ice. Artificial ice is much cleaner to use, but it is not always possible to procure it.

A set of white enamel dishes and plates is a great aid to cleanliness. Bowls and oval dishes of this ware can be turned upside down and used as covers. Cut glass and fine china should never be put there, as the danger of chipping or even breaking is great.

The use of cracked or chipped dishes for food is greatly to be deplored. The rough surface left by the cracks or chips is an excellent place for bacterial growth.

Uncooked meat should be kept in a covered enamel dish.

Food should never be covered with paper of any kind, with the possible exception of oiled paper, used only once.

Milk bottles should be washed before being put in the refrigerator.

Eggs with barnyard soil should not be put in the refrigerator. Eggs should be kept in a rack or dish with one layer, so they may be used in the order in which they were bought.

The contents of the refrigerator should be examined daily, and no stale food left there.

If anything is spilled it should be cleaned up at once.

The shelves and floor of the refrigerator should be cleaned thoroughly at least once a week.

In this weekly cleaning all food must be removed. The racks should be removed and washed in hot soapy water or soda solution, scalded, and then dried, and if possible sunned. The inside of the refrigerator should be thoroughly washed.

The drain pipe should be cleaned with hot soda or soapy water and with a long-handled bottle brush. After it is thoroughly cleaned, boiling water should be poured through it. If the waste water drains into a pan, this, too, must be thoroughly washed in hot soda or soapy water and then scalded.

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

WHEN it is heard that a gown is of corded tulle silk, that it is prune colored, that it has a short velvet jacket, and velvet ribbon on the skirt, and that a high pleating of white tulle stands around the neck and runs down the front of the figure to the waist, it sounds as though one were talking of another day than ours, doesn't it?

Yet this is a description of one of the Frenchiest of French gowns that is to be worn by smart women. This gown of prune-colored silk and velvet also points to another fashion which will gain many adherents when the spring arrives. It is the fashion of wearing a jacket which is really a blouse, and which does not necessitate a third garment to complete the suit.

One of the most interesting features of this frock is the V-shaped opening, which is filled in by the extra high pleat of white tulle, a touch which is repeated at the hem of the bell-shaped elbow sleeves. There have been many intimations that this old-fashioned neckwear will be revived for the spring of 1916.

Women have already taken up the idea of wearing coats without blouses, filling in the opening in front, if there is one, with a vest of organza or white satin, which extends into a collar. They do not remove the coat; it is part of the gown. When they need added warmth for the open they put on a top coat.

At the present moment, when most of the French houses are insisting upon it gently, and apply some cold cream. The face should be massaged after the effects of steaming have passed away—not directly after it. When massaging the face gently pinch the spots where the scars or marks of the pimples still remain.

THE woman who finds it difficult to do her household tasks in gloves, yet who values unstained nails, should get in the habit of digging her fingers into a cake of white soap before beginning to work. The soap fills up the nails, prevents other substances from getting under, and is at once removed as soon as the hands are washed. If it is not convenient to use white soap, a pure kitchen variety will answer, but it often irritates sensitive skins. Filling the finger nails with soap is also to be recommended for women gardeners. Always keep a half of lemon on the kitchen sink and rub the tips of the fingers in it as soon as the hands are washed after rough work. This is an excellent way to remove fruit stains, an important consideration in summer.

OUTSTANDING ears are far from beautiful and are usually the cause of careless dressing in babyhood. A thoughtless nurse will put the child's bonnet on without passing to see if the ears are perfectly flat against the sides of the head and unless care is taken in this respect the ears get all doubled up and protrude in an ugly manner, which becomes quite a disfigurement as the child grows older. If the ears of a young child have a wayward tendency to protrude a bandage should be tied round the head at night, not too tightly, but just to prevent the ears from doubling over when the little one is laid to sleep.

IF the busy housewife can spare an hour or so each day in the exercise necessary to retain her youth and beauty, all well and good. But, if not, each daily task can be utilized to improve some part of the body. Dashing cold water, followed by hard rubbing, tones up the skin and prevents colds, improves the circulation and takes no more time than a languid rub with a wash cloth. Even dressing can be made useful in this respect when the housewife stands up to button her shoes. The knees should be kept rigid and the bending should be entirely at the waist. Instead of sitting to dress the hair, hang the mirror at a convenient height and as you put in the pins rise and fall slowly on the toes, keeping the chest well up. This strengthens the back and ankles to a great extent.

MILADY'S BEAUTY

TO successfully manœuvre the nails yourself, soak the tips of the fingers in a bowl of warm borax water. You can at the same time put borax under the nails, which tends to bleach them. File the nails smoothly with sandpaper boards that are purchased for the use and remove all stains with ammonia. A nail polish too often applied has a tendency to make the nails more brittle. The professional manicurist advises polishing the nails with paste polish three days in succession, then not again for two weeks, though the nails must be smoothed and rubbed with chamomile each day.

WHEN one has a resting time forced upon her is the psychological moment to get busy with the hair. Every woman knows the benefits of tonic treatments, but every woman knows equally well what a sight she is during the process. Therefore, instead of bemoaning when the baby gets the measles or Ruth or Bob comes down with chicken pox, shutting one in the house, improve the opportunity to strengthen your locks. You can even resort to crude petroleum without afflicting callers. Separate the hair into strands and apply tonics nightly without fear of flattening; rub in vaseline often, and let the hair hang for ventilation.

AS a rule hair is much better stained by a professional. Otherwise the artifice is sure to show. Walnut stain, however, can be put on carefully at home, either by a friend or by oneself, if sitting before a triple mirror. Apply the stain to the long hair only, using a narrow toothbrush for the purpose. Keep a cloth in the hand to wash off the least particle of the coloring that gets on the scalp. If wiped off at once it does not stain; otherwise the scalp coloring is a sorry giveaway, though the hair looks of nature's own dye.

THERE are many people who are bothered with scars left by hard, ugly pimples. The best way to clean the skin and restore it to a clear condition is to steam it. The face should be carefully steamed every night until the skin is quite clear and then it need not be done so often. Make a cone of paper and fit one end of it to the face and the other to the outside of a pitcher or a tin pail or kettle. Pour a quart of boiling water into the pail and place the face in the cone. Let the face remain over the steam until it ceases to be given off, which will probably be about ten to twelve minutes. After the steaming pat the face dry, rubbing

STOP, LOOK & LISSEN!

Last Sunday morning about 10 a. m., whilst the most respectable folks of Bingville was on their way to church to attend deevine worship, there was a big old he-ottymobeel with seven men in it from the co. seat or somers else, bizzed through Bingville at the rate of 100 miles per hour more or less, but the general opinyun is more.

It rusht rite through the Main st. of the town like a streak of greased lightning, makin more noise than a thrashin masheen, and tootin its horn at evry jump. Almost afore a person who seen it comin could say, "Here it comes!" somebody else would holler, "There it goes!"

It like to of run over five liens and one Plymouth Rock rooster belonging to the Widow Skinner who was out in the middle of the road scratchin around & scairt en outen seven yrs. growth—the rooster aint crowd sinst and not one of the five hens has laid a egg, so the widow says.

Not only that, but it jest missed runnin over Hank Dewberry's hound dog by the skin of his tail & Hank aint seen his dog sinst—Hank says he kalkulates he never will, neither, judgin by the way the dog was running when he last seen him he guesses he is runnin yet.

Malachi Watkins who is as deaf as a post had even a narrer escape than the hound or the chickens. Malachi happened to be crossin the street in front of the church when the ottymobeel was comin for him full tilt. The feller runnin it blowd his horn, but Malachi didnt hear nothink of course. Mel Sampson was standin on the sidewalk in front of Malachi wavin his hands in horror & hollerin as loud as he could holler for him to git outen the way unless he desired to be rund over! Malachi seen Mel makin motions and to make matters worse stopt rite in the middle of the road & put his hand to his ear and hollers back, "You'll haft to speak a leetle mite louder, Mel."

Jest at that instant the ottymobeel whizt past Malachi so clost that it aksually grazed his coat-tails. By the time Malachi realised what a narrer escape he had from instant deth the ottymobeel was five mite further on.

Seth Dewberry our lion hearted town constubble who was settin an his front piazzet readin when he seen the ottymobeel whiz past rusht into the house for his revolver, and pind his badge on his vest and polist it up and run outen the house and run haft a mile after the ottymobeel until he was all outen breath, but Seth was too late, being as by this time the masheen must of had 15 miles start on him, so Seth returned home exosted & in disgust.

Monday evg. Cy Hoskins chairman of our board of selectmen consisting of hisself, also Ame Hillyer & Alonzo Skillings, cald a mtg of the board in the back of Hen Weathersbys store to take steps to prevent ottymobeels from passin through our midst too dogged fast.

As a result of this mtg. two signs has been put up at each end of the town bearing the follerin words:

WARNING!! OTTYMOBEELISTS WHO GOES THROUGH THIS VILAGE EASTERN 2 MILES A HOUR DOES SO AT THEIR OWN PERIL & WILL BE PERSECOTED TO THE FULL EXTENT OF THE LAW WHATEVER THAT IS! GUVVERN YOURSELFS ACCORDING OR TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES!

TOWN SELECKTMEN.

Constubble Dewberry says he will a rest all ottymobeelists who goes fastern above "Warning!"—pervided he can figger out some way to stop em in their mad career.

Miss Mehitable White daughter of Dave White our accommodatin undertaker is visitin friends at the co. seat. Dave says if her trip cost enythink he couldn't a ford to let her take it being as business in his line has been terrible dull lately. Well, Dave, it's a ill wind that don't blow nobuddy some good.

Mrs. Lafe Whitacre is at present engaged in makin her husband a night-shirt outen cotton flannel. She says Lafe wants enuff material in a night-shirt to make a couple of nightshirts for a ordinary man. Lafe says he doesn't care if he does being as if its enythink he hates it's a nightshirt which is too tite & you git all snarled up in.

Local Mentchion

Jed Peters our intelligent school teacher says he will be terrible glad when school lets out for the summer which wont be long enny more being as-then he will git a good rest. Jed says he aint fizikally tired but mentally fatigued. Teaching school all winter long is hard brain work for the huming intelligents.

Hen Weathersby prop. of our general store has nailed the top on his cracker barl. Hen says it's amazing how fast his crackers disappears yet he can't never seem to ketch enny of the lazy loafers who inhabits his store stealin em on the sly.

Deacon Andrews aint readin the Bible as faithful evry day as he was a spell back when he was sick with the grip. When the Deacon don't feel well he reads a chapter evry day, but when he's in good health he leaves off doin it and can even cuss a leetle mite if it's necessary.

Miss Milly Underwood done a fool thing tother day when she tuk off her wool stockings jest becuz it was warm. Next day it blowd up cold & she ketchd a cold on her lungs & is cof-in like evrythink.

Miss Sary Ann Green has finally got into the church quire after a long struggle & big opposition to her. The other members of the quire says she hollers so loud when she sings that they can't be heard a tall and some of em threats to resign.

Andy Skinner had his bay mare to take sick on him last wk and sent for Doc Livermore our veterinary & huming speshialist. Doc give the mare a qt. or two of medisins of various kinds and now she's convalescing so Doc says. Andy says Doc give her enuff medisin to kill her, but strange to say it didnt.

Rufe Green walkt out of church last Sunday with Miss Phronicia Watkins, who persented a ridiculus apperants becuz three buttons on the back of her waist was unbuttoned. Why didnt you let Rufe button em for you, Phronicia?

Lem Brown our expert carpenter while repairing one of his own hen-coops tother day hit the nail on his thumb instid of the nail which he was holdin betwixt his thumb and finger. Lem swore very vilent for a few minits and was so mad he throwd the hammer through the kitchen winder & now he has another job on his hands.

Disappointment!

Ben Doolittle one of the most respected citizens of Calamitty Corners (or that's what we have alius thort up to now) dropped into the Buggie office one day last wk. and without no warnin to prepare us for what was comin planked down a $10 bill on our desk and said for us to give him credit to that amount on back subscription.

We wassent feelin enny too well enywhow when Ben cald and the shock & surprise of gittin so much unexpected wealth all in a lump like to of tuk us offen our feet and made us swoon away. After we had recovered sufficient we thanked Ben very profuse for the $10 and give him a receipt for same hoostin his subscription up to Jan. 1, 1911.

After Ben had went we hurried home and told our wife what a terrible blow of good fortune had befall us from which we went down to Hen Weathersby's store to lay in a supply of groceries & other necessities of life.

We bought $3.32 cts. worth at Hen's and when we cooly handed him the $10 note to take his pay out of Hen was almost as flabbergasted as we was until he put on his specks and tuk it to the light and examinid it and then told us it was a Confederate bill and wassent worth the paper it was writ on after which he tuk the groceries outen the basket and put em back on his shelves.

To think that Ben Doolittle would play sitch a mean trick makes our blood bile in the extrem and unless he makes this matter right with a real $10 bill we'll rake & scrape up somethink about his past if possible & smooch his reputation by printin it in the Bugle pervided Ben's got enny reputation to smooch. If Ben forks us over 10 dollers without no questions askt we are willing to drop the matter but not otherwise.

Hen Made a Mistake

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, weighed out a lb. of suggar for Snide Petersby tother evg. jest about dusk before he had lit up in the store and it was dark and Snide paid for it with great cheer and departed.

On his way home Snide stopped several folks and showed em the suggar and said he never got so much suggar for a lb. before in his life. Well, after Snide had went and Hen lit the lamps he discovered that the 2-pound weight was on the scale which he didnt notis when he weighed out the suggar for Snide. Then Hen knowd Snide had got the best of him being as he had give him 3 lbs. of suggar & only got paid for 1 lb.

Next time Snide come into the store Hen explaind the matter to him and asked Snide to pay for the extry 2 lbs. but Snide refused & said that he only askt for 1 lb. and if Hen give him three lbs. that was his look out & not him. Hen got mad and said he would charge it up to Snide on the books. Snide told Hen to charge it and shoot it, but he'd never pay it. Snide also told Hen rite to his face that for 1 lb. of overweight in suggar or enythink else which he ever give to a customer he kalkilated Hen was the gainer by 15 lbs. of overweight. Hen got madder madder & said he'd make Snide prove them words. Then Snide whipt his 2-foot rule outen his pocket & measured the yardstick which Hen measures all his goods with & it measured only 32 inches. After this Hen kind of cooled off and told Snide to let bygones be bygones & say no more about the suggar.

CLEARENCE SALE OF WOOD BOXES!

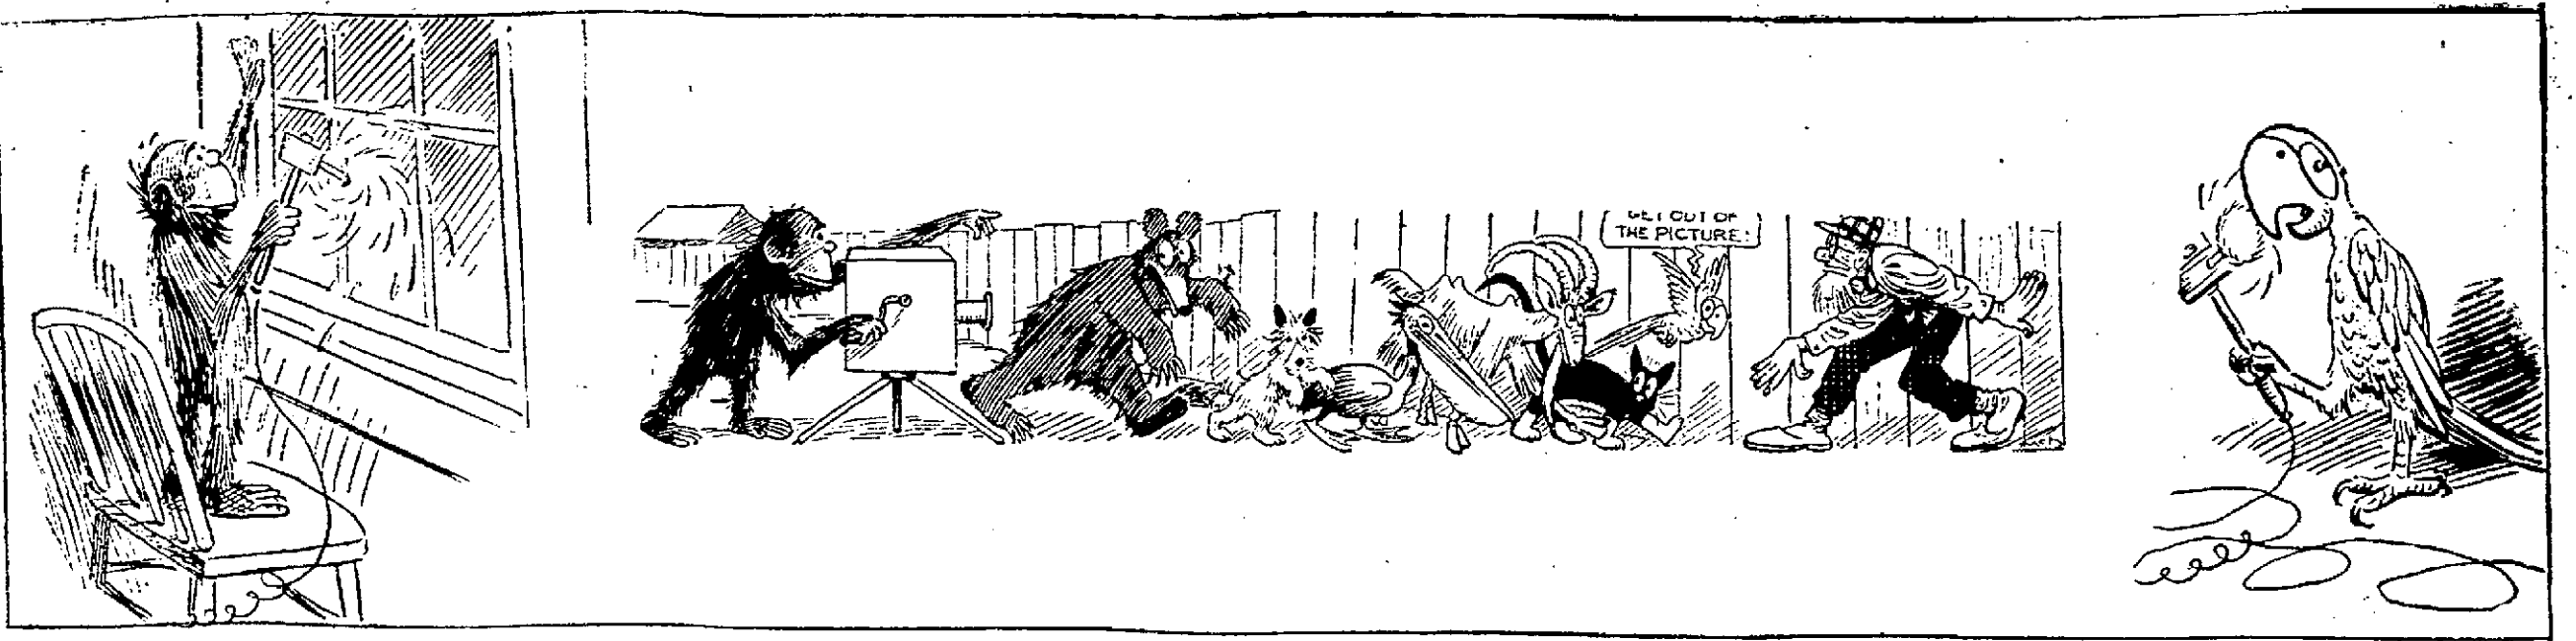

As prop of the Bingville General Store with new goods arrivin evry wk or two I find that the seller of my store is all clutterd up with wood boxes of every description which boxes has been shipd in & which boxes aint no use to me whatever being as they are only in the way and as they didnt cost me a cent I am a going to get sitch of them regardless of cost.

Therefore beginning next Monday morning and lastin several days or untill these boxes is all sold off I will hold a mammoth clearance sale of Wood Boxes. Do you desire a wood box to put wood in or for enythink else includin odds and ends of every description? In that case attend this sale.

What is handier than a wood box when you want one for somethink and cant git one nowhere? Thens when you realise what a terrible boon a wood box is to humanity. Buy one of these boxes now even if you dont need it becuz it will come handy in case of a emergency.

Some of these boxes is big and some is small and others is betwixt & between includin all sizes too numerus to mention. I charge according to size, but if you take a dozen boxes often my hands I will make you a special rate. If you cant use these boxes for nothink else you can bust em up for kindlings. They burn fine. I know becuz I have ben bilingd fires with em in my stove store evry mornin all winter. Yours for boxes.

Hen Weathersby, Prop. Bingville Genl. Store. BINGVILLE.
